SATURDAY, Nov. 22.—Saint Cecilia is honored to-day in the Calendar of Saints. She was martyred early in the third century. Having been the Patroness of Music, her name was given to the Cecilia Society of Musicians, formed in London in 1785, for the performance of Sacred Music, especially Handel's. The Society was dissolved in 1861, but it gave birth to another, known as the Sacred Harmonic Society. Many eminent professional musicians owe their celebrity to the training and instruction of these great exponents of Sacred Music.

Tragic Incident.

VIENNA, Nov. 21.

A tragic incident is reported from Eastern Hungary. A clergyman, with his wife and child, while driving in a sleigh from Krasnora to the neighboring village of Kholonka, a pack of ravenous wolves pursued them. The mother was terror stricken and let the child fall from her arms. The father leaped from the sleigh to save the child. Father and child were at once fiercely attacked by the wolves. The father fought desperately and killed two wolves. They were, however, at last overcome, and both devoured. Meanwhile the horses had rushed onward with the sledge, still bearing the agonized mother. In her agony of terror she gave premature birth to a babe, which was dead, and she herself died soon after. Thus a whole family perished inside of an hour.

NEW BRUNSWICK & P. E. ISLAND RAILWAY.

The Chignecto Post says: Additional funds are required to carry on the work. A general meeting of the stockholders was called on the 9th, and they decided to raise the amount required amongst themselves, each contributing in proportion to the amount of stock originally subscribed, and to make an additional allotment of stock in the same proportion. The stock book was closed on Tuesday last, 18th, and showed very gratifying results. The stockholders were almost unanimous in accepting and paying for the new issue. The directors are to be congratulated on so successful an appeal, as it exhibits the utmost confidence by the shareholders in the success of the enterprise as a commercial venture.

"You are as stupid as you are stout," was the mild rebuke which Herr August Wiehe, a Chicago lawyer, launched at the head of his servant maid the other day. She had simply made a fire in the stove, and was unconscious that her employer used that unscientific article of furniture as a savings bank during the summer season, and had stored there $200 in bank bills.

On the Prospect of Death—A Fragment.

When on the bed of death we lie,
And friendship's last fond efforts fail,
How sweet to know that Christ is nigh
To guide us through its shadowy vale.
We dread to enter all alone,
A state of being strange and new,
To traverse regions all unknown,
That never witnessed mortal view.
'Tis Christian Faith that then supplies
The hope that every bosom thrills;
The dread of death before it flies,
And peace the troubled conflict stills.
It tells us whilst the mourners weep
Of Him, who died our souls to save;
That death is but a tranquil sleep,
A bed of rest the silent grave.
How blessed angels waiting, stand
To bear the parting spirit home,
To lead us to that glorious land,
Where "we shall know as we are known."
L. C. J.

The title lately conferred upon Sir John McDonald is described as follows:—

The Knights of the Bath is the second order of rank in Great Britain, the first being the order of the Garter. The name of the order is derived from the ceremony of bathing, which used to be practised at the inauguration of a knight, as an emblem of the purity henceforth required of him by the laws of chivalry. The ceremony is of unknown antiquity, and is spoken of by writers even in the 13th century, as an ancient custom. The earliest authentic instance of its observance in England is in the time of Henry IV., who, in preparing for the coronation, made forty-six knights at the tower of London, who had watched all the night before, and bathed themselves. The last Knights of the Bath created in the ancient form were at the coronation of Charles II. in 1661. From that time till the accession of the House of Hanover the order fell into oblivion. It was revived by George I. in 1720. Besides the sovereign, a prince of the blood, and the grand master, the order then consisted of thirty-five knights. But at the close of the war with France in 1815, in order to reward the merits of many distinguished officers the limits of the order were extended. But it remained purely military, and it was not until 1847 that it was placed on its present footing by the admission of civil knights, commanders and companions. There are three classes of knights of the bath—
1st—Knights Grand Cross (K. G. C.)
2nd—Knights Commanders (K. C. B.)
3rd—Companions of the Bath (C. B.)
Of the first class the number is limited to 50 military and 25 civil; of the 2nd, 102 military and 40 civil; of the third, 525 military and 200 civil.

The price of a Frenchman's head is minutely stated in a Chinese proclamation recently issued by the Canton officials to encourage their countrymen against the foe. The value of the prize varies, of course, with the grade of the slain. Thus $35 will be paid for the head of each common soldier or sailor, and the tariff rises from $175 and a mandarinship with the peacock's feather for an inferior officer to $3,500, and a mandarinship with the kingfisher's feather for the splendid trophy of a commander-in-chief. Capture of ships and cannon are to be rewarded in similar proportion, and the ingenious Chinaman who can originate a plan leading to the defeat of the French shall be paid $10,500.

A most enthusiastic meeting of citizens was held in the Mechanics' Hall, Montreal, on the 17th inst., to make arrangements for a welcome to Sir John Macdonald on his return from England, and for the public demonstration in honor of his fortieth anniversary of political life, the mayor presiding. It was announced that Her Majesty the Queen had conferred on the veteran Premier the exalted honor of the Grand Cross of the Bath, and a congratulatory telegram was ordered to be sent to Sir John, signed by the mayor on behalf of the citizens. An influential committee was formed to carry out the arrangements, and to make the demonstration the grandest ever seen in the city, and worthy the occasion which calls it forth.

At her son's residence, on Friday, Nov. 21st, 1884, after a long illness, which she bore with patience and Christian resignation to the Divine will, Sarah Shardsall, relict of the late Henry Chandler, aged 79 years. [Funeral from the residence of William Chandler, King street, on Sunday, the 23rd, at 2.15 p. m.]

At her residence, Morell Rear, on the 10th inst., Anastasia, widow of the late Peter Sinnott, at the advanced age of 93 years. She leaves six sons and two daughters, together with a large circle of friends and relatives to mourn their irreparable loss. The last sad rites were performed on Wednesday morning, 12th inst. The funeral cortege, which was a very large one, proceeded from her residence to St. Joseph's Church, where a solemn requiem mass was celebrated with numerous taps. The ceremony was impressive and solemn, and at the conclusion the funeral cortege reformed and proceeded to the cemetery, where the deceased, beloved and respected for her many virtues, was laid to rest. Requiescat in pace.

At Victoria Cross, on the 5th of November, inst., after a few weeks of severe illness which she bore with remarkable resignation to the Divine Will, Mary Ross, the beloved wife of Mr. Ronald Lamont, of that place, in the 66th year of her age, leaving a sorrowing husband and a family of three sons and three daughters, to mourn their loss. Her trust in God and in the merits of her Redeemer was lively and steadfast, and it may well be said that her death was peaceful. She was the third daughter of the late Donald Ross, Esq., of Flat River, who emigrated from the Isle of Skye, in the year 1803, in the ship Polly.

A Summerside, Nov. 13th, aged 82, Mrs. Wm. Murray, formerly of North Bedouque, where her remains were laid to rest on Saturday, the 15th.
