

Singing Evangelist

W. O. WEALE

Singing Evangelist William O. Weale is well remembered by many in Charlottetown. He gained wide popularity through his singing and trumpet playing during Evangelistic services in Central Christian Church last Fall. He returns again the last two weeks of November to be in charge of the music in the "Christ For Me" campaign. He will be associated in these meetings with Evangelist Edward P. Bennett of Western Canada and with the local pastor Marvel D. Dunbar.

The new defence zone "set forth the reasons for his action." He said Clark's reasons were to prevent attacks on the South Korean coast, to secure his lines of communication and to prevent the smuggling of contraband and enemy agents into South Korean territory.

Britain's Financial Problem Reviewed At Trade Bd. Meeting

"On our own little Island which is only half the size of Newfoundland we have twice as many sheep, pigs and cattle as you have here in Canada," said Mr. A. Gordon Huson, B.C. (Econ.), Director of the United Kingdom Information Office in Ottawa, in an address before the Council of the Charlottetown Board of Trade and guests yesterday. "However," he added, "I need hardly remind you we produce only enough to feed half our population. With our 50 million population we all depend on Canada for food and our British industries rely on Canadian metal and Canadian forest products."

Mr. Huson went on to point out that despite her drastic dollar shortage, Britain bought in Canada in 1951 products worth $675 million, while Canada bought from Britain goods worth $421 million. Already in the first nine months of 1952, British purchases have risen significantly from $447 million to $550 million with increases in all groups of commodities led by a $34 million jump in agricultural and vegetable products to $201 million. These figures seem quite remarkable in view of the complaints one hears from loggers in British Columbia and in the Maritimes and from farmers throughout the length and breadth of Canada about restricted British purchases.

"Why can't we buy the salmon, the apples and the cheese which we bought from you for so many years?" Mr. Huson asked. The answer is simple. We haven't got the dollars. We are very much like the veteran of the twenties and thirties, with only a few cents in his pocket, gazing longingly at the shop windows filled with things he desperately wants to buy. The comparison is not quite correct, because Britain is far from being idle. Less than 1 per cent of our population is unemployed, and the average Briton still works, with overtime, over 46 hours a week in industry, compared with his Canadian colleague who works on the average 43 1-2 hours each week.

"Not only is Britain producing more than ever before, but she is applying new ideas to new products. We have already harnessed the atom to peaceful uses, and are the largest exporters of hopes for medical purposes. From the seaweed of our seashores we are making beautiful new textiles, and we are the largest exporters of motor cars, even though this involves making the motorist at home wait many years for his car."

"With all this production, why all this talk about a dollar crisis, and does it really matter to Canada? The answer is definitely "Yes". Canada depends more than any other country on world trade for her prosperity. That is why it is so important for us to develop the unifying forces of Canada's external trade, over 1-2 billion dollars worth each year is with Commonwealth countries and the countries associated with them economically—that is, still about one-third of all Canada's export trade—and, as some 20 cents in every dollar earned in Canada comes from the export trade, a very big chunk of Canada's prosperity is tied up in the economic health of the sterling area."

"That is the situation today, even though the sterling area, because of these obnoxious dollar shortages, has had to cut back very severely on purchases in Canada."

Mr. Huson went on to show that Britain today is the banker for the whole sterling area, which takes in over 600 millions of the world's populations, and includes such key areas for maintaining the world's peace as Pakistan, India, Ceylon and Malaya. This sterling area has been one of the unifying forces in the world, on a par with radio and jet planes. Free movement of money and free exchange without any restrictions is permitted between its members, and in consequence, trade has expanded between its members, so that sterling finances over half the world's trade.

"Obviously Canada cannot afford to lose one-third of her export market," Mr. Huson said, "and that is why Canadian officials have been over to Britain making all the preparations for your Prime Minister to meet the other Prime Ministers of the Commonwealth in London at the end of this month at the second Commonwealth Conference of the year. The meeting in November is, however, going to go far beyond the meetings of finance ministers last January. Then, the finance ministers were trying hard to adapt the present financial machinery to the needs of our new atomic age. They examined the out-of-date financial barriers to the free flow of trade, and announced their definite objective to make sterling convertible, and to keep it so."

"The Prime Ministers, when they meet, are going to go beyond merely financial matters. They are to discuss all the obstacles to trade. What a great task! Even if they take one or two steps in the right direction the Conference will be an outstanding success."

The dinner meeting which was presided over by Mr. E. D. Reid, Vice President of the Charlottetown Board of Trade was held at the Charlottetown Hotel, concluding his address, Mr. Huson was thanked by Mr. Benjamin E. Rogers on behalf of the Board and the guests present.

Before returning to the mainland, the visitor was taken on a drive throughout the surrounding country by Mr. R. C. Parent, Superintendent of the Experimental Farm, which he greatly enjoyed.

of November. Market possibilities for the next several months remain good. It is a fact that there have been more potatoes produced in both Canada and the United States this year than last. It is also true that at this date we are much further along consuming this year's crop than a year ago. In the United States for example, over 8,000 additional cars were shipped before November 1st and in addition the truck movement all through the season has been the heaviest on record. The movement from Eastern Canada has also been running far ahead of 1951. These factors tend to counteract the estimated production increase.

"It has been proven during the past few months that consumers fully appreciate the good value of potatoes and even at prevailing prices consider them one of the best food values to be obtained. This is a healthy sign and will be an important factor governing price values for the remainder of the season. On the other hand, producers have been receiving good prices and they have been quite satisfied to supply the market with all its requirements. This is a sound policy, one that will be the most beneficial in relation to the whole marketing season."

Meanwhile talk prestidigitated in the gloom-mantled Democratic camp of a movement to draft Governor Adlai Stevenson again for the 1956 presidential campaign.

Immediately following his defeat, Stevenson himself discounted any such intention. Nevertheless, with the first shock of defeat beginning to wear off, Wilson Wyatt, Stevenson's 1952 campaign manager, said:

"Our feeling is definitely that it will be Adlai Stevenson in 1956."

Despite Eisenhower's victory the Republicans held only a razor-thin edge in the race for control of the 83rd Congress which meets Jan. 3.

As in the last four years, much will depend upon southern Democrats going along with the Republicans on legislation for the working control of the House. Absences, illness or death could make a big difference in close voting.

Sees Loop-Hole In Income Tax Laws

MONTREAL, Nov. 6 - (CP) - A loop-hole in Federal income tax laws might permit many married Quebecers to reduce tax payments.

Philip Vineberg, Montreal lawyer, in a paper submitted to the Canadian Tax Foundation, said it could affect wage-earners in Quebec who haven't marriage contracts with their wives.

Husbands and wives who have no marriage contracts are considered by Quebec law to be "in community."

Mr. Vineberg's paper contended the tax-rate on earnings of a "community" would be lower than a husband's earnings as a family head.

He said similar cases have occurred in the United States where there are state laws somewhat similar to Quebec's. A United States federal law passed in 1943 put all wage-earners on an equal footing whether they lived in "community property" states or not.

administration of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. Delegates expect they will know the Communist reaction to any compromise proposals before Eisenhower makes his projected trip to Korea.

Indians Hopeful The Indian spokesman said his delegation has also sounded out Western countries, including the U. S., on the Indian plan which would put into concrete form the suggestions made by U. N. negotiators at Panmunjon Sept. 28 for a neutral screen of prisoners. Other diplomatic sources have reported the Indians "very hopeful," possibly on the basis of information they have received from their embassy at Peiping.

Discusses Educational Advantages Of Museums

The role of museums in education was the subject of an interesting talk by Miss Frances E. Johnston, Director of the Art Centre, at a recent meeting of the P. E. I. Arts and Crafts Guild in the Market Building.

Miss Johnston returned a short time ago from attending a seminar on the same subject conducted by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural organization. Purpose of the seminar was to bring together workers in the fields of museums and education to try to discover if it would be possible for the workers to better serve their home communities by working jointly. The seminar was conducted for a month as various problems were threshed out by representatives from 25 countries of the world.

The speakers remarked that Dr. J. K. Van der Haagen, head of the Museums and Monuments Division of UNESCO, addressed the group on the opening day and impressed all his hearers by his facility in languages. Dr. Haagen switched from one language to another with perfect ease as he welcomed the delegates from the various countries. Held in the Brooklyn Museum the opening meetings were addressed by H. H. Sargeant, United States Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs, L. H. Evans, Librarian of the Congress, M. Andre Levell, representative of the International Council of Museums, and
