NO MORE MISERY WITH THE WASH. No more dirt in the kitchen. The old chemical powders have had their day. They now cease to be. Lessive Phenix is the name of the new relative. It is so emollient in its properties that, used in the bath, it makes the skin soft. No more soda. No more ash. Use Lessive Phenix and the wash is a pleasure. White or colored clothes, it is all the same. It makes them all beautiful. Use Lessive Phenix upon silver or tinware and the cleansing and brightening effects are marvellous. Ask your grocer for it, and don't take the injurious powder.

ZION CHURCH.—The basement of Zion Church was crowded to the door last night, on the occasion of the entertainment given by the Sunday School scholars. About thirty or forty children took part. The programme was made up of vocal and instrumental solo, quartettes and choruses, readings and recitations. The little ones acquitted themselves well. Great credit is due the Superintendent, Prof. Harcourt, and Miss Fraser, the organist, who trained the children in their respective parts. The receipts amounted to about $40. The instrument used on the occasion was a Berlin piano which was kindly loaned by Daniel McMillan, music dealer.

The Budget Debate.

Able an Eloquent Speech of the Finance Minister.

Blaine's Impossible Terms.

OTTAWA, March 23.

Hon. Mr. Foster delivered the budget speech last evening. The Minister of Finance showed Canada's finances to be in a healthy state. He scathingly scored the Opposition for their dastardly conduct in attempting to strike Canada in a vital part during the critical financial panic in England. Reference was made by him to the reciprocity negotiations with the States. According to Mr. Blaine, Canada can only have reciprocity upon the basis of a uniform tariff with the States, admitting American manufactures into free competition with Canadian and discriminating England. This, Mr. Foster says, put a stop to the reciprocity negotiations. "I am glad," said the Minister, that this matter is settled, though I regret that it was settled in that way. For several years the commerce of the country, the business of the country, and the prosperity of the country have been affected by an agitation which contemplated a very grave change in the commercial and other conditions of Canada. An agitation was set on foot which promised certain things, and in very rosy language, as to the result of what could be accomplished, and this continued agitation and placing before the people the idea of great advantages, although impossible of fulfilment, could not but have a detrimental effect upon the business and the progress of a country. I am glad, for this reason, that this is now settled, and that Canadians can now turn and face the future with a fair and definite idea of what they have to do for themselves and what they may expect from others. I, for my own part, am not afraid to face the future and take what it contains for us for the development and progress of Canada. If the Canadian farmer is to be debared in great part from a market in the United States for his products, which market at best is partial, sectional and variable, he will at least have the satisfaction that under due and adequate protection he will not be exposed to great and dangerous competition from the great western country of the United States. He can prepare himself to find a market for his wares in other countries where they get more favorable entrance, and he can especially prepare himself for that almost inexhaustible market which awaits him for all his products in Great Britain—the mother land.

The speech of Sir Richard Cartwright in reply, had very little bearing on the financial statement and partook more of the stomp oration than anything else.

Hon. Mr. Tupper characterized the speech of Sir Richard Cartwright as "old hash without the gravy." After giving a list of the epithets which Sir Richard was in the habit of using against his political opponents, he quoted freely from the letter which Sir Richard wrote for the London Economist on Canadian affairs and which was referred to the Finance Minister.

The faint cheers which came from those who surrounded Cartwright showed that they looked upon him as a dangerous auxiliary.

AN ERRING PRIEST In a Painful Position.

MONTREAL, March 23.

The Rev. Father Remy, of one of the most brilliant graduates of St. Theresa Seminary, finds himself in a most painful position. Some time since Archbishop Fabre removed the rev. gentleman from his charge and very little was heard of him until yesterday when he and a woman named Desjardins were arrested for having an illicit still, and having 90 gallons of whiskey in their possession and 40 gallons ready for shipment. The disgraced priest pleaded guilty as did his companion and Judge Dugas sentenced them to thirty days imprisonment and a fine of $100, or another month. The accused wore his soutane and roman collar in court, and a more painful scene has never before been witnessed before the tribunal.
