BEAUTIFUL COWS.

Specimens of a New Jersey Herd of Belted Cattle.

"Dutch Belts," as the Belted cattle are commonly called, come from Holland. They are somewhat similar to the Holstein-Friesians, except that they are rounder and neater in build. As milk producers they are first class. Their milk is rich in quality.

These picturesque animals are sometimes also called Blanket cattle, from the effect of the white belt on their bodies, which gives them the appearance at a distance of having a white sheet or blanket pinned smoothly around them. In disposition they are as intelligent and gentle as cows could be. A dairyman who had a herd of them would be sure of a large quantity of milk of fine quality and richness, and he would have besides a herd that would make his farm one of the show places of the neighborhood, so picturesque and attractive are the Dutch Belts.

At Llewellyn Park, N. J., is a fine herd of these cattle. They drew to themselves much attention at the state fair and captured nine prizes.

The Dutch Belts are very hardy in constitution, enduring extremes of weather well. In color they are entirely black except for the wide white band around their bodies. The bulls mark the characteristics of the breed strongly upon their grade offspring. In a herd of cattle the Dutch Belt cross is sometimes shown in red cows with the white band around their bodies.

Classes of Creamery Patrons.

First.—There is the genuine dairyman, who always has at least 20 cows giving milk and sometimes 60 or more. The cows and his mind are both well cared for. The butter maker who attempts to instruct such a man about the management of his herd or the care of his milk must be well informed and read at least three agricultural or dairy papers every week.

Second.—The farmer who keeps from two to six cows. He does most of the work himself and has a neat and attractive barn, house and home. He is very well acquainted with his cows, but reads the weekly edition of the daily papers and some of the monthly magazines more than he does his one agricultural paper.

Third.—The man who farms a good many acres of land, but lives in a small house which is surrounded by an accumulation of broken wagons, farm machinery and many other things that have been dropped in the shuffle of his everyday work. Pigs, geese and chickens dodge around this mass of material or roost on the water tank. They may occasionally enter the house, but the human inhabitants of this complicated dooryard seem to be either bustling about, as if they were nearly overcome by the amount of work they are trying to do, or are quietly content to live with the stock in these untidy surroundings. —Professor Farrington.

See These Records.

At the Rockville (Conn.) fair $100 was offered in prizes for six cows entered by one man that should produce the most butter fat in 24 hours. The six winning cows gave 176½ pounds of milk which contained 8.4 pounds of butter fat, equal to 9.8 pounds of butter. This is not a large performance as compared with many private records made at home. These six cows, however, are good business animals. With 24 cows competing for the prizes the average weight of milk was 27.3 pounds and of butter 1.49 pounds. Such dairy contests are worth ten times as much to the average farmer as is the "horse trot," yet the latter performance usually commands so much of the money that there is little for other prizes. Such dairy contests are usually surprising. Actual weights and analyses mark out the robber cows and show farmers the necessity of knowing what their cattle are doing. —Exchange.

SILO FILLING.

Friendly Neighbors Work It Effectively on the Co-operative Plan.

Corn has been raised on clover sod on which 15 or 20 loads of manure to the acre had been spread during the winter. Variety of corn, Pride of the North. Rows three feet apart, with from 20 to 25 kernels to the rod of row drilled in. Weeder used twice. Corn cultivated six times, cultivation shallow and level. Average height of corn, 8 feet. Corn heavily eared and well matured. Three neighbors change work in filling silos. One has a ten horsepower engine, another has a machine that cuts and binds the corn in the field, and the other owns a cutter and elevator. No better rig is needed for drawing the corn than a flat hayrack 16 feet long and 8 feet wide, with standards at each end. A truck wagon is used, and the top of the rack is on a level with the feed table of the cutter when in position for unloading.

Dairy and Creamery.

A creamery that is very successful in dealing with its patrons pays them in this way: It buys the milk from the farmers. Each man's product is tested to determine the amount of butter fat in it. The patron is paid as much for each pound of fat as the price the creamery would obtain in the Elgin market. Of course there is one-sixth more commercial butter than there are pounds of butter fat. That is to say, for every 60 pounds of pure butter fat there will be about 70 pounds of commercial butter. Out of the difference between the amount of butter fat and commercial butter the creamery pays its expenses and makes its profit, and everybody seems well satisfied.

In response to the plan of Secretary Wilson samples of American butter were sent to Great Britain from various parts of the Union. The Minnesota packages seem to have brought excellent prices. The butter was done up in 56 pound packages and was sold by the London grocers at 24 to 26 cents a pound. That is the price in the same market for the best French and Danish butter. Some butter was also sent to London done up in small prints, one and two pounds. This did not find so good a sale.

There is no better medicine than buttermilk. It is good for biliousness and is an excellent tonic for the stomach. Beware, however, of bitter buttermilk. It may be sour, but it must never be bitter.

Here is a good balanced ration for a cow to be fed in one day: Twenty pounds cornstalks, two pounds cornmeal, two pounds oats, two pounds barley, three pounds wheat bran, three pounds gluten meal, two pounds oilmeal.

What is called the "new corn product" is a valuable cattle feed either for dairy cows or beefs. It consists of the ground up stalks of corn after the pith has been taken out. The ground cornstalk resembles coarse bran and is used by mixing it at the rate of two to one with bran, oilmeal or cottonseed meal.

THE HURRYING FEET OF WOMEN

at the new-born infant's cry, tells the story of woman's sympathy for her sister-woman. If woman would only spread the medical gospel, that a woman is unfitted for wifehood and motherhood as long as she suffers from weakness or disease of the distinctly womanly organism, there would be less necessity for the sisterly sympathy that a woman receives when she is in the throes of child-bearing.

A woman who is thoroughly strong and healthy in a womanly way has to suffer comparatively little pain and sickness when she becomes a mother. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts directly on the delicate and important organs that bear the burdens of maternity and gives them health, strength and elasticity. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It banishes the discomforts of the faint-hearted period and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It insures the new-comer's health. Over 30,000 women have testified to its marvelous merits and many of them have permitted their experiences, names, addresses and photographs to be printed in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, so that other women may learn of this wonderful medicine. Good medicine dealers sell it.

"I am now real well," writes Mrs. Lillie Hibbard, of Merrill, Lincoln Co., Wis. "I have been doing my own housework, including washing and ironing. I hardly ever feel the pain in my side unless I lift hard. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two bottles of 'Pleasant Pellets.' I have not been taking any medicine for over two months. This is the first time I have been well enough to do my work for over three years. Your medicine is all that helped me."

Send 31 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing and customs only, for a paper-covered copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Cloth binding, 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. It is the most popular medical work in the English language; it contains a thousand and eight pages, and over three hundred illustrations. It is a great storehouse of valuable information—a veritable medical library in one volume.
