

THE DAILY EXAMINER. NOVEMBER 8, 1892.

Economical.

REPORTS sent abroad are to the effect that our farmers are "booming and that money is pouring into the Province."

On the other hand, continual grumbling about "hard times" is as much to be deprecated as the too glowing reports which have been sent abroad.

Cardigan Bridge Notes.

Trade in produce has been good during the past week at Cardigan Bridge, and many thousands of bushels of oats, potatoes and turnips were sent to the market.

On Saturday 16 vessels were in port taking in cargo, but on Monday the number was considerably reduced, several schooners having sailed in the meantime.

The price of potatoes remained steady at 25 cents per bushel until Saturday afternoon when some of the buyers lowered it to 22 cents.

On Saturday last, many of the people of Cardigan were glad to welcome home Mr. Hugh McCormack of this place, who had been absent at Newfoundland in charge of the cargo of the schooner Jubilee.

Mr. McCormack left St. John's on the 11th October in the schooner, but met with very stormy weather, and for nearly a fortnight was prevented from making a port.

The vessel had all her headstays blown away and lost jibboom and bowsprit; and only with great difficulty succeeded in making Sydney, where she has been refitted at a cost of nearly $500.

The schooner is owned by Malcolm McDonald, Esq., Georgetown, and is sailed by Capt. Geo. Crawford, who has proved a most capable seaman under very trying circumstances.

We learn that the ladies of Cardigan Bridge intend making an effort to collect funds for building a suitable hall for public entertainments, lectures, &c., and are organizing for a pie social at an early date.

One of the greatest disadvantages of village and country life is the want of intellectual amusement during the long winter evenings.

For lack of something of this kind too many young people acquire vicious habits because they have little else to take up their attention.

No village of the size and importance of Cardigan should be without a commodious and comfortable building, where meetings could be held; and it is to be hoped that the ladies who have taken up this commendable project will be vigorously assisted by the whole community.

We learn that several of the merchants have promised substantial assistance towards the building fund of the new hall.

City Council Meeting.

THE QUEEN'S WHARF CONTRACT—THE CONTRACTOR TO BE PAID IN FULL.

AN emergency meeting of the City Council, to consider the report of Charles McGregor, Inspector of Queen's Wharf, was held last evening. There was a full attendance of members. Mr. McGregor's report reads as follows:

CITIZEN, P. E. ISLAND, November 7, 1892.

To His Worship the Mayor and the City Council.

Gentlemen: In the matter of the Queen's Wharf, I beg to say that since the date of my report of the 10th October last, the contractor, Mr. Michael Egan, has completed his contract thereon. He has also removed the old warehouse to the site agreed upon by the Public Property Committee, and agreeable to a memorandum relative to the removal of the same, of the date of the 12th March.

All of the above works have now been fully certified by me as completed.

I would desire again to remind your Worship and Council of the necessity of certain works necessary to the proper equipment of the wharf:

1. The repairs required to place the old warehouse in good order, and which could easily be performed this autumn.

2. The work of dredging for which arrangements should now be entered into to insure the carrying out of this necessary work at an early date of the coming year.

The amount of dredging required would probably be on the northeastern side, about 300 feet, and on the southwestern for a distance of 150 feet.

3. The present road bed could be greatly improved by an additional light covering of crushed stone gravel or coarse ashes.

It has also been suggested that a plank sidewalk over the approach to wharf proper, a distance of some 150 feet, would greatly benefit foot passengers.

Your obedient servant, CHAS. MCGREGOR, Inspector of Contract Queen's Wharf.

Some discussion took place as to the advisability of paying Mr. Egan in full, as he had not completed his contract at the specified time, and the city had lost considerable revenue as a result.

Councillor Taylor moved, seconded by Councillor Hooper, That Queen's Wharf be taken off the hands of the contractor, Mr. Michael Egan, and that his bill of $50 for extra be paid, together with the balance of his account of contract amounting to $1200.

The motion was carried on the following division: Ayes—Taylor, Robertson, Hooper, Hughes, Hogan.

Nays—Crisbie, McKay, Beer. Meeting adjourned.

Presentation.

TO MR. S. F. HODGSON, ON THE EVE OF HIS DEPARTURE FROM THE PROVINCE.

The following address, which had been previously printed and illuminated, was on Monday evening presented to Mr. S. F. Hodgson, who, as our readers are aware, is about removing from the Island to embark in the mining business in the State of Montana.

The address was read by Mr. W. T. Huggan, Accountant and Auditor, in the presence of a large number of the employees, and is as follows:

To Sirs Frederick Hodgson, Chief Clerk of the P. E. Island, P. E. Island Railway.

Sir,—We have just learned with much regret that you are about severing your connection with the P. E. Island Railway, with which you have been connected for nearly twenty years, a very large portion of that time filling with marked ability the high and responsible position of Chief Clerk of the Mechanical and Stores Department.

We sincerely trust the steps you are taking will lead to a much more lucrative position than the one you are now leaving; and in saying "Good-bye," we desire to convey to yourself, Mrs. Hodgson, and family our best wishes for your future welfare.

We are, Dear Sir, Yours sincerely,

J. UNSWORTH, Superintendent. W. T. HUGGAN, Accountant. H. W. ANDERSON, Esq., Foreman. H. S. COFFIN, Master Car Builder. THOMAS DOYLE, Foreman Blacksmith.

The Clarke Inquest.

A VERDICT OF "DEATH FROM NATURAL CAUSES" RETURNED.

AN inquest was held in the City Court-room last evening in view of the body of Henry Clarke, the colored man whose death at the Hospital on Sunday afternoon was dealt with by THE EXAMINER yesterday.

Dr. James McLeod was the coroner, and the jury was made up as follows: F. H. Horne, (foreman) Captain John Hughes, P. P. Gillis, L. Rattenbury, Peter Doyle, Thomas Dover and C. H. Chandler.

Dr. Huggan, Dr. Kelly and Conroy, Marshal Cameron, Michael Hennessey, Theophilus Chappelle and Policeman Warren were the witnesses examined. The evidence substantiated the story of THE EXAMINER yesterday. The medical evidence was to the effect that Clarke's death was caused by typhoid fever, and that any injuries which he might have sustained on the 14th September, in no way contributed towards his death.

The jury returned a verdict of "death from natural causes."

Sad Death of Mr. E. W. Heffer.

TRIBUTES TO HIS MEMORY—BODY SENT HOME FOR INTERMENT.

THE spirit of E. W. Heffer passed away last evening. Mr. Heffer was the popular representative of the firm of Lyman, Sons & Co., of Montreal, and has been a regular visitor to this Island for a number of years. No more generous, noble-hearted soul ever breathed the breath of life.

An only son and pride of a widowed mother, a light-hearted, genial companion, a universal favorite among those who had the pleasure of his acquaintance, has passed away forever.

The type of physical manhood, in the prime of life, in the full flush of promise, in all the strength of youth and vigor, he has been called to the land where sorrow and death cannot enter. While we, his friends, who have ever welcomed his coming here as we welcome the spring and the sunshine, bemoan the loss of a beloved and cherished friend, what must we think of the sorrow and despair of his poor widowed mother. May the consolation of being the mother of such a noble, generous son, comfort her in her sad affliction, and may the recollection of his open, manly nature, long linger in the hearts of the bereaved friends he has left behind.

The sad details of Mr. Heffer's illness and death are as follows: About a month ago he was attacked with a pain in his ear, for which he consulted a specialist at Halifax, and was advised by him to remain there for treatment. Not attaching due importance to his physician's advice, he left Halifax to visit some cities in Cape Breton, intending to return to Halifax as soon as he had finished his work there.

Feeling better, and thinking that he would be all right in a few days, he left Cape Breton for Charlottetown, where he arrived on Tuesday, Oct. 25th. On the following Wednesday, while still suffering from a pain in his ear and considerable deafness, he went to Summerside on business for his firm, and returned to Charlottetown on the following Saturday. He then called in medical advice, and was thought to be improving under his physician's treatment until last Tuesday evening when he was seized with a severe chill and vomiting, which continued all Tuesday night. From that time until Saturday morning, when unconsciousness supervened, the pain in his head continued to increase, and his physicians saw only too plainly that meningitis had set in, and that death was only a question of a few days.

Telegrams were sent to his mother and friends in Montreal, giving them notice of the dread consequences that were feared. Yesterday evening at 7 o'clock, surrounded by many friends in tears, poor "Ted" breathed his last. Everything that could possibly be done for him by skillful medical aid, and by his kind hostess, Mrs. Davies, was faithfully carried out to the last moment. His body was taken this morning in the express, accompanied by many commercial friends, to his home and bereaved mother in Montreal.

A TRIBUTE FROM A FELLOW-TRAVELLER.

It is hard to realize that "Ted" is gone to the quiet haven of us all—that we have been robbed of his genial presence—his princely good fellowship forever. He that embodied in his rare personality every attribute antithetical to sorrow, gloom and silence, does not die and leave with us the complete realizing sense of loss that is our legacy.

When the cold finger of the destroyer touches a comrade of stern men and serious life, the twinkling eye does not glaze quickly; an echo of lighter lingers and memory fondly clings to an image whose outlines will not fade. It may be said without fear of contradiction that "Ted" had no enemies; on the other hand he had friends innumerable. His manners were irresistible. He did not draw men to him by repelling other men. He was not possessed of those strong convictions that lead men to eminence against a host of opponents. He conquered by kindness, he shone by virtue of generous traits.

During his long and serene career on the road he sowed the seeds of happiness with a hand that knew not stint. At last he could look forth through those merry, honest grey eyes of his upon a fragrant, blooming garden of friendship planted with gentle deeds and tended with affections.

"Ted" was a good traveller, an exceptionally good traveller, and his universal popularity on the road and off was due to his splendid personal qualities. "Ted" was always a gentleman in conduct, as he was a gentleman in feeling; he loved fun provided it was pure fun, he lent his sunny presence to the feast constantly, but he never stepped beyond the limits of temperate indulgence. In his domestic relations he was the same cheerful, considerate, true-loving son that he showed himself to be outside the home circle. The name of "Ted" will be twined with the garlands of immortal friendship; wherever he was known it will occupy a shining place in the hearts of his fellow travellers, who all possess a fountain of sympathy for his dear old mother and his sad death.

Comrades, comrades, ever since we were boys, Sharing each other's sorrows, bearing each other's joys; Comrades when manhood was dawning, Faithful, whatever betide, When trouble or sorrow assailed us "Ted" stood true by our side.

THINK OF IT!

There's not a house in all the Town Where nothing needs repairing; Broken by having tumbled down, Or from continual wearing.

Why lay such things aside, or worse Use them with constant trouble? To do the like is but to nurse Your cares, or make them double.

Get them repaired, you'll find it pays, No matter what the line; And as the ancient proverb says, A stitch will save you nine.

Bring in your jobbing, great or small, (You'll surely never rue it), And if it can be fixed at all 'Tis WALTER DOULL can do it.
