White Sox Crush Tigers; Boston Thumps Senators

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chicago White Sox padded their slim American League lead by handling the still - stumbling Detroit Tigers a third consecutive defeat, 9-5 Thursday and Boston's Ted Williams' pushed his batting average to .455 with a 3-for-3 day as the Red Sox swamped Washington 12-7.

In the only other AL game scheduled, Cleveland Indians uncovered Kansas City's masquerade 5-3, ending the Athletics' winning streak at three games.

Cincinnati's come-alive Redlegs made it four in a row—pulling up to .500 with a 6-3 job on Chicago Cubs in the lone National League game. Brooklyn and New York, only other NL teams scheduled, were stopped by rain.

The White Sox, now 6-1 for the season and a half-game ahead of the idle New York Yankees, moved ahead of the Tigers with a three-run third inning.

They chased southpaw Billy Hoeft in a game that had 29 hits—11 doubles—and 25 runners left on base. Minnie Minoso and Bubba Philipps each drove in a pair of runs for the sox. Nellie Fox, upping his average to .423, was 3-for-5 with two doubles and a single in Chicago's 16 - hit barrage. Jack Harshman won it, with Millard Howell's relief.

TWO-RUN DOUBLE

Williams had a two run double and two singles and walked three times. The Red Sox battered five Senator pitchers for 15 hits. Gene Mauch also chipped in a two-run Boston double as George Susce claimed the decision with a three-hit relief job over 5 2-3 innings. Clint Courtney's two - run homer got rid of Boston started Willard Nixon in the fourth and the Nats were without another hit until Clint tripled with two out in the eighth.

The Indians, thrashed 17-6 by the A's the night before, won their third game in nine tries with a three-run seventh capped by Vic Wertz' two-run double off starter Wally Burnette. Ray Narleski salvaged Early Wynn's first victory, coming on after Gus Zernial made his 200th major league home run good for two runs in the eighth.

Four Cub errors provided the Redlegs with three unearned runs as Cincinnati made the most of six hits that included Don Hoak's two-run double. Brooks Lawrence won it with Young Dick Drott the lower, despite a 9-6 Chicago edge in hitting.

Spike Briggs Might Not Last Out The 1957 Season

DETROIT (AP)—Front - office squabbles in the Detroit Tiger organization broke into the open Thursday and indications are that Spike Briggs won't last out the year everybody gave him as general manager.

When the club changed presidents last week, switching from Fred Knorr to Harvey Hansen in a surprise move, there were widespread rumors that Briggs — the club's president before Knorr took over last October—would be eased out of the picture.

The rumors were revived Thursday when Detroit News columnist Edgar C. (Doc) Greene quoted Briggs as saying he was prepared to resign. Green quoted Briggs as saying the ball club's new owners—eleven strong—are trying to run it as if it were a factory or something."

It also was revealed that Briggs, whose family owned the Tigers for years until the record $5,500,000 transaction last summer, has prepared a letter of resignation "just in case."

Later, Briggs called the story "a collection of ridiculous nonsense."

"People are just trying to make something out of Knorr's resignation", he said. "He just had to devote more time to his radio and television interests, that's all. As far as I'm concerned, I have a verbal contract with the new owners and I'll stay as general manager as long as they want me. I've been liberally misquoted, that's that's all."

But a reliable source close to the new owners said that they have been unhappy about some of the things Briggs has done and said, that "certain things have been discussed thoroughly and Spike has had several things spelled out to him."

Complimentary Dinner Given Former Chief Game Warden

A complimentary dinner tendered former Chief Provincial Game Warden Spurgeon Jenkins by sportsmen of the Province at the Queen Hotel last night was highlighted by the presentation of a beautiful, suitably engraved wrist watch as a further token of appreciation of his strict adherence to enforcement of the Game Act, for over thirty years.

President Ralph Jenkins of the Provincial Fish and Game Association presided. After extending a welcome to the well attended and representative meeting, he requested B. Graham Rogers to make the presentation, which he did in a few well-chosen words.

In accepting the fift, Mr. Jenkins referred to the courtesy and cooperation extended to him by the Minister and Deputy Minister of Industry, Resources and Fisheries, under whose jurisdiction he operated following retirement from his Federal Government position six years ago. He also told about several highly interesting experiences particularly in the earlier years of his work. "I thank you with all my heart for your expression of good will," Mr. Jenkins said.

Deputy Minister P.A. Murnaghan expressed the regret of Hon. Dougald MacKinnon, Minister of the Department at being unavoidably absent. He referred to the cordial relations which existed, adding: "I think we all agree that Mr. Jenkins has done a wonderful job and it will be difficult to replace him in an important position."

"A job well done in the line of duty," was the keynote of brief remarks by a number of speakers from various parts of the province as they extended good wishes to Mrs. Jenkins.These were: Eddie Acorn, E.H. Stewart, Aldius MacKenzie, Frank Acorn, Tom Lothian John White, Art Hogan, Arthur Ross and Dan McRae of Heatherdale who received a big hand when his age was announced as eighty-one and still an ardent sportsman.

The meeting closed with singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Giles Announces New Rule; Hoak Action Causes Change

CINCINNATI (AP)—Warren C. Giles, president of the National League, announced Thursday that in the future both the runner hit by a batted ball and the next succeeding runner or batter will be declared out if the runner wilfully permits himself to be struck.

The American League also is adopting a similar rule, effective Thursday, Giles said.

The change is the result of an action by Don Hoak, Cincinnati player, who on April 21 in Milwaukee while running between second and third after getting a hit fielded a batted ball and prevented a possible double play.

Giles said both the National and the American leagues will recommend to the scoring rules committee that in such cases, the batter will not be credited with a base hit when the umpires call intentional interference.

Batters in such instances have been credited with a hit.

In a statement, Gile said:

"If in the umpire's judgment a runner wilfully and deliberately interferes with a batted ball with the obvious intent to prevent a double play, the ball is dead, the runner is out for interference and the umpire shall also call out the next succeeding runner because of the action of his teammate.

"No runner may advance and no run may score.

"The purpose of this is to add an additional penalty when a base runner deliberately and intentionally interferes with the batted ball (even going to so far as to 'field' the ball) to deprive the defence of an opportunity to complete a possible double play. The spirit of the rules requires that runners avoid interference wherever possible."

Miami Marlins Slaughter The Rochester Royals 7-0

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Miami Marlins handed Rochester a 7-0 repulse Thursday night in an International League onslaught on Hal Lovenguth.

The Marlins scored twice in the third inning after two men were out. Cal Abrams doubled. Larry Novak walked and Woody Smith singled, scoring Abrams. Francisco Herrera's single drove in Novak.

The fourth inning opened with a putout but then the rain of base hits began. Miami pitcher Bob Conley beat out an infield Hit. Don Landrum doubled to right centre, boosting Conley to third, and Ben Tompkins drew a free pass.

Lovenguth then walked Abrams, forcing in a run. Novak popped out but Smith hit a 340-foot grand slam home run over the left field wall.

When the next batter, Herrera, blasted out a double, Lovenguth wa through for the evening.

Conley never was in trouble and returned the last 10 Royals who faced him.

Pitchers Seem To Do Well Despite The Adverse Rules

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—His name is Selva Lewis Burdette, Jr., but manager Birdie Tebbetts of Cincinnati Redlegs apparently thinks the first part is a typographical error, and it should be saliva.

The Milwaukee pitcher has been vindicated by umpires and National League president Warren Giles of Tebbetts' charge that he is a split-ball artist, and throws the pitch that was outlawed 37 years ago.

Possibly because he has a peculiar mannerism on the mound that gives the impression he is moistening his fingers, and also possibly because he has a sharp-breaking ball that baffles batters, Burdette has on several occasions aroused the suspicion he was pitching what you might call a sloppy game. Wet, anyway. Either the spitball is difficult to detect or it isn't thrown, for we haven't yet heard of a pitcher being penalized for its use. The penalty is pretty stiff—immediate disqualification and suspension for 10 days.

We have our doubts that it could be thrown effectively without a lot of practice. When it was legal the pitchers went to the mound equipped for the delivery, meaning they were munching on a slab of slipper elm. From a performance standpoint the slick juice had the same effect as putting oil in the crankcase of a car.

The fact only 15 or so pitchers were relying on the pitch when it was outlawed indicates the difficulty in mastering it. If it was easy, and so effective, all the pitchers would have been using it.

One thing that has always puzzled us is that despite the fact the pitchers were allowed to do practically anything to the baseball short of taking off the cover in the early days, there were more .400 hitters and hitters for high average than there are today.

Everyone is weeping over the poor downtrodden pitchers, but there were only nine .300 hitters in the National League last season, with the best mark Hank Aaron's .328. It would seem the pitchers are doing quite well without giving the ball a little personal attention.

Biggest Upset Of All Time

Sir, - There have been so many fistic upsets or form reversals recently that they've become the expected rather than the unusual.

When Floyd Paterson topples a fellow like Archie Moore, the critics label this the upset of all time. But when upsets are remembered there is only one that deserves rating.

That occurred that June night in 1935 in the long since gone Madison Square Garden Bowl, wherein no champion had ever successfully defended his title.

The was the night James J. Braddock, the Cinderella man plodded and stabbed his way to a sensational upset over Max Baer for the Worlds Heavyweight Championship.

Braddock was considered completely washed up years before and had retired from the ring after losing twenty fights and being tossed from a Mount Vernon ring in a bout with Abe Fildman, the referee calling it no contest after half a dozen rounds.

James J. Went to work as a stevedore on the harbour docks to feed his wife and children. As Primo Carnera trained in 1934 for his ill fated defence against Baer, a Georgian named Corn Griffin bumbled Primo repeatedly, he was chosen for the semi-final and Braddock importuned to come out of retirement and act as guinea pig, but in the third round James J. crossed his right to Griffins jaw and Griffen went back to Georgia.

Braddock then upset heavily favoured John Henry Lewis and followed by whipping Art Lasky in 15 rounds. Max Schmeling refused to fight Braddock asking for a return fight with Baer, but this was disallowed and Braddock drew the shot, his chances were laughable. There were 35,000 crowded in the sprawling Bowl for the fight and the gate receipts were $205,366, smallish for a heavyweight title fight even in the closing days of the great depression and Baer had a weight edge of 209½ to 193¾.

At the very outset Braddock struck the champion with his left and moved in to his right and Baer never got close. Max was listless and seemed sure that he would eventually land a shot and bring the challenger down. but by the end of eight rounds he was tired of chasing the bobbing and weaving Braddock.

Through the last four rounds the crowd stood and cheered every Braddock gesture, he was fighting a planned fight and it paid off. The referee and judges gave him a unanimous decision and the biggest upset of them all was a reality.

On July 2, 1921, Rocky O'Gatty and Frankie Burnssetto were in the first boxing bout in ring history to be fought while a broadcaster was giving a general description with a microphone at ringside. He was Makor J. Andrew White, the pioneer broadcaster, also this was the first bout in ring history that a loud speaker was used.

Roger Becker Draws Rebuke From Tennis Association

LONDON (AP)—Roger Becker, Britain's No. 2 ranked Davis Cup tennis ace, has drawn a harsh rebuke from the British Lawn Tennis Association for his "unsatisfactory deportment" in Florida tournaments this spring.

S. B. Reay, secretary of the British body, said Thursday the reprimand followed an official complaint from the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

Reay declined to give the contents of the USLTA's "adverse report" but in New York, Harold Lebair, chairman of the USLTA international play committee, said the report resulted from Becker's "attitude on and off the court."

"We received a complaint from the Florida association saying. . . Becker was not co-operative, that he played as if he was just going through the motions without caring whether he won or lost and hat his attitude was not good."

Becker who since has returned to England, said he felt the slap in the wrist was unjustified.

"I think a suggestion was made in the report that I was not trfing some tournaments," Becker said. "That is completely ridiculous."

Race Driver Builds Own Car

ST. CATHARINES (CP)— Bill Sadler leaves for England April 27 with his self-designed and self-built 290-horsepower sports car in which he will compete in European races during the next six months.

The wellt - known, 25 - year - old driver is to race at Aintree, near Liverpool. Later he will compete in Italy and France with his Sadler Special Two.

He built the Special Two in the basement of his auto-electric shop here. The motor is an experimental factory model, which Bill says will give his car a top straight-away potential speed of 180 miles an hour.

His stay in Europe may extend to years if he gets a good offer to drive for a foreign sports car manufacturer.

Failing this he intends to return and enter the international races at Sebring, Fla.

Bill started tinkering with cars 10 years ago. Since then he has won several races with an earlier self-built Sadler car.

Richmond Virginians Beat Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Bill Bethel Thursday night pitched Richmond Virginians to a 4-2 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs in the opener of a three-game International League series.

Bethel yielded six hits in recording his second triumph and second complete game to keep the Virginians in first place.

He made one bad pitch—to Stan Jok in the sixth inning. Jok hit a home run to score Sam Jethroe, who had walked, ahead of him. The walk to Jethroe was the first Bethel had given in his two starts.

The Vees won the game with three unearned runs in the third inning against rookie Bob Shaw. Shaw had given a run in the second on a walk and singles by Tommy Carroll and Bob Kline.

The roof fell in the third as the Vees scored three times on three walks, a throwing error by Loren Babe, an error by Rocky Nelson and just one hit, a single by Johnny Jaciuk.

and made subject to all kinds of gossip.

Touching on election predictions, he said he had heard forecasts that there would not be much change in the June 10 vote and he was inclined to agree with that.

On foreign fronts, Mr. St. Laurent predicted that the West will ease soon trade barriers with Communist China. The matter had been under discussion at the recent Bermuda conference by the leaders of Britain, the United States and Canada. Later the U.S. announced proposals for reducing the list of Western items which could be shipped to Red China and Canadian officials said they favored the relaxation.

FIRST SINCE 1954

Mr. St. Laurent's cabinet changes are the first since July 1954. He indicated that if he is returned to power, there will be others.

For example, Mines Minister Prudham and State Secretary Pinard have announced they will not contest their seats. They are to remain at their posts until the June vote.

To observers the biggest surprise in the announced changes was the appointment of Mr. Hellyer. For some time there has been agitation among Liberal supporters from Toronto for cabinet representation.

The new Toronto minister has been parliamentary assistant to Mr. Campney since February, 1956. He now will get $27,000 a year instead of the $14,000 as MP and parliamentary assistant. The government has had no associate defence minister since July, 1954.

Low-Vision Eye Clinic Opens

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's first low-vision eye clinic for persons unable to be helped by ordinary glasses will open today at Montreal's Jewish General Hospital.

Its function will be to fit ultra-strong magnifying and telescope lenses for persons with vision as low as five per cent.

Dr. Aubie Issenman, chief opthalmologist, says the clinic will accept patients referred through regular eye clinics and opthalmologists and who previously had to go to a New York hospital operated by the American National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

The micro-lense, which will enable a man with five-per-cent vision to read small headlines, will be one of the newer developments provided as necessary.

Fewer Fires In New England

BOSTON (AP) — Forestry officials reported fewer woods fires in New England Wednesday. One factor, they said, may be improved co-operation by the public.

But in New Hampshire, Governor Lane Dwinell ordered all woodlands closed at noon today until the fire danger abates.

New Hampshire has had no rainfall for 15 days.

In Massachusetts, an official at forest fire control headquarters at Hudson said Wednesday's fires were "not too bad when compared with Sunday and Monday."

Up to mid-afternoon the biggest Massachusetts fire was one that burned 50 acres of brush and woods at Bedford.

In Rhode Island, two brush fires gave fighters a three-hour battle.

Maine wardens reported one small woods fire in New Sharon.

Vermont officials said the fire hazard there is not great enough to warrant closing the woods to the public.
