FAITHFUL UNTO DEATH.

The Interesting Story of a Follower of Don Carlos.

A man who was famous in the politics and intrigue of Western Europe many years ago died, poor, friendless and almost unnoticed, in Paris two weeks ago. He was Gen. Juan Jose Sempe, the adjutant and chief executive of the Spanish pretender, Don Carlos.

Sempe was a rich lawyer when he met Don Carlos in Pau. He became interested, then hypnotized by the cause of the pretender. As he sat in the hotel one afternoon at a wedding breakfast a messenger brought a dispatch to him. He read it, walked out, put on his hat, and for five years was not seen again by his nearer friends. The dispatch was from Don Carlos, who, as soon as Sempe reached him, handed him a thousand 1,000-franc notes, saying:

"Deposit this money in the bank. It is to be used in beginning the war. Then come back to me and we will cross the Spanish border."

Sempe obeyed. He disguised Don Carlos, and tried to get him into Spain unobserved, but they both were detained by Spanish soldiers. The commander of the soldiers did not recognize Don Carlos, but was convinced that he was an important prisoner. Sempe put on Don Carlos' disguise during the night and escaped. Once outside the camp, he let the soldiers know of his whereabouts, and they, supposing that the more important of the prisoners had got away, gave chase, leaving Don Carlos in Sempe's clothes to wander off at his leisure. Sempe was caught, but Don Carlos reached France in safety. Sempe was abused and half starved in captivity, but he bore his sufferings without a murmur, and subsequently he entered the Carlist war without much hope of anything save showing his faithfulness to his friend, the pretender.

He left Spain at the close of the war without a penny of his former fortune. He could not practice law in his native land and in Paris there was no professional way open to him. He and his wife lived in two rooms with only the money which he earned as a copyist to support them. Eventually he got a clerkship in a bank with a salary of $350 a year.

As clerk he worked uncomplainingly, without appeal to the powerful persons who were once his friends, year in and year out, until his wife died. After her death he told an acquaintance that he had seen enough of life, and had no heart for more of it. He then sank steadily to his death.

In his room after his death the officials found only 40 cents in money, a package of letters from Don Carlos, a manuscript of memoirs of the Carlist war, and a few pieces of old, plain furniture. On the first page of the memoirs were the words: "Faithful unto death."—New York Sun.

The Oldest Mathematical Book.

The oldest mathematical book in the world, which dates some 4,000 years back, and was written in Egypt, contains a rule for squaring the circle. The rule given is to shorten the diameter by a ninth, and on the line so obtained to construct a square; and this, though far from being exact, is near enough for most practical purposes. Since then the amateur squarer of the circle has been a thorn in the side of the professional mathematician. Learned societies, at last, in pure self-defence, made a rule that all solutions of the problem sent to them should, without examination, be consigned to the flames. In the last century a Frenchman named Mathulus was so sure he had succeeded in squaring the circle that he offered a reward of $1,000 to anyone who proved his solution erroneous. It was shown to be erroneous if not to his own satisfaction, at least to that of the courts, and he had to pay the money. Mathematicians have long been convinced that the solution was impossible; but it is only a few years since they were able to demonstrate this. A German professor named Landmann published in 1882 a demonstration, which was accepted by the scientific world as satisfactory; so that would-be squarers of the circle may now rest from their labors, seeing that it has been mathematically proved that the thing can not be done.—Engineers' Gazette.

Her Confidence Shaken.

"Its a dreadful thing not to have confidence in one's husband," said Mrs. Swifkins.

"Yes," replied the visitor, "but you surely have no trouble with yours."

"That is all you could be expected to know about it. I was playing poker with him the other evening and he raised the limit on two deuces, and then got scared and called me. Now, what is to become of a woman who has trusted her future to such a man?"

Clear Case of Contempt.

The dispenser of the finest brands of western justice sat on a soap box, says the Detroit Free Press, with a law book spread before him on an up-ended whisky barrel.

"Who arrested this man?" he asked as the prisoner stood up before him.

"We did," responded half a dozen citizens standing around.

"What's the charge?"

"Hoss stealin'."

"Kin you prove it?"

"You betcher life we kin; we ketched him in the act."

The judge looked ugly.

"Will you swear to it?" he asked.

"Course we will; didn't we jist tell you we ketched him at it?"

"All right, gents," said the judge blandly, as he laid his gun across the law book. "I'll fine each an' every one of you $10 and costs for contempt of court in fetchin' him here, and dismiss the case agin the prisoner. You oughter strung him up when you ketched him."

THE LANGLEY CASE.

Lansing People Hear of His Illness and Subsequent Cure while in London, Ont.—Much Pleasure Manifested Over the News.

LANSING, Mich., July 2—A friend of William Langley formerly of this city, now of London Ont., received a letter a few months ago stating that Mr. Langley had Bright's disease. Of course no hope of his recovery could be held out. Within a month, the same friend has received a letter from Mr. Langley stating that he is completely cured of the supposed fatal disorder. Mr. Langley says no medicine did him any good until he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. These helped him from the first and in the end restored him to perfect health.

CAUSE OF BOWEL COMPLAINTS.

The direct cause of pain and looseness of the bowels, is an irritation of the mucous membrane of the same, sufficient to produce excessive peristaltic or worm-like motion in the interior of the bowels, thus the partly digested food matter is kept constantly passing along and evacuated freely. This is called a diarrhœa; where the irritation is enough to cause bleeding, we have dysentery. Indirect causes of diarrhœa, by which an irritation is started are intestinal dyspepsia, overeating unripe or over-ripe fruit, tainted meats, or oysters etc.; torpor of liver, by which not enough bile is secreted; excessive flow of bile, etc.; TREATMENT. Thoroughly evacuate the bowls with Parsons' Pills, they are among the best to get rid of all irritating matter. Then take Johnson's Anodyne Liniment in teaspoonful doses diluted with water, every four hours, and oftener if the case is severe. In case of Asiatic cholera, one teaspoonful should be given every half hour. Thousands of people remember the year 1849, when the worse known epidemic disease spread over this country. Johnson's Anodyne Liniment at that time was little known ontside of the state of Maine. But for its use at that time by its friends, many would not now live to spread the joyful news that any case of diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera-morbus, or kindred diseases, can be cured by Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. It nevr yet failed. The proprietors, I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., will send their new illustrated book, entitled "TREATMENT FOR DISEASE," free to any person for the asking. July 25
