LIFE WAS MISERABLE.

AS THE RESULT OF A COMPLICATION OF DISEASES.

Poor and Watery Blood—Stomach Out of Order—Further Aggravated by a Severe Attack of Rheumatism—Home Remedies and Doctor's Treatment Alike Failed.

From the St. John, N. B., Sun. The number of remedies for the ills that flesh is heir to which are placed on the market is almost innumerable, and the public is prone to class them as worthless. The public is not always right, however, as some of these remedies by their sterling worth have overcome the prejudice against advertised medicines, and by the force of true merit have won public favor.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are praised amongst the highest and lowest in the land, as a strengthening and tonic medicine, whether for men, women or children. They are not like other medicines, nor can they be imitated, as is sometimes dishonestly pretended by dealers who offer substitutes. So that the package bears the full name, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and in case of doubt send direct to Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., who will supply the pills post paid at 50c. per box or $2.50 for six boxes.

He Was a Good Lawyer. "Good lawyer?" repeated the man who had been acquitted in answer to a question. "Well, I should say so. Ever since I heard him plead my case I've had such a good opinion of myself that I keep looking round to see if the wings are sprouting. And before that I thought I was guilty."—Chicago Post.

Boarding School Principal (quickly)—Notify the boys that all who are not down stairs in two minutes won't get any pie.—New York Weekly.

The Colonel's Sword. "I'll ne'er forget when first I drew This sword," the colonel said, Unhooked the weapon from the wall And brandished round his head. "Twas at"— He paused, a silence reigned So deep that one might feel, While to the listener's inward ears Came clash of steel on steel. "Twas at"— They saw fierce bursts of flame, Great gaps in every row, As leaving trails of death the lines Rushed madly on the foe. "Twas at"— They heard the cannons roar, The shriek of shot and shell. They trembled as the hero plunged Into that awful hell. "Twas at"— The carnage fiercer grew, Louder the battle din. "Twas at," the colonel softly said, "A raffle down in Lynn."—New York Sunday World.

MESSAGE TO MEN.

Proving that True Honesty and True Philanthropy Still Exist. If any man who is weak, nervous and debilitated, or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from youthful follies, excesses or overwork, will take heart and write to me, I will send him confidentially and free of charge the plan pursued by which I was completely restored to perfect health and manhood, after years of suffering from Nervous Debility, Loss of Vigor and Organic Weakness.

I've nothing to sell, and therefore want no money, but as I know through my own experience how to sympathize with such sufferers, I am glad to be able to assist any fellow-beings to a cure. I am well aware of the prevalence of quackery, for I myself was deceived and imposed upon until I nearly lost faith in mankind but I rejoice to say that I am now perfectly well and happy once more and am desirous therefore to make this certain means of cure known to all. If you will write to me you can rely upon being cured and the proud satisfaction of having been of great service to one in need will be sufficient reward for my trouble. Absolute secrecy assured. Send 5c silver to cover postage and address Mr. Geo. G. Strong, North Rockwood, Mich. 135p&w.

Sovereign Cocoa Wine is pleasant to take, is certain and gratifying in its effect in cases of loss of sleep, and enervation.

Your cough, like a dog's bark, is a sign that there is something foreign around which shouldn't be there. You can quiet the noise, but the danger may be there just the same. Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil is not a cough specific; it does not merely allay the symptoms but it does give such strength to the body that it is able to throw off the disease. You know the old proverb of "the ounce of prevention?" Don't neglect your cough.

THAT MOTHERS' COLUMN.

The Editor Tells the Sweet Young Thing Why It Was Given Up. "Yes," said the editor, "we had to give up that mothers' column."

"Dear me, I don't see why," answered the sweet young thing. "It seemed to me it was invaluable." "Yes, that's what we all thought, including the very bright young woman who wrote it," admitted the editor. "There didn't seem to be any problem of the home that she wasn't qualified to settle. But she finally married."

"That didn't lessen her ability any, did it?" asked the sweet young thing in surprise. "No-o," replied the editor slowly. "Of course she knew just as much as she did before, but somehow she didn't seem to be quite so certain of it. However, she kept up her work, even if she did show that she occasionally had doubts that never came to her before. She was a little shy as to some points regarding the management of the home, but she still knew all about the training of children, and of course that's the principal feature of a mothers' column."

"Of course," acquiesced the sweet young thing. "At last, however," continued the editor, "she became satisfied that she wasn't even competent to lay down rules and decide knotty problems in the line of the management of a nursery."

"Dear me," said the sweet young thing, "that was very strange. When did she make up her mind to that?" "About four months after her first baby was born," answered the editor.—Chicago Post.

An Unreasonable Mother. Two small and lively urchins were attired in their best the other afternoon to attend the matinee with an auntie, and in the interval before her appearance escaped just a few seconds from under the watchful eye of their careful mother. When they reappeared after this brief absence, the youngest boy, Donald, was in a condition not to be described, but which necessitated at once a change of linen and general refurnishing before he could be seen in polite society again.

"Donald! Donald!" exclaimed his indignant and long suffering mother. "What do you mean? Where have you been? Now, I shall have to keep auntie waiting while I dress you all over again. You are a naughty, naughty boy."

"Pshaw!" retorted Donald in an injured, defensive tone. "That ain't nothing. What'y makin such a fuss about? I only crawled through the sewer twice."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Tolerated Them. "Who are these people that live next door?" asked the caller. "I've forgotten their name," said the wife of the prosperous pugilist. "They have queer ways, and they are rather poor, but they seem to be respectable. The husband, I think is a professor in some school or other. It takes all kinds of people to make a world."—Chicago Tribune.

The Turk and the Toothpick. Two Turks were at a French banquet. Toward the conclusion of the feast a Frenchman selected a toothpick from the tray near him and politely passed the tray on to his neighbor, who, however, peremptorily declined the offer, exclaiming: "No, thank you! I have already eaten two of the accursed things, and I want no more."—Argonaut.

A Tinge of Jealousy. "I hear," said one man, "that the president has filled the place that you thought was so well adapted to your capacities." "You were misinformed," was the reply, with a manner of studied hauteur. "He has appointed another man to the position, but he hasn't filled it."—Washington Star.

Last Resort. "All that ails you," said the plain spoken man, "is laziness. Go to the ant, thou sluggard. Consider her ways and be wise." "I guess I'll have to," sighed young Ardup. "I've gone to my uncle so often there's nothing left that I can get a cent on."—Chicago Tribune.

His Alibi. Wife—And you pretend to tell me that you came home as early as midnight? Husband—Truly I did. Just ask our neighbors on the street. They must all have heard me.—Fliegende Blatter.

SPECTACLES.

Over twenty-five years I have been in the Spectacle business and during that time have fitted hundreds and hundreds of persons. Some had put off getting glasses so long that they could not see a large 4 inch letter A without going within 2 or 3 feet of it, and might have gone blind if they had put off getting glasses much longer. Others have been fitted or rather misfitted, with wrong glasses by travellers, and charged a great deal more than they ought to have been. This year our traveller, Mr. C. H. White, intends calling on parties at their homes in the country, to test eyes and show samples of our goods. Should he call on you I bespeak for him your favorable consideration, and any order you may give him will be filled as soon as possible and guaranteed by me. Glasses can also be exchanged at the store, CAMERON BLOCK, City, if after a trial they do not prove as satisfactory as you wish. E. W. TAYLOR, City
