In the summer of 69 the U.S. Space Agency landed a lunar probe on the moon. This probe and those following thereafter have come up with some conclusions which are now coming under debate by the Space Physics Group, of the Department of Physics of U.P.E.I. Misdirected propaganda from that capitalistically decadent society to the south has stated that the moon was not, as we commonly believe, made of green cheese nor was there a man in the moon. Our Space Physics Group, after riding on the solar winds, landed on the moon and made some discoveries contrary to those of N.A.S.A. Above is a photo taken of the man in the moon who is grievously offended of having his right of existence denied by the former. Mr. Man in the Moon maintains that the moon is green cheese, but verification will come from the cafeteria after samples have been fed to the on-campus residents.
