The Wall Flower

A MEETING
Chapter 41

It was the one decision Dora had ever made against the open opposition of her aunt, and the silent depression of her father which acted as a struggle as all the other influences to keep her tied down. She made ready to go—the "making" being to pack her very few possessions into a shabby trunk and put a nightdress and waist into a funny little black bag that had been her mother's, and old fashioned then.

She was to take an early morning train to Albany, change to an express and arrive in New York early in the evening. Gloria had written it out so she had no trouble. Her father saw her off—the rest of the family being too busy to pay her that parting courtesy. Gladys had decided, since she was a married woman, that she should go in for Bridge and Five Hundred and afternoon parties, rather than the guessing games and the more childish amusements of former days. A card party was to happen that afternoon and Gladys was busy spending the morning making refreshments for it. Gladys had no maid—Norris City, in fact was quite out of the way and most unsophisticated in its outlook upon life.

Aunt Maude was to "finish up" early and go over and help. Uncle Peter was out at the farm part of the time—so it was left to Jim to see her to the station.

And Jim was the last thing she saw of the town as the train pulled out. Or rather the last one.

A quiet voice behind her said, "Hello Dora." and she turned with a start at the sound. It was a voice that was going through her mind and her heart almost every waking hour.

Morton stood by the seat—in fact, quite casually sat down. He handed her a large white package. "Chocolates—!" he explained awkwardly. "Send-off, you know. Sorry you're going—I mean, I'm glad."

"Oh thank you! I mean are you?" was as intelligent an answer as Dora could make.

"I'm going down just to the next station, got business there." Morton felt his presence needed a explanation. "Nice you can both go on the same train—I mean, it gives me a chance to say goodbye."

Dora was not stupid. In spite of her inhibitions, her feeling of inferiority to everyone, her great consternation with Morton—she knew from his voice and his manner that he had no business in the next town, and was doing this to say goodbye to her. It was his one way of showing her he was sorry for everything that had passed.

The next town was a village of 310 minutes down the line. He wanted to know whether she knew how to change at Albany. She showed him the letter of direction. He explained in greater detail, and then there was a sudden lurch between them when he went over this line before and changed at this point, he was on his homely moon with Gladys.

He shook hands goodbye, scarcely touching her fingers. She watched him from the window—turning out of the village and heading down the road towards Norris City again. But she understood the awkward attention. Morton knew he had hurt her and was sorry—and generously that she was going to napper surroundings. It made her feel sad yet that sort of sadness was rather precious.

The chocolates were all she had

MRS. MARGUERITE K. O'LEARY, of Reading, Pa., who says she has gained eight pounds and can hardly find words to express her praise for Tanlac for the good the medicine did her.

"I am so happy over what Tanlac has done for me I can hardly find words to express my praise," said Miss Marguerite K. O'Leary, who lives with her parents at 1223 Chestnut St., Reading, Pa. "I wasn't exactly what would be called 'fat' but for a year I had been all run down and sometimes felt so weak and miserable I could hardly hold up my head. I was so nervous the telephone bell or a door closing would startle me so I would tremble like a leaf."

"I needed something to build me up and give me strength," and energy and that is exactly what Tanlac did. It gave me a fine appetite and improved my digestion. I gained eight pounds the color came back to my face, my nerves became normal and I soon felt as well as I ever did in my life. It is simply wonderful that medicine could make such a big change in any one. My friends and neighbors are surprised when they see me now, and no wonder, for I look like a different person. Tanlac is grand and I never intend to miss a chance to say a good word about it."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

to eat that day, for she had not the courage to go into the restaurants near the station in Albany. She sat in the waiting room and read until her train came. Then, half in terror for fear she had gotten on the wrong one—there were so many—she hurried up by the window to get her first glimpse of the river. The Hudson fascinated her so she forgot to be frightened. But when the train reached the station in New York and everybody rose as one person and began scrambling towards the door, she was wrenched from nervous excitement and terror.

Suppose Gloria forgot to meet her! Suppose Frankie were ill so she could not come!

She could see nothing at the platform except people hurrying along in one direction. There was no one to meet her—but there was a crowd to meet anyone else. Porters in red caps were flying about. "Porter lady, please!"

She turned a white face to a benignant old negro in a red cap. "All alone, missy? O—da! all right, jes' go down pas' the gates you'll be met outside."

Reassured, she followed the crowd. The station met her with a blaze of lights and an overhead lighting gear of marble pillars. People were meeting other people kissing and shaking hands—everyone had a friend but her. There was no Gloria.

She stood quaking with terror. Gloria might be late!

A man's voice said, "You can't be anyone else but Miss Nicholson, Gloria said I'd be sure to know you! She can't come. I beg your pardon, I didn't mean to frighten you. You see, it's this way—"

MEMORIAM

MR. JOHN McDONALD

Mount Mellary has again been called upon to mourn the passing away of one of its most beloved and respected residents in the person of Mr. John McDonald, who passed away at the close of the Sabbath day, April 30th, aged 75 years.

All that medical skill and kind loving hands could do was done but nothing could retard the grim messenger of Death, for God willed otherwise.

Deceased was a progressive, industrious man and his genial, kind disposition gained many friends and made him a favorite with both young and old and his death will be regretted by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. Mr. McDonald was most faithful in attending to his religious duties and during his illness was visited by his pastor, also Father Rooney who administered to him the last rites of his church. This is the third time sorrow has entered this home in four and one half months. Just a week ago his adopted son's mother died, she lived in the States, and 4 1/2 months ago Mr. McDonald's only surviving daughter passed away. He leaves to mourn a sorrowing wife, an adopted son and one little granddaughter, to all the sympathy of the community goes out in their bereavement.

The funeral which was largely attended took place on Tuesday, May 2nd, to St. Andrew's cemetery. Services at church and grave being conducted by his pastor, Rev. Father McLellan assisted by Father Rooney and Father McAulay.

The following were the pall bearers, Louis Handrachan, Thos. Rodgerson, Lawson Douglas, Lodge Brit, Dougald McDonald and Peter McDonald.

MRS. THOMAS BEAGEN

The visits of death is ever laden with grief and tears, but when the grim reaper reaches unexpectedly and cuts down the beloved mother then his stroke brings bitter anguish indeed. To be beckoned away to the unseen land when one is calmly waiting the coming of the destroyer, is sad enough, but when he enters the happy home like a thief in the night, and cruelly carries off the cherished mother of the family, the anguish of those who are left is too keen for human consolation. Such is the sorrow fallen on the happy home of Mrs. Thomas Beagen of Mount Ryan.

On the morning of March the 28th, Mrs. Beagen rose, as usual about six o'clock and together with other members of the family, went out to milk. After assisting with the milking she remained in the barn to do some chores. About ten minutes after one of the children, going out, was horrified find her dead, just outside the stable door, heart failure being the cause.

Mrs. Beagen was a daughter of the late Martin Power of Mermaid and was fifty years of age at the time of her death. She was educated at Mermaid and a graduate of Prince of Wales College. For a number of years she taught school and was listed in the Honor Roll of teachers. She took a deep interest in education and in the districts where she taught her services were highly appreciated. This was evident in Johnston's River when their school became vacant she had not taught school for twenty five years she was entrusted by the whole district to take charge of the school and was their much esteemed teacher at the time of her death.

In the activities of her parish church she was always a leader, and many are the good works done by her unceasing endeavors to promote the welfare of Mt. Ryan Church in the world of music she

BEFORE BABY COMES

Watchful Care Necessary

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine and should be taken by the expectant mother. It will assist her in keeping well and strong. This is very necessary, not only for her own comfort but for the future.

Read the experience of Mrs. Barton of New Brunswick, and please bear in mind that every letter published recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is genuine and unsolicited. They are expressions of gratitude from women.

Cumberland Bay, N. B.—"I was troubled with weak feelings, headache, all the time, a cough, fainting spells and pains in my back and side. I could not do a single bit of work and had to be helped out to the hammock where I lay in the fresh air from morning until night and I had to be carried up and down stairs. After other medicines had failed a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she said it was excellent for anyone in the family way. Before the first bottle was taken I could walk alone and as I kept on with it I got stronger, until I was able to do all my work. My baby is now six weeks old and is a big healthy fellow. I am sure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for me and I recommend it."—MRS. MURRAY J. BARTON, R. R. No. 1, Cumberland Bay, N. B.

who will ever cherish her memory. The many floral tributes and spiritual bouquets placed on her bereft testimony of the high esteem in which she was held in the community.

Her funeral which took place on March the thirtieth from her late residence, Mt. Ryan, was followed to Mt. Ryan church by a large concourse of sympathizing friends and neighbors, where a Requiem Mass was sung for repose of her soul by her beloved pastor, Rev. William Monaghan, after which her remains were conveyed to Fort Augustus Cemetery and placed beside those of her husband, Mr. Thomas Beagan, who predeceased her three years ago, the last rites at the grave being performed by Rev. A. J. McDonald, P. P., and all that was mortal of a kind Christian lady was laid to rest.

May her soul rest in peace.

Showers of Diamonds and Pearls for BRIDES

A Timely Suggestion for their Relatives and Friends

BLESS her heart! Give her a Diamond Ware shower or a Pearl Ware shower. Get together some lovely afternoon ten days or so before that happy day. Give her a wonderful surprise. Imagine her delight when she sees the sparkling collection of

SMP Diamond or Pearl WARE

Don't be satisfied to give her just a kitchen shower. Give her a Diamond shower or a Pearl shower so that she will have a complete set of sanitary, long-lasting, beautiful cooking utensils.

Every good hardware man sells either Diamond Ware or Pearl Ware. See your nearest dealer and arrange to have each person give the bride something different. One will give a kettle, another a double boiler, another a dishpan, and so on. Make your plans now. It is your opportunity to make the bride-to-be an even happier girl.

DIAMOND Ware is the most beautiful kitchen ware you ever saw. Sky blue and white outside with a snowy white lining, and it has three coats of special enamel over a base of the best open-hearth steel. Serviceable as well as beautiful.

Pearl Ware gives ordinary care, will outlast any ware made. It is Pearl Grey inside and out, beautifully mottled and very smooth. It has two coats of special SMP enamel on a base of open-hearth steel.

Insist on the Shield Trade Mark

ON every genuine Diamond Ware or Pearl Ware utensil you will find the SMP shield trade-mark in red, green and white. Look for it. It is your protection against cheap, one-coat grades of enamelled ware. And remember—a Diamond Ware or Pearl Ware utensil that last year cost $1.50 can now be bought for 90 cents!
