We hear a great deal about purifying the blood. The way to purify it is to enrich it. Blood is not a simple fluid like water. It is made up of minute bodies and when these are deficient, the blood lacks the life-giving principle. Scott's Emulsion is not a mere blood purifier. It actually increases the number of the red corpuscles in the blood and changes unhealthy action into health.

If you want to learn more of it we have a book, which tells the story in simple words

ADVICE FOR WINTER.

HINTS WHICH, HEEDED, WILL BRING YOUR POULTRY THROUGH.

The Dangerous Time to the Flock—Precautions to Prevent Disease—Beware of Drafts and Dampness—Winter Feeding for Profit.

To insure fowls against sickness is the great aim of all successful poultrymen. At this season, when dull days and night frosts prevail, the seed is sown which will eventually result in a full crop of ailments and endanger the lives of our most favored specimens. Too much care, therefore, cannot be given to prevent all symptoms of disease. Probably the first and most common trouble is cold in the head, which begins with sweled eyes. This, if not taken at the start, will surely run into a case of roup.

Night, when fowls are roosting, is the dangerous time. Hen houses cannot be made too tight. A little hole, or a small crack just large enough to admit a draft, will do the damage. Sometimes simply placing the afflicted bird in a warmer house and feeding soft stimulating food for a few days will remedy the trouble; but this must be done at the start, otherwise it will be useless.

Next to drafts, dampness is most to be feared. Whereas it is all important to keep houses tight at night, it is just as important to open windows during the day. The breath of fowls coupled with freezing air will create a dampness at night which must be dispelled during the day. Fresh air will dry out the houses as nothing else can. When it is zero weather some may hesitate to open windows, but it must be done, provided it is not stormy. It will make the houses warmer and decidedly drier at night. Fowls can stand a great deal of cold provided it is dry, but dampness seems to penetrate even their feathers.

Constant exercise is the best preventive of an endless number of diseases caused by overfeeding. The busy hen is the healthiest, and will lay the most eggs. Watch your hens during the day, and if they sit around all ruffled up and dull-looking, throw them a few handfuls of oats or wheat in deep litter and make them be up and moving. It is the nature of all fowls to be busy from morning until evening; therefore endeavor to compel them to follow their natural instincts when housed for the winter. Variety of food is essential. Tempting morsels, like cabbage hung up and pieces of raw meat thrown about will delight them.

Precautions against these three evils—drafts, dampness and laziness—will prevent many ailments and save your flock from possible disease.—Country Gentleman.

The Care of Pigs in Winter.

The up-to-date farmer raises two litters of pigs a year from each of his sows. Those farrowed in the fall need special care in order to produce the utmost growth, as conditions are not so favorable for this as during the summer months.

We sort the pigs into lots of about one dozen or fifteen each, putting those of a size together so all will be equally able to hold their own at the trough. We have plenty of milk for them, and feed a ration of bran and ground barley or oats wet with this to make a thick, or rather thick slop. Too thin slop is not desirable. Let them have pure water or milk to drink. We feed no corn meal at first, as this is apt to cause stomach and bowel disturbances unless used with extreme caution while the pigs are young. After awhile it is added to the mixed ration of bran, ground oats, barley, etc. We feed it ground cob and all, and have never seen ill effects from so doing.

One of the chief objects in feeding young pigs is to give them just what they will eat up clean and no more. To keep them growing they must not get cloyed, nor must the bowels get too loose.

The intelligent feeder will watch the pigs very closely for the first indication of this. Some are so anxious for them to grow that they feeed too much at a time. Once a pig gets to "scouring" the trouble begins. Keep them dry and comfortable, feed enough so they are ready to clean out the trough, but that is all.—Ohio Farmer.

A Suggestion.

Just now, when so much is being said about raw material, and that the prosperity of manufacture depends upon raw material and well organized labor, does it occur to anyone that this farmer is selling no end of raw material for some one to work over and sell back at no end of addition for labor added? Wheat, hay and a dozen other things are sold as raw material, to be made over and sold back upon the farm as flour, oatmeal, hams, bacon, etc., etc. A ton of hay sells for $10, oats $13, and so along down the list. A ton of butter made from the hay, oats and refuse from the farm, sells for $400 to $600 per ton, and the fertility all left to make other crops. A man carries several loads of hay and bran to market in the form of butter, and his farm is all the richer because of the manufacturing going on. True it is that a man needs good tools for this—calling the cow, the stable and the food tools; and this man needs to know how to properly use them, and then the factory is complete—provided there is persistent purpose displayed in carrying it forward.—Practical Farmer.

Water in Turnips.

People often sneer at those who value turnips and other roots, taunting them with the analyst's decision, that the best of swedes and carrots contain at least 87 per cent. of water. Well, and how about pasture grass? Is that so much richer in dry matter than swedes? Not so very much, seeing that young grasses, from average pastures, contain 80 per cent. of water, and clover, before blossom, 83 per cent. Of the value of even the white turnip as food for cattle no practical man can have any doubt. The great point in favor of roots is their perfect digestibility, so that even the small quantity of dry matter they conain is all of use. A glance at the men employed in any brewery will show that beer is fattening, and beer contains a great deal more water than the turnip. How about soups?—Montreal Journal of Agriculture.

Testing His Honor.

Your druggist is honest if when you ask him for a bottle of Scott's Emulsion to gives you just what you ask for. he knows this is the best form in which He ake Cod Liver Oil.

Advantages of Feeding Straw.

It is quite customary for farmers to feed their horses all the timothy hay they will stuff down themselves; and then if grain is not added, their coats will be staring and their bowels constipated. When younger than now and when I knew less, I ruined more than one horse by founder by stuffing him with hay all winter and not working much. Horses will do well and their coats will be glossy if fed on straw and two quarts of oats night and morning. If they are to work hard, more grain can be added. If anyone will take the trouble to figure out the cost of wintering by each of the two methods, he will learn that where the farmer has straw, straw and oats feeding is the cheaper by as much as 50 per cent.—Galen Wilson, in Country Gentleman.

Street cars can be ventilated by means of a new device consisting of a rotary fan run by the motion of the car, placed in the car roof and connected with an exhaust fan placed in the end of a pipe running to the interior of the car, the intention being to exhaust the foul air in the upper part of the car, so that pure air can enter from the outside.

AN INSURANCE MAN'S STORY.

J. J. HANRATTY, INSPECTOR FOR THE STANDARD LIFE ASSURANCE CO. AT PETERBOROUGH, CURED OF MUCULAR RHEUMATISM BY THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN RHEUMATISM CURE.—IT TURNS THE MIDNIGHT OF SUFFERING INTO MIDDAY BRIGHTNESS OF GOOD HEALTH.—THESE ARE HIS WORDS.

I was a great sufferer from muscular rheumatism in my arm; so much so that for days at a time I could not sleep. I walked the floor in pain the greater part of the night. I procured a bottle of South American Rheumatism Cure and found great relief after a few doses. It's a sure cure, and I heartily recommend it.

A War-Time Romance.

Prof. H. Newell Martin, who has just died in England and who for many years had the chair of biology in the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, was the second husband, says Town Topics, of the once famous Baltimore beauty and belle, Miss Hetty Cary, whose romantic first marriage to Gen. Pegram was an affair of importance in Richmond in the days of the war. Gen. Pegram was killed in battle three weeks after the marriage, and his beautiful widow remained devoted to his memory for years, finally surprising her friends by choosing Prof. Martin, a man many years her junior. As Miss Hetty Cary she had been not only a beauty, but in her zeal in the cause of the Confederacy she had many adventures; was accused of being a spy, crossed the line several times and once was secluded in Baltimore, where she dared not appear in the street, except in the deepest widow's weeds. Her choice of this disguise seemed prophetic of her future sad fate.

CONVINCED THE SCEPTIC

THE MERITS OF THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE WITHSTAND ALL THE ASSAULTS OF THE CREDULOUS AND SCEPTICAL —WHEN THEY ARE CONVERTED TO ITS USE IN THEIR PERSONAL AILMENTS THEY BECOME ITS BEST FRIEND FOR IT NEVER FAILS THEM.

Mr. Dinwoodie of Campbellford, Ont., says: "I recommend South American Nervine to everybody. I consider it would be truant to the best interests of humanity were I not to do so. In one instance I convinced an avowed sceptic to all remedies of its curative powers: he procured a bottle, and it has been of such benefit to him that he continues to purchase and use it, and has proved its great worth as a stomach and nerve tonic. It has done wonders for me and I keep it constantly in my house. An occasional dose acts as a preventive and keeps me well and strong. It is wonderful medicine."

INJURY AND NEGLECT.

He Failed in Health and Strength—His Kidneys Ached and he took Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Deseronto, Feb. 8 (special).—Among business people here, and especially by his fellow workmen, great interest has been taken in the case of Mr. James Stokes, who for the past fifteen years has been shipper for the Rathburn Company.

Lately he had run down in health and trength to the point of being compelled o quit work, and his recovery now as the esult of using Dodd's Kidney Pills is the talk of the town. On seeing Mr. Stokes he said:

"From over-lifting and strain I suffered greatly from kidney trouble, being advised, after all else had failed, to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. From the first dose I got relief, and hundreds of people here can vouch for my cure."

The total quantity of fish caught in the Great Lakes during the 12 years, 1883-1894, amounted to 293,707,000 lbs., valued at $17,660,000.

Mrs. Dobell, of London, Ont., Cured for 25 Cents

Doctors Could Help, but Couldn't Cure—Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure Released the Prisoner, and To-day She is as Well as Ever—She Says it is a Great Remedy

"Yes, I am Mrs. Dobell," said a comely, pleasant-faced woman at her home on Horton street to a News reporter to-day, "and I will very gladly tell you what you want to know. About three years ago my husband was very ill, and I had frequently occasion to rise in the night and go for a doctor or to the druggist. In my hurry I often neglected to properly clothe myself, and contracted several heavy colds, which turned at last to chronic catarrh. I tried doctors, who helped me, but did not cure me, and several special catarrh medicines. I was relieved but not cured. I was suffering intolerably when Mr. Shuff recommended me to try CHASE'S CATARRH CURE, and it began at once to help, and in about two months had entirely cured me. I cannot speak too highly of this remarkable medicine, and cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers from catarrh." The blower included is a great help to sufferers.

HOPE ENTHRONED.

LIFE PROLONGED AND ITS USEFULNESS GREATLY EXTENDED

The Ruthless Hand of Nature Permits Only the Survival of the Strongest, but Medical Science Secures the Survival of the Weakest

From the Cornwall Standard.

The science and art of medication holds a unique place in the esteem of the entire civilized world, because by a judicious application of progressive science relative to the art of healing innumerable triumphs are won in the struggle for health. The profession of medicine, we may safely say, is no sinecure, its triumphs and successes are rehearsed every day by the million. Those who are in the vanguard of this movement are our greatest benefactors Their discoveries are a boon to humanity, they have given relief to thousands who would have dragged out a miserable and more or less brief existence. Dr. Williams, by means of his Pink Pills, has earned and enjoys the gratitude of untold numbers who were on the verge of isolation or death, because their case defied the skill of the ordinary medical practitioner. The ruthless hand of nature permits only the survival of the strongest, but the tender ministrations of medical science, as exemplified in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, secure the survival of the weakest which is in harmony with the divine injunction, "We then that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak and not please ourselves."

These famous pills have given strength to the apparently hopeless, weak, and vitalized and invigorated fragile and debilitated constitutions, enthroned health and strength, thus increasing every value and enhancing every joy. In substantiation of the reputed merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills read the following testimonial of one of Glengarry's responsible citizens. Samuel Neill, of the village of Lancaster, is one of the best known men of the county. "For three successive winters," says Mr. Neill, "I suffered from severe attacks of la grippe. Owing to the exhausting effects of these attacks I was unable to attend to my business half of the time. The last attack I had was in December, 1895. It was the most prolonged and the subsequent effects the most trying. All the winter of 1896 I was under medical care and being somewhat advanced in life I presented a very frail appearance. My weakness was so pronounced that I became a victim of weak turns, and even with the assistance of a cane I was liable to fall. Attempts to walk were risky, and often to be regretted. I was troubled with a dizziness in the head that rendered locomotion difficult and unpleasant. Besides this general weakness I had pains in my shoulders, something like articular rheumatism in its fluctuations and severity. After a five months treatment I was not any better, in fact the doctor gave me very little encouragement. He said I had palpitation of the heart and it must run its course. The truth is I felt so weak that my hope of recovery was about nil. About the first of May I determined to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The result was the dizziness left me, day by day my pains vanished into imperceptibility, and I began to feel myself again. The improvement continued until I was able to follow my business with unexpected vigor. I am increasing in flesh and in general signs of good health, and I unhesitatingly attribute my recovery to Dr. William's Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills create new blood, build up the nerves, and thus drive disease from the system. In hundreds of cases they have cured after all other medicines had failed, thus establishing the claim that they are a marvel among the triumphs of modern medical science. The genuine Pink Pills are sold only in boxes, bearing the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Protect yourself from imposition by refusing any pill that does not bear the registered trade mark around the box.

A Man of Seventy-four Years Feels Young Again

Paine's Celery Compound Gives Him New Blood. Activity and Strength.

The Great Medicine Removes his Troubles and Burdens.

His Cure Vouched for by a Justice of the Peace.

Mr. Thomas R. Baxter, of Karsdale, N. S., aged 74 years, and fast nearing the grave from a terrible complication of diseases—erysipelas for 40 years, bleeding piles for 15 years, and sciatic rheumatism for over a year—was rescued from torture, agony and death by Paine's Celery Compound after all other means had failed.

After reading the following statement, vouched for by a Justice of the Peace, how can any sane man or woman entertain doubts as to the curing virtues of earth's only honest life giving medicine.

Mr. Baxter writes as follows:

"I desire to let you know about my wonderful cure by your precious medicine, Paine's Celery Compound.

"I was afflicted by three complaints that made my life a misery and a burden. I had erysipelas for 40 years, bleeding piles for 15 years, and sciatic rheumatism for over a year.

"I tried the doctors and all kinds of medicines, but no help or relief was afforded me, and I could not eat or sleep. I was then advised to use Paine's Celery Compound, and oh what a mighty change. The use of the first bottle enabled me to eat and sleep, and after using seven bottles I was quite another man; was perfectly cured and felt young again. All that I have written can be proved by merchants, doctors, magistrates, and by three ministers of the Gospel, and by scores of other people. I shall always thank you and your wonderful medicine, Paine's Celery Compound."

"I hereby certify that Paine's Celery Compound has made a well man of Thomas R. Baxter."

A CHRISTMAS LEGEND.

There's a beautiful legend—never outworn—
A flower of the east too lovely to die—
That if children on Christmas look up in the morn
They will see out of heaven a child-angel fly,
Who with voice sweet and clear through the bright air will sing,
I am Christ!
I am Christ!
Come your Christmas to bring.

And children believe that the legend is true,
For I saw but to-night a little child's eyes
A rapture so strange, it seemed as he knew,
He should see on the morrow this Christ in the skies,
And hear through the bright air His wondrous voice sing,
I am Christ!
I am Christ!
Come your Christmas to bring.

And I joyed in his faith, for his look as he smiled,
—Awaiting transfigured the vision on high—
Was not only the look of a beautiful child,
But that of an angel longing to fly,
Who heard even then the wondrous voice sing,
I am Christ!
I am Christ!
Come your Christmas to bring.

A Potato That Lifted a Ton.

Charles W. Simmons, who lives on a farm near Pleasant Home, brought in from his farm a curiosity. It consisted of a late rose potato grown in the root of a tree. The potato vine seems to have crept into the root, and the new potato then started down in the depths. It flourished in its strange surroundings and developed into a large and well-formed potato. The room in the root was too small for its expansion, and so the spud exerted not less than a ton pressure on the root until the side was plit open. The root is about three inches in diameter, and six inches in length. About an inch of the spud protrudes from one end. It is quite a curiosity and all who have seen it say they never saw anything like it before.—Morning Oregonian.

A life-long victim of the cocaine habit was completely cured by hypnotic suggestion in a few moments in a Chicago court-room the other day. Meyer was meanwhile under arrest charged with stealing a dog after "hypnotizing" it. Thompson was first put to sleep with a few passes and then told to stop taking the drug. As soon as he had been awakened some cocaine was offered him, but he pushed it violently away, crying, "I hate it. I will never touch it again."
