THE LEGISLATURE.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL DEBATES

Mr. CAMPBELL.—I take the responsibility of any statements I make, and I say the Government put forth that statement made by Messrs. Chalmers and Davison, knowing it to be false, and here is the proof in their own Public Accounts. After they had run to the end of the year, although there was a deficit of $30,000 on the year's transactions, they show a total debt of $154,000 on the 31st of December. I make no charge against those two gentlemen, they made up a statement as they were instructed and took the figures given them by the officials, but here is the proof in the Public Accounts of the Province that the statement was not correct.

Hon. Mr. LAIRD.—Does he tell us those two gentlemen were dictated to by the Government? Does he tell us they did not understand their business, and that they made a statement which was not correct?

Mr. CAMPBELL.—They were guided by the figures the officials gave them.

Hon. Mr. LAIRD.—Does he still persist in saying those gentlemen issued a false statement? I ask him to publish in one of the daily papers, tomorrow, that those gentleman prepared a false statement and put their names to it. When we are discussing the finances of the province, I will go fully into that statement prepared by Messrs Chalmers and Davison.

Mr. CAMPBELL—I repeat my assertion, either the statement of Messrs Chalmers and Davison was false, or the Public Accounts for the year are false. Will the hon. member tell us which is correct?

Hon. Mr. LAIRD—If the hon. member does not know how to compare accounts he had better get a man who can, and he will find these statements are perfectly correct. He knows he has the shelter of the walls of this House around him, but I ask him to publish his statement if he dare.

Hon. Mr. ROGERS.—His honor runs away with the idea that because the country was in debt $171,000 in April, that therefore it must be that much in debt on December 31st. He forgets that the Government might pay off a large part of that indebtedness before the end of the year. The hon. member has not fully considered the question.

Mr. SCRIMGEOUR.—I wish to state that this Bill will ensure to every man the rights and privileges which he now enjoys. The hon. member from Eldon complains very hard about not getting information, but I remember very well when he was Leader of the Government in this House how difficult it was to wring information from him; it was like drawing teeth, and on one occasion we had to tell the Government that no more business would be gone on with until information was submitted to this House. When we went to the departments the doors were shut in our face, and we could get no information. That was the way we were treated in the Public Works Department. The present Commissioner of Public Works is a gentleman who fully understands the business, and the money is well expended. There is not that amount of boodling there was formerly. What state was the Public Works in when the present Government came into power? Not a boat fit to ply on the ferries nor a wharf to fasten them at. Those hon. gentlemen will get all the information required, but it is impossible for the officials in the Departments to get up in a day or two, answers to all the questions they put on the Order Book. I am glad the hon. member is in the cool shades of Opposition, and I hope if he is ever in a Government again he will treat the Opposition better than he did when he was in power.

Mr. NICHOLSON.—When I was at the head of the Table I was always ready to give an answer to every question I was asked, I never tried to keep back any statement. There was one statement I could not get, but I was always ready and willing to get any statement as far as lay in my power. There is one thing rankles in the mind of the hon. member—he went to the Public Works Office to see the vouchers in regard to some contract, but he was not satisfied with that he afterwards demanded a copy of those vouchers to be laid on the Table and the Secretary would not give it to him.

Mr. SCRIMGEOUR.—I went to the Public Works Office in reference to a certain work, and I found some matters that required to be looked into, so I asked to have a copy on the Table of the House, but it took me nearly a year before I got it.

Hon. Mr. LAIRD.—I believe his honor from Eldon always did his best to procure statements asked for by the Opposition, but at the same time the results were not satisfactory, men who held higher positions were to blame.

Mr. DODD.—The late Government looked with disdain on this House, and they would not give us any information until it pleased them to do so, and sometimes we never got it. The Leader in this House always behaved in a gentlemanly manner, but he could only get the information as the Government chose to give it to him.

LETTERS TO EDITOR.

Corn Culture.

To the Editor of the Guardian:

SIR,—As many of the farmers are making preparations for sowing a small area of corn, a few words as to its culture may not be out of place.

MANURE.

A liberal quantity of farmyard manure worked into the soil will be profitably applied.

A well rotted sod generally gives satisfactory returns.

PLANTING.

This may be done in two ways:—

1. In rows—not less than three feet apart. One grain every six inches in the row will be sufficient seed.

2. In hills—this will prove best on exceptionally dirty ground, as it will admit of cultivation both ways. The hills should be three feet apart both ways, with from 3 to 5 grains in a hill. A simple way of putting it in hills is as follows: Prepare land to fine tilth, then run furrows about three inches deep across the field three feet apart. At right angles to the furrows mark the field with a marker made as follows: Take a twelve or fifteen foot plank about ten or twelve inches wide, at every three feet and at the ends fasten on a runner or shoe of wood about two inches wide, four inches deep and about 18 inches long—make some kind of an arrangement whereby it can be drawn by a horse or horses. If this is drawn across the furrows it will make mark enough to tell where to plant. At each intersection drop the grains, three to five, and cover with the foot by drawing over the grains some of the earth thrown up by the plough, then push gently with the foot. In using the marker after the first time across the field, the end runner follows in the last mark made.

CULTIVATION.

As soon as the corn is two inches above ground it should be harrowed over with a light harrow, and may be repeated several times before the corn is six inches high. This will keep down weeds. After this cultivation, between the rows or hills will keep down all weeds, and promote growth. It can be continued until the corn is higher than the horse with profit.

KINDS OF CORN.

The Pearces Prolific and Longfellow are two good corns that will come to maturity for the silo. Pride of the North will be probably a week later. Then there are the large corns—M. S. S. and Red Cob, which are too large for P. E. I. Many prefer them for feeding purposes; but if the farmers only knew it, there is more real feeding value in the smaller varieties.

More depends on the cultivation of corn than is generally supposed, and often a failure results from the lack of cultivation. The ground should be stirred once a week at least.

After the corn gets to be two feet high, cultivation should be shallower and more away from the roots.

The conditions for securing good corn for the silo, or for winter feeding, are: (1.) early planting, which should be shallower; (2.) then seeding; (3.) frequent cultivation.

GEO. HARCOURT.

A Great Speech.

A few days ago the great temperance meeting of the General Conference of the M. E. Church of the United States was held in Omaha, Neb., and the report places the attendance at over 5,000 people. Dr. A. B. Leonard was the chief speaker. No brief summary can do justice to Dr. Leonard's magnificent address. Here are a few extracts:

"Sweep away every license law upon our statute books and every vestige of the infernal revenue which quiets public conscience, and an outraged and long-suffering people would rise as one man and stamp this curse out forever. If this be 'free whisky' make the most of it.

"Can a man be a Christian and a rumseller? ('No! no!' from a hundred voices.) Why not? Why should every Portestant Church in this country bar its door against the saloonkeeper and shut him out from its communion? You answer me, 'because no drunkard can enter the kingdom of heaven, therefore no drundard-maker can.' Let me take a vote. Every person who believes a man can be a Christian and a rumseller, hold up your hand. (Not a hand was raised.) Now those who believe this dual existance to be impossible raise your hands. (A thousand hands were raised at once.) Unanimous. Let me raise another question. 'Can a man be a good citizen and a rumseller?'

"Measured by the ten commandments, the saloon-keeper violates every law, human and divine.

"Every one who thinks that no man can be a good citizen and a rumseller raise the hand. (Again the hands went up.) Now, I have a final question. 'If no man can be a Christian or a good citizen and rumseller, can any man be a Christian or a good citizen who votes to legalize this murderous business?' All who think that this is equally impossible raise your hands. (About a third as many hands as were before.) Ah! you are not so ready to vote as you were a few minutes since when we were giving the rumseller his due.

"This is where we divide. We are strong on resolutions, but weak at the ballot box. The greatest trouble with us temperance people is that we do a tremendous lot of ballooning. We pass great resolutions denouncing the liquor traffic, and publish them to the world as the expression of our convictions; then we get in a balloon and soar aloft. Meanwhile the saloon-keeper, wily politician that he is, fixes up the caucus, makes his slate, nominates a ticket and telephones up to us: 'Come down, good people, come down; we have done all the hard work, and all you will have to do is come down and vote.' So we come down and vote the ticket the rumseller fixes up, pass some more resolutions and go up and balloon for three hundred and sixty-five days more."

Undoubtedly many diseases may be prevented if the blood is kept pure and the general health-tone sustained by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla. When this is done, the germs of

La Grippe, Diphtheria

Pneumonia, Scarlet and Typhoid Fevers, Malaria, etc., cannot lodge in the system. After all such prostrating diseases Hood's Sarsaparilla has been found of inestimable value in restoring desired health and vigor, and purifying the tainted blood.

For example, read the following from Miss Mattie A. Cobb of Providence, R. I., and her mother. Miss Cobb is a young lady of 18, a and is in the front rank in her studies in the High School. Her father is a well-known police officer:

"Messrs. C. I. Hood & Co.:

"I write to tell how much good Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. Sometime ago I had diphtheria and was sick for a year afterward, being

Weak, Blind and Helpless

I used one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and it made me real strong." MATTIE A. COBB, South Chester Avenue, Providence, R. I.

"As my daughter wanted to write how well she liked Hood's Sarsaparilla, I thought I would say a few words. I think it is the ever brought before the people. Some of my friends say 'go away with your medicine.' I said the same once, but since my daughter has taken

Hood's Sarsaparilla

My opinion has changed considerably." MRS. GEO. N. COBB, Providence, R. I.

HOOD'S PILLS do not weaken the system like other cathartics, but actually tone up and give strength to the patient.

As I Want

TO give every Farmer a chance to reap a good harvest, I have decided, after a year's experience in the Lime business that I can, with a small profit and large sales, put the price of Lime within the reach of every Farmer in the country to get sufficient Lime to enable his land to yield him the fruits of his labor, which it is impossible to expect land to do without the aid of lime or some other more expensive stimulant. Parties taking Lime throughout the cropping season, will have the benefit of the cash price by settling their accounts by July 1st, 1892.

Price and terms for this season:
Unriddled Lime for farm purposes, cash 62 cents; credit 67 cents.
Riddled Lime for Mason and Plastering, cash 65 cents; credit 70 cents.
Riddlings or Slack Lime, cash 20 cents; credit 25 cents.

WONDER IN WELLAND!

A Representative Farmer Speaks.

MR. C. C. HAUN.

The following remarkable facts are fully certified to as being undeniably correct in every particular. Mr. Haun is well known in the vicinity, having resided here over fifty years, and is highly respected as a man of the strictest honor, whose word is as good as his bond.

As will be seen from his letter, four physicians had attended him, and it was only after he had given up hope of cure that he decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters on the recommendation of a neighbor who had been cured of a similar disease by its use. Mr. Haun writes as follows:

DEAR SIRS,—I think I have been one of the worst sufferers you have yet heard of, having been six years in the hands of four of our best doctors without obtaining permanent relief, but continually growing worse, until almost beyond hope of recovery, I tried your Bitters and got relief in a few days. Every organ of my body was deranged, the liver enlarged, hardened and torpid, the heart and digestive organs seriously deranged, a large abscess in my back, followed by paralysis of the right leg, in fact the lower half of my body was entirely useless. After using Burdock Blood Bitters for a few days the abscess burst, discharging fully five quarts of pus in two hours. I felt as if I had received a shock from a powerful battery. My recovery after this was steady and the cure permanent, seeing that for the four years since I have had as good health as ever I had. I still take an occasional bottle, not that I need it but because I wish to keep my system in perfect working order. I can think of no more remarkable case than what I have myself passed through, and no words can express my thankfulness for such perfect recovery.

C. C. HAUN,
Welland P.O.

In this connection the following letter from T. Cumines, Esq., a leading druggist of Welland, Ont., speaks for itself:

Messrs. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto.

GENTLEMEN,—I have been personally acquainted with Mr. C. C. Haun for the last 20 years, and have always found him a very reliable man. You may place the utmost confidence in anything he says with regard to your medicine. He has on many occasions within the last four years told me that it was marvellous the way the Burdock Blood Bitters had cured him, and that he now felt as able to do a day's work as he ever felt in his life. Although quite well he still takes some B. B. B. occasionally, as he says, to keep him in perfect health.

Yours truly,
THOMAS CUMINES,
Welland, Ont.

The steadily increasing sale of B. B. B., the length of time it has been before the people, and the fact that it cures to stay cured, attest the sterling merit of this monarch of medicines, the people's favorite blood purifier, tonic and regulator.
