IT IS THE FACT, Think as You Please

It is not generally known, but it is a fact readily proven by the investigations of science, that the real danger from every known ailment of mankind is caused by inflammation; cure the inflammation and you have conquered the disease in each case. Inflammation is manifested outwardly by redness, swelling and heat; inwardly by congestion of the blood vessels and growth of unsound tissue, causing pain and disease.

INFLAMMATION

External inflammation accompanies bruises, bites, cuts, stings, burns, scalds, chaps, cracks, strains, sprains, fractures, etc., and is the chief danger therefrom. Internal inflammation frequently causes outward swellings; as instances familiar to all we mention pimples, toothache, stiff joints and rheumatism. Yet the great majority of internal inflammations make no outside show, for which reason they are often more dangerous than the external forms.

Causes Every Known Disease!

Inflammation of the nervous system embraces the brain, spine, bones and muscles. The breathing organs have many forms of inflammation; such as colds, coughs, pleurisy, bronchitis, etc. The organs of digestion have a multitude of inflammatory troubles. The vital organs form one complete plan mutually dependent; therefore inflammation anywhere is felt more or less everywhere, and impairs the health. The late Dr. A. Johnson, an old fashioned Family Physician, originated JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT, in 1810, to relieve pain and cure every form of inflammation. It is today the Universal Household Remedy.

Of all the nerve-tonics—bromos, celeries or nervines—your doctor will tell you that the Hypophosphites are best understood. So thoroughly related is the nervous system to disease that some physicians prescribe Hypophosphites alone in the early stages of Consumption. Scott's Emulsion is Cod-liver Oil, emulsified, with the Hypophosphites, happily blended. The result of its use is greater strength and activity of the brain, the spinal cord and the nerves.

THE COUNTRY HOMES.

A LETTER DESIGNED TO HELP SOME OF THEM TO BETTER THINGS.

Three Hundred Acres of Land Not the Only Good Thing in the World—How to Make a Home That Will Keep the Young on the Farm.

Of all places, the most dreary and miserable are some country homes, writes Aref Cee in the Practical Farmer. No flowers, fruits or books, nothing to make life pleasant or happy. Nothing but drudge and work and scrimp and save, and perhaps, when a little money is saved, the good man buys another piece of land. Most farmers have too much land instead of too little, and the children are put to work as soon as they are old enough and often before, and are expected to work week in and week out, like Orphan Annie, for their bread and keep while a hired boy or man does the same work and gets his pay regularly. Why is it some people would rather pay strangers than their own children I heard a man say a short time ago he didn't know why it was, but as soon as his boys got three feet high they commenced to talk of leaving the farm. I could tell him the reason. Simply this: His boys work from sun-up until sunset. They have no pleasures, no holidays, but their father has 300 acres of land. Why not give the boys and girls a chance Give them a small piece of ground. Let them plant and tend it, and let the money that the vegetables or small fruits bring be theirs. Let one try strawberries. They are easily raised and very profitable. We had a small patch last year and raised 160 quarts of delicious berries. Think what that would be to a boy or girl. Let another try onions. The potato onion is our favorite. They can be bunched and sold in the spring or be left to ripen and sold in the fall. They grow very large, do not go to seed and are a sure crop. Popcorn is another crop for the children. Cucumbers are easily raised, and if mulched with straw will not dry up in the hot summer months. Or perhaps they would be more successful with live stock. Give them a small pig, a few chickens or a calf. Have them work for it, and after they have earned it, let them have all the care of it, and when the calf or pig is sold don't pocket the money. Try also to have your homes cheery and pretty. The furnishings need not be costly, but it does not take much to transform the usually vacant country sitting-room into a cosy room with a very "homly" air. Get drapings for windows. If you cannot afford lace, get dotted swiss and make such curtains. With a narrow ruffle of the same, this makes the daintiest curtain imaginable. For pictures, get pretty studies. Have a few bright rugs, even if they are just braided rugs. And books—have plenty of them for the long winter evenings. Reading is our chief occupation. Get good books, and books for the children as well as for the elder ones. If you are busy, have the reading done aloud by one member of the family while the rest work. Then, have games for the children. Checkers, parchesie, dominoes and authors are enjoyed by little and big. Make your homes attractive and I am sure the boys and girls will not want to leave the farm, and you will never regret making the surroundings of your children pleasant.

Implicit Obedience.

A mother sometimes says that her boy or girl is certainly different from other children; that nobody could manage that child.

This is never true, or it is the parents' fault if it is the case. No child was ever born so depraved as to be totally unmanageable if surrounded by the proper influences. Naturally some children are more amenable to reason than are others. Some yield gracefully, while others are quietly or aggressively obstinate. The sine qua non to the proper training of a child is to insist upon implicit obedience. without this, discipline avails nothing. Lacking this ground-work, the parent or guardian has simply to content himself with waiting until years have brought the child the wisdom that will teach him to conduct himself properly. Undoubtedly the parents who ruled during the first half of this century were often too severe in their discipline.

But have not the fathers and mothers of this generation erred too far in the other direction? I think I am safe in asserting that absolute and prompt yet cheerful obedience on the part of the children is not found in more than one out of every ten households at the present day.

A few days ago I was the unfortunate witness to the behavior of a sweet-faced, daintily clad six-year-old girl at a children's party. Her mother was with her, and tried to persuade her to accompany the small host, a lad of eight, out into the garden to see the flowers. The girl hung back, and hid her face in the folds of the maternal gown.

"Grace darling," urged the mother, "go with Willie and see the pretty roses, won't you, dear?"

A negative shake of the partially concealed head was the only answer.

"Grace, my pet, please go for dear mamma's sake?"

Another negative shake.

"Darling, you are mussing your pretty hair. Now listen. Mamma says you must go."

And then the child spoke: "And I say I don't want to go!"

And she staid just where she was until, the feeling of strangeness wearing off, she finally consented to join in the other children's sports. When the time came for taking leave she burst into tears and was only induced to go on the promise that "Papa should buy his little girl a pound of candy for her own self the next day."

There are several rules which mothers should decide to follow. Never nag. When you give a command, insist that it shall be obeyed promptly. Avoid an issue if possible, but the issue once raised, have your way. Force yourself to always speak calmly and gently. The mother who can perfectly control herself can always control her child.—Harper's Bazar.

Crowded Out.

"Rose, I hope you have more discretion than to tell Gabrielle any secrets."

"I never have a chance; she always takes up all my visit telling me hers."

Testing His Honor.

Your druggist is honest if when you ask him for a bottle of Scott's Emulsion to gives you just what you ask for. He knows this is the best form in which He ake Cod Liver Oil.

Pennies in Hiding.

There are 119,000,000 old copper pennies somewhere. Nobody knows what has become of them, except once in a while a single specimen turns up in change. A few years ago 4,500,000 bronze 2-cent pieces were set afloat. Three millions of these are still outstanding. Three million 3-cent nickel pieces are scattered over the United States, but it is rarely that one is seen.—Boston Budget.

An Unfailing Attraction.

An unfailing attraction to passers-by on one of the downtown side streets is a lot of recently hatched chickens shown in the window of a poultry store. The chickens are all hatched from an incubator. The whole of the wide front window of the store is given up to them, and they run in and out of the brooder and scratch about, and eat in most approved chicken fashion.—New York Times.

Chinese Coolies in Germany.

Emigration to America has created such a scarcity of farm hands in Germany that land owners are now importing Chinese coolies in hordes for field work in Silesia, East Prussia, Posen and Pomerania, says the Chicago News. The coolies work for twenty cents a day, with the result that many Germans who have hitherto refused to emigrate are being forced to do so through lack of work. When the Chinese coolie has extended his grasp a little the Chinese problem of Germany will be the same as ours.

She Wears a Dagger.

The up-to-date young woman is now wearing a dagger. Not for the purpose of stabbing her lover, however, but merely to add to the picturesqueness of her apparel. The dagger is large as ornaments go, and her favorite way to wear it is thrust through the drapery of her gown at the corsage.

Daggers for evening wear are also more effective with the hilt entirely covered with fire opals.

Even with her tailor-made gown the society girl is wearing a dagger. It is then made of beaten gold or silver.

INJURY AND NEGLECT.

He Failed in Health and Strength—His Kidneys Ached and he took Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Deseronto, Feb. 8 (special).—Among business people here, and especially by his fellow workmen, great interest has been taken in the case of Mr. James Stoke, who for the past fifteen years has been shipper for the Rathbun Company.

Lately he had run down in health and strength to the point of being compelled to quit work, and his recovery now as the result of using Dodd's Kidney Pills is the talk of the town. On seeing Mr. Stokes he said:

"From over-lifting and strain I suffered greatly from kidney trouble, being advised, after all else had failed, to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. From the first dose I got relief, and hundreds of people here can vouch for my cure."

She—O, Jack! Do you know, Mr. Gibbon punctuated his tire yesterday?

He—You mean punctured, my dear.

She—Well, anyway, he came to a full stop.

The Life of Dr. Chase.

As a compiler of Chase's Recipe Book his name is familiar in every household in the land, while as a physician his works on simple formulas left an imprint of his name that will be handed down from generation to generation. His last great medicine, in the form of his Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, is having the large public patronage that his Ointment, Pills and Catarrh Cure are having. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is especially adapted for all Bronchial and Asthmatic troubles.

A pretty decoration for a bedspread used in a pink room was a large wreath of sweet peas worked in the center. The material for the spread is white linen with a wide hemstitch.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY:

ASTHMA FOR YEARS.

"I have suffered very severely from asthma for over twenty-five years," says R. G. Moore, of Hamilton. "If I ventured away from home the change of air would bring on such bad attacks that I was afraid I would suffocate at times. A short time ago I found it necessary to go to Paris, Ontario, on business. On the way my old enemy attacked me with great severity. As soon as I got to Paris I went to Armitage's drug store and bought a bottle. It relieved my Asthma, and although I have been away from home several times since, I experienced no more trouble. I regard my quarter as well spent, and intend to send some more after it."

A PREVENTATIVE OF COLDS.

"I have been a chronic sufferer from severe colds for a long time," says Miss Hattie Delaney, of 174 Crawford street, Toronto. "Usually at this season of the year I did not know what it was to be free from them. Nothing did me much good until I got a bottle of Chase's Linseed and Turpentine. It not only cured my cold, but I have not had another since. I ascribe the credit wholly to Dr. Chase."

A BANKER'S EXPERIENCE.

"I tried a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for a troublesome affection of the throat," writes Manager Thomas Dewson, of the Standard Bank, now of 14 Melbourne avenue, Toronto. "It proved very effective. I regard the remedy as simple, cheap and exceedingly good. It has hitherto been my habit to consult a physician in troubles of this nature. Hereafter, however, I intend to be my own family doctor."

A CROUPY COUGH.

"My little boy had a bad croupy cough," says Mrs. Smith, of 256 Bathurst street, Toronto. "My neighbor, Mrs. Hopkins, recommended me to try Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. I did so, and the first dose did him good. One bottle completely cured the cold. It is surprising the popularity of Chase's Syrup. It appears to me it can now be found in every house."

PROVED MOST EFFECTIVE.

"I used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for severe throat trouble," writes Mrs. Hopkins, of 254 Bathurst street, Toronto. "It proved most effective. I regard it as one of the best household remedies there is. It is easy and pleasant to take and drives out the cold with surprising celerity."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine soothes and heals the affected parts, relieves the over-charged membrane, relieves congestion of the air passages; arrests the progress of fever and inflammation. It is prepared from the finest demulcents and expectorants from the prescriptions of Dr. Chase, and is specially effective in Croup.

MONEY TO LOAN.

In the Footsteps of Fashion.

A black velvet waist is one of the most serviceable articles of attire that a woman can own.

Some new Paris hats, toques and bonnets are made entirely of mohair braids, and are worn with tailor-made gowns of cloth, trimmed with braid and fur.

Yellow, in all its seductive shades, still continues to be one of the most fashionable and fetching of colors. Combined with pale rose or green or white it is exquisite. Taking it all around, it is the most stylish color of the season.

The French modiste insists upon the return of the bustle, but the strong, athletic, healthy woman rebels against the suggestion, just as she has rejected the voluminously draped skirts. Freedom from fashion's tyranny, where it impedes the easy, graceful movement now so much prized by sensible women, is becoming rather difficult to suppress.

The days of the theatre hat are a tale that is told, and in its place are bits of lace and bows of ribbon, and tiny fluffs of feathers that are called, by purest courtesy "opera bonnets." The woman who wears the big picture hat, still dear to her heart, removes it as soon as she takes her seat in the theatre, and thereby instantly induces an unwonted feeling of gratitude and piety in the breast of the man or woman who may chance to sit just back of her.

Feminine Small Talk.

The gloves that enjoy the highest favor have only one button apiece in these days, and even this makes them almost too long for the sleeves that must fall to the knuckles.

Diamonds should be worn by the brilliant woman, but the quiet one should choose pearls. The beauty of a brunette is enhanced by rubies and topazes and of a fair-skinned woman by emeralds.

Evening gowns with square-cut necks are much worn this season. The square neck is more becoming to sloping shoulders than the round neck, and lace and chiffon ruffles can be used to give the edges a soft and dainty finish.

A pretty evening waist of chiffon in pale blue, rose, lemon, cream, lilac or Nile green, has the neck cut square and edged with fur. It seems an incongruous combination—the dainty mistlike material trimmed with winter's richest fur—but the effect is very charming. Chinchilla, sable, ermine, and seal are the best furs for trimming chiffon, being the softest and richest looking.

Around the House

The Roman silk scarfs which were so popular some years ago make nice drapery for the pictures or to throw across the table corner.

Chamois skins should be washed in warm water to which a little ammonia has been added. Never squeeze and wring the chamois, but press it and shake it and hang it where it will dry rapidly when taken out of the water. Pull it and stretch it while it dries, and the skin will retain its softness and pliability.

A prettily furnished hall gives an air of elegance and comfort that one cannot afford to do without. The majority of halls are built much like rooms and should be furnished like a reception-room. Handsome quartered oak chairs, pretty rugs, a Chinese umbrella jar, a lamp, a small table and a flowering plant or two, with pretty mantel curios and a few suitable draperies, will transform a hall into a delightful reception-room.

For Fair Women.

A combination much in vogue and always pretty is violet and green.

The velvet gown is undoubtedly the winter's favorite toilet.

A large number of the new evening gowns are trimmed with lace designs appliqued to the material. They are particularly effective when they adorn the sides of the skirt.

An exquisite dinner gown which has just been designed is made of deep cream color silk. The skirt has two narrow panels of green velvet, which are adorned with yellow lace roses and leaves appliqued to the velvet.
