

HALLOWE'EN FOR UNICEF

Although Halloween doesn't arrive until tomorrow, students at Prince of Wales College have been busy during the last week conducting a "Halloween for UNICEF" campaign. This included classroom collection boxes for voluntary donations. Posters were drawn by art students, under the direction of Miss Eleanor Love, and displayed in the corridors to publicize the campaign. A Halloween dance last night culminated the week of campaigning. Looking at the donation boxes are, left, Diane Thompson, president of the United Nations Club and Susan Martin, in charge of the campaign.

Handicraft Courses Slated For Fall Start

By DON MACLEOD
Wendall MacKay, who spent two days last week interviewing instructors who will come to this province from New Brunswick, said yesterday "it is too early to tell what courses the courses will start, but those interested will be notified through the local press."

loom have been ordered and are expected to arrive next week. "The looms," he said, "will be rented to those who want to take the four-week weaving course for a fee of about $1.50 per week. The agreement will be on a rental purchase basis and a person who pays the cost of the loom in rent will own it."

Deputy minister of tourist development, Wendall MacKay, who spent two days last week interviewing instructors who will come to this province from New Brunswick, said yesterday "it is too early to tell what courses the courses will start, but those interested will be notified through the local press."

Materials and instructors will be provided by the government for the course. Once the course is completed, loom owners will buy their own materials at cost through government channels.

Province To Be Considered In Agriculture Show Plans

Prince Edward Island and the provincial exhibition association's facilities will be considered for the first Maritime Championship Agricultural show which will be held late next September. It was learned yesterday from Livestock Director J. W. Roper. The idea of the show which will replace the Maritime Winter Fair, was approved several weeks ago by Agriculture Minister Andrew MacRae of P.E.I. and the ministers of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

"We'll do anything possible to help out, and make this idea a possibility," President Cecil Stewart of the P.E.I. Exhibition Association said at the time.

Committees were named at a Moncton meeting last week to interview the exhibition

'Yield' Signs Are Changed

"Yield" signs on provincial highways will be superimposed with "stop" signs, Acting Minister of Highways Andrew MacRae said yesterday.

He said that department personnel have begun to change the signs.

NOT DEFINED

The move follows Attorney-General Melvin Michault's suggestion that the "yield" sign be removed as "yield" is not properly defined in the Highways Traffic Act.

"The decision to superimpose

THERE'S NOTHING EQUAL TO OLDSMOBILE!

Year after year, Oldsmobile's special brand of quality is taken for granted—by everybody except Olds. And here for '63, Oldsmobile has again allowed no compromise. The wheelbase is a full size 123" (126" in the Ninety-Eight)—the interiors are, as always, truly luxurious in room and appointments—the ride and response even more dramatic. Experience the result—you'll agree no car offering less can truly be called a "luxurious", "big" or even a "generous" automobile.
