Mr. MacKenzie has several ob-jects in mind and interest for the attention of the dis-tricts. There is no quorum set for the meeting. In other words a meeting can be held with three qualified rate-payers, one of whom must be chairman and a person to make and second motions pertaining to business.

The department of education has not set out the usual or-ders to be posted somewhere in each district. People drive past so fast in automobiles now, he re-ferred to, that very often notices are not seen and are scarcely ever read. Instead the meetings are being advertised through the press and letters are also sent out to the chairman and the secretary of the various trustee-boards. A letter is also sent out which the secretary is instructed to read to the meeting.

If by July 15 a district is without the services of a licensed teacher, the department will hire an unlicensed one, but un-less a license is applied for, a licensed one to be employed prior to that. With the number of teachers that have been graduated this year it is hoped, Mr. MacKenzie said, that there will be no necessity to en-gage the services of an un-licensed or permit instructor.

Mr. MacKenzie's main object in licensing one to be employed prior to that. With the number of teachers that have been graduated this year it is hoped, Mr. MacKenzie said, that there will be no necessity to en-gage the services of an un-licensed or permit instructor.

Many districts have already en-gaged teachers for next year and they do this as early as February each year, the act provides.

The decision to require stated salaries for secretaries, instead of commission as in the past, has been made because budgets can-not be drawn up properly with the secretary drawing commission. It was explained.

He stated the AI had made a terrific impact especially in the dairy program.

"We must have a young sire program; results must be kept to find good bulls we must sam-ple more; good program records will assure certainty of results, proof and plenty of statistics is what is required."

"We have been very lucky with the unit bulls in P.E.I. The elite selection committee has done a good job, and our sire catalogues will be available in 1 June."

He pointed to the importance of being certain the germination of this year's grain crop was a good job. "Run your own test," he suggested, "if you are going to grow livestock you must grow feed and seed," he concluded.

Following the meeting a lunch was served by the ladies ad-judary of the Legion.

Fishermen Theorize On Lobster Shotgun

Several fishermen from the Murray Harbor North Area have a theory that the reluctance of the lobsters to crawl into traps this year is caused by the fact they have been feeding on some of the bodies of the tens of thousands of seals that were po-illed in the Gulf of St. Law-rence last winter. It was re-ported that the across Island re-sults were 68 per cent and that 2,129 cows had been bred arti-ficially.
