Inmates of the Penitentiaries.

The annual report of the Inspector of Penitentiaries shows that at the end of June, 1889, the number of persons in the five penitentiaries was 1,196. A year later the number was 1,251. The number sentenced in the year was 431, three less than in 1889. The number discharged was five more than in the previous year, so that though an increase is reported in the number of convicts, the increase of 1889 was larger. The convicts are distributed as follows:

Kingston	586
St. Vincent de Paul	342
Dorchester	174
Manitoba	73
British Columbia	76

There are only 22 women in the penitentiaries. With one exception these are imprisoned at Kingston. The Inspector reports that "the number of recidivists is on the increase." A recidivist may be explained as a person who has been there before.
These habitual criminals exercise a bad influence upon those not steeped in crime.
They go out to repeat their crimes, and the sentences which are short have no terror for them. Mr. Moylan points out that in Ohio after the third conviction the sentence is for life. The Inspector is strongly in favor of indeterminate sentences. He quotes with favor the report of the national prison congress, which says:

"The idea of punishment and fixed terms in prison should be abolished, and arrest, conviction and incarceration until fitted to go at large, or for life if unfitted should be the rule."

The report of the Dorchester penitentiary states that a marked improvement has taken place in the conduct of the prisoners. The manufacture of pails, butter tubs, washboards and clothes pins is still going on. The pails are sold to the Adley Manufacturing Company.
Mr. Moylan recommends some more profitable industry, "say broom making." "I am gratified," says the inspector "to be in a position to express approbation at the manner in which the general affairs of the penitentiary are administered as observed during my annual visits."

Explorer of Buried Cities.

DEATH OF DR. HEINRICH SCHLIEMANN, THE ARCHEOLOGIST.

Dr. Heinrich Schliemann, the archeologist, is dead. Dr. Schliemann was born at Ackers-hagen, in Mecklenburg, in 1822. The passion for excavation was first developed by the legend that a small hill back of the village was a prehistoric burial place, and that the ruins of neighboring round towers contained vast treasures. At the age of 12 the future archeologist was selling herring, butter, cheese and other groceries, working from five in the morning until eleven at night. A chan-s recitation of Homer by a drunken miller revived the early ambition and filled the grocer's clerk with an intense desire to devote himself entirely to explorations in Greece and Asia Minor. In the meantime he had mastered several modern languages, and had learned to read Greek with ease and delight. In 1868 he retired from business and set about the accomplishment of his life-long purpose. He made a rapid survey of the field of the great Homer story, beginning in the Peloponnese, passing through Athens, and reaching at last the plains of Troy. It was not until October 11, 1871 that Dr. Schliemann began the work that was to associate his name with the greatest of the Greek poets and the most famous episode of ancient history. Since that time the record of his labors on the plain of Troy and in the Peloponnese has been given to the world by his own hand in a series of deeply interesting works descriptive of his methods, his discoveries and his personal convictions in regard to many important points involved in the Homeric story. He aroused antagonisms among archeologists, but he also aroused a deep and fruitful interest in archeology, and he added not a little to our knowledge of a remote and very significant epoch of history.

He was for a long time a resident of Indianapolis, Indiana, being a naturalized citizen of the United States, and a large property-holder in that city. He was twice married, his first wife leaving him two children at her death. His second wife, who was a remarkably handsome Greek lady, bore him two children, whom he named Agamemnon and Andromache.

Over 800 houses were burned at Yoko-

The Thames was frozen over in 1788, 1794 of the century, a terrible snow storm raged throughout the Midland counties.

Two distinct earthquake shocks with but a few seconds intermission, occurred at San Francisco at two minutes past noon on the 2nd January. The vibrations were nearly

It is officially stated that 1,150,000 Christmas parcels have been delivered by the British post office, of which 115,000 comprised turkeys, fowls, game and Christmas pudding.

How to Treat a Cold.

Don't stuff a cold, as the old adage advises, if you do you will have a fever to starve. A genuine cold is a shock received by the many million nerves which approach near the surface of the human body, and which control the nearly seven million pores of the skin. This shock closes the pores of the skin, is transmitted to the nerve centres and back to the mucous membranes forcing a great amount of blood to those membranes, creating more or less irritation and consequent fever, inflammation, dryness, then watery discharge and catarrh. The shock may have its cause from a chill, from improper eating, a nervous fright and various other causes which irritate the nerves of the skin and mucous membranes of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes. Excess of food in the stomach still more clogs the system and pores of the skin so that effete matter which should be carried off by the natural courses, is retarded; which is ample reason for not stuffing a cold. Experimenting with a severe cold is a dangerous custom, as most persons try one remedy only until some friend suggests another "sure cure." When slight hoarseness or tightening of the nasal membranes warns one of a skin exposure or chill from whatever cause, act promptly; delays are dangerous, with children it may mean croup and strangulation; with adults, catarrh, bronchitis, perhaps pneumonia. If neglected, nothing can prevent the sneezing, red nose and woe begone look of a person with a cold.
Scores of mothers would as soon go to bed without matches in the house, as without that old-fashioned remedy, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, near at hand for colds and croupy children. Used with a mild laxative, as described on the wrappers or in the pamphlet which I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., will send free to anyone. Johnson's Anodyne Liniment will cure a cold quicker than any known remedy. A mild, nutritious diet, a gentle physic to open the secretions, and a bottle of that old Anodyne from your druggist, will cure any cold.

A SUCCESSFUL FARMER.—A Pugwash correspondent of the Amherst Press says: M. H.
Wright, of St. John, formerly of Pugwash, who left here for Charlottetown, about a week ago for the purpose of purchasing some brood mares for his farm here, has returned with three beauties. One two-year-old Percheron, 1400, and a yearling Percheron, 1200. The third is a three-year old, and is a standardbred, and shows remarkable speed. Mr.
Wright's farm is one of the best farms in the country. He has a farmer employed belonging to P. E. I., who no doubt is capable of running it.
Mr. Wright says if those turn out all right he will put on other stock later on. If there were a few more men in our town with as much enterprise as Mr. Wright, we would have a different town in a few years.

AN IMPORTANT INDUSTRY.—The plaster business is an important industry in Han's County, N. S., furnishing as it does employment to one thousand men, if the crews of vessels engaged in the carrying trade are included. During the past year 147,685 tons have been exported from that county.

DOING WELL.—All patients inoculated with Dr. Koch's lymph at the Massachusetts general hospital, New York, were inoculated again on the 3rd inst., and are all doing well. A batch of new patients will be admitted next week, when the 24 beds set apart for lymph treatment will probably be filled.

A JOURNALIST DROWNED.—William Weld, a prominent agricultural journalist and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, London, Ontario, accidentally fell into a water tank at his residence on the night of the 3rd, and was drowned.

Dyspeptique—Is not a palliative, but
