Drama Festival Directors Meet

A meeting of the executive and directors of the Prince Edward Island Drama Festival was held in the Council Chambers in Charlottetown on Friday, October 1st. The main business of the meeting consisted of making plans for the festival to be held this fall. It was decided that the closing date for entries should be October 15th, and the festival will be held during the week of November 22nd.

A very determined effort is being made to increase the membership this year. Plans were also discussed regarding procurement of the adjudicator for this year's Drama Festival, and an announcement of this will be made when arrangements have been completed by the executive.

Satisfactory Progress

Continued from page 1. future road construction throughout the Province. By the acceptance of this method of river and creek crossing, the highways will carry a standard width of road, eliminating bottle-necks and the dangers incident thereto. It has also been definitely established that Island sandstone is well adapted to this kind of work and lowers the cost of construction to a point of considerable saving. The North River Causeway core is nearing completion with mainly the sides to work on. As it now stands, the travel surface is considerably higher than it will be when settled down to base. This settling action is taking place according to plan. The spillway is now under construction close to the West shore where the water is shallow and the rock formation good for placing the steel sheet piling. The sluice or spillway will be a covered gap twenty feet long and the full width of the 200 foot Causeway.

SATISFACTORY PROGRESS

Mr. O. J. McCulloch, designer and consulting engineer of Montreal, who also designed the Canoe Causeway, deepest in the world, said on a recent inspection trip that he was entirely satisfied with the progress made by the project. The material referred to is sandstone from the MacKinnon quarry in the Huron region which breaks up on loading and through handling becomes finer, reaching the desired size when dumped on the Causeway run. Mr. McCulloch noted that the job is on schedule, the mud being displaced and settlement taking place as anticipated. "The base situation is developing as planned and I feel very happy about it," he said. The causeway is being built under contract by Matheson and MacMillan, with John MacDonald as engineer in charge.

The next highly interesting section of Trans-Canada Highway construction visited was that portion from the junction of the York and Bonshaw Roads west towards Cornwall to a point beyond the road towers, where a strip one mile long and half the width of the project has been completed. The concrete, which is conveyed to the job by mixed transit trucks from the Charlottetown plant of M. F. Frankman Ltd., is hauled in by steel frames and laid to a depth of seven inches. Before the heavy set takes place, joint cuts are made every twenty feet, extending eleven feet across. This is done with a diamond saw. The concrete is given 28 days to set properly, after which, when entirely completed, it is ready for traffic.

Morrison and MacRae are contractors for this work with John Gilmore as engineer in charge. The Inspector is H. McKinley of Saint John, N. B., a former Saint John Harbour Commissioner who has been identified with concrete construction work during his career in the steel industry. The work is being conducted regularly by Hersey Laboratories shop that up to the present time, the concrete is above the strength specified for this type of road construction.

NEW HAVEN AREA

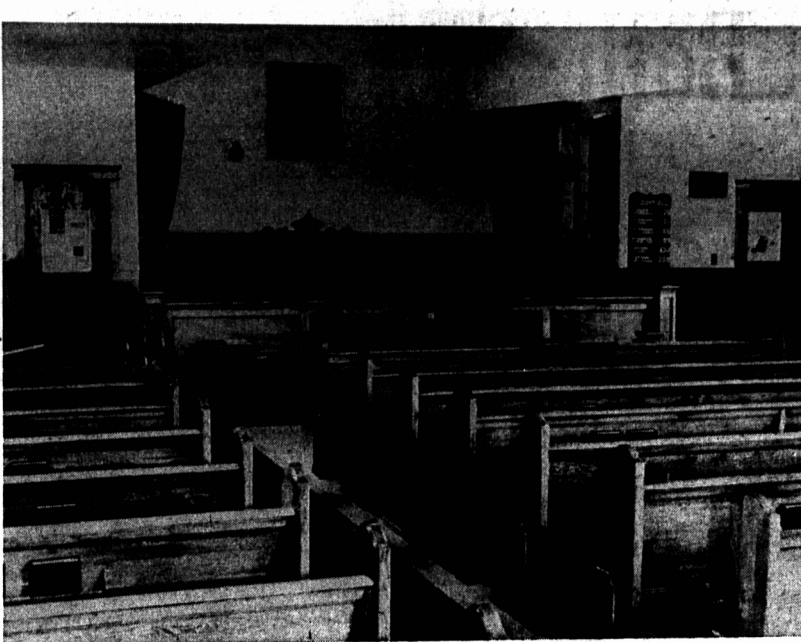

Through New Haven, Morrison and MacRae are working on another three mile stretch which brings them over the "big hill" where the fill ranges in places to more than fifty feet above the adjoining fields and tops the highest trees and telephone poles along the route. A machine is being used to break up the old concrete slabs of sandstone to be brought to size and used as fill on the job. Churchill to New Haven is another high hill and low dale area through which Curran and Briggs are driving the new highway at a good rate of speed with the expectation of completing the section in about a month. The Strathgairney hills presented a formidable and exacting job of trimming and filling along with reducing curves which is changing the outlook there and bringing the area in line with the requirements of Trans-Canada specifications.

The approaches to Bonshaw and the bridge crossing provide another opportunity to develop the causeway design of travel over short stretches of water. Here the bridge has been taken out and creosote timbers placed to carry the sluice made in the causeway leaving the highway a standard width. The engineer in charge of the three grading jobs is T. A. White.

An interesting experiment is being tried on two miles of the Trans-Canada Highway in the vicinity of the Experimental Farm Station on the North River Road. Here a mixture composed largely of bentonite, red top and wild white clover has been spread at 40 pounds to the acre along the banks with a view to stopping wash and erosion and improve drainage. 500 pounds of hydrated lime and some fertilizer was also used, followed by raking. Commenting on the result, R. C. Parent, Superintendent of the Experimental Farm said it looked wonderful and the low growing grass appears to be effective in achieving the desired end. We shall be glad to give details to farmers who wish to improve the appearance of the roadside in the vicinity of their homes," Mr. Parent said.

DIFFERENT SPECIES The ling cod of the Pacific coast is not related to the true cod, although both the same in appearance.

S'ide Church Dedicated Tonight

The Church of the Nazarene on Pizony Street in Summerside will be dedicated this evening in a service conducted by Rev. J. H. MacGregor, district superintendent of the Church of the Nazarene, assisted by Rev. W. Turple of the O'Leary Church of the Nazarene. The resident minister is Rev. David Morrison.

The Church of the Nazarene in Summerside was founded about 30 years ago by Mr. Turple, and associated with him in this endeavor were Mr. Frank Smith, noted tenor, from Portland, Maine, and Mr. Fred Strickland, evangelist from New Glasgow, N.S., who conducted a series of revival meetings in a large canvas tent on what was then known as Weatherly Square. The following summer the tent was moved to a lot on Central Street where St. Mary's Business College now stands. The interest at these meetings resulted in obtaining the old Salvation Army hall on Water Street—West, and later the old Montgomery Hall on First Street which was used until the present church was constructed in 1945-46, about fifty yards distant from where the first tent meetings were held.

In an effort to care for the increased Sunday school, Young Peoples, and Caravan Societies, rooms are being provided in the basement and in an extension being built on the south end of the church. Substantial progress has been made in every phase of international work of the Church of the Nazarene. Last year, according to information provided by Rev. J. H. Morrison, average of 152 members united with the church every Sunday of the year. During the past year an average of one new member was organized every 38 hours. Total giving of the church amounted to 30 1-4 million dollars.

In addition to these gains the Sunday school attendance increased at an average rate of 284 pupils per Sunday. The general church directly supports 265 missionaries, and 1150 native workers on 25 foreign fields around the world. In subscribing to the Wesleyan interpretation of the gospel, "heart holiness" is a part of the doctrine of the Church of the Nazarene. The public have been invited to attend the dedication service in the Summerside church this evening. (Photo by Wotton)

Weekly Meeting Of Summerside Rotary Club

Mr. G. D. L. Porteous, sales manager for the marlites, with the International Fibre Board and Plywood Sales Ltd., of Gaimau, Que., was guest speaker at the regular weekly luncheon meeting yesterday of the Summerside Rotary Club, president, J. C. "Bud" Mountain presiding. The guest speaker, who was introduced by Rotarian Fred Davison of the M. F. Schurman Co. Ltd., addressed the club briefly before showing a film entitled, "Battle of the Budworm."

He emphasized the importance of the pulp and paper industry to Canada, stating that sales from these products totalled one billion, two hundred million dollars annually and said it was the direct responsibility of every citizen to see that the industry is kept in a healthy state. Mr. Porteous stated that one hundred per cent of the forest is used in making diversified products, including newsprint, chemicals, textiles, building products and even alcohol and as the farmer is the company's chief source of supply, they are being instructed in proper management and controlled cutting to reap a harvest crop of trees annually. He stressed the tremendous damage done to the forests of northern New Brunswick by the spruce budworm and said last year, one million acres was sprayed in New Brunswick and three hundred thousand acres in Quebec and that this spraying saved thousands of acres of forest land. The film, which followed, portrayed the damage done by the outworm and showed how the spraying operation was carried out by a number of small aeroplanes working in pairs. Two new members, Rotarian R.L. Malison and Rotarian J. A. Gallant were welcomed into the club by Rotarian E. P. Foley, who spoke briefly on the growth of Rotary International since its beginning in 1905. Mr. Foley expressed the hope, that through Rotary's large membership, there are sufficient numbers of Rotarians throughout the world to promote good fellowship and help prevent future wars. An appeal to the members by Rotarian J. Frank Arnet, president of the Summerside Red Cross Society, for a contribution to the fund being raised to assist the Arsenault family, who lost everything in a fire last Saturday, was responded to enthusiastically, with a total of $1.50 received after a collection was taken. Vice president Rotarian Ed Smith expressed appreciation of the various prizes that had been donated for the Prince County Hospital benefit dance, being sponsored by the club, and which will be held tonight at the Imperial Diner. He asked for and received volunteers for selling and taking of tickets at the dance. It was also decided that this dance would be of an informal nature.

Gales Hamper Lobstermen; Moss Harvest Expected

—Strong north westerly gales brought lobster trap landings to a halt on the south shore of P.E.I. yesterday where the lobster season ended at midnight. With the exception of hurricane "Edna" which destroyed a number of boats but caused little trap damage. Yesterday's storm was the worst of the south side season with fishermen in the Morningside area where only about one half of the gear is ashore expecting considerable damage. At Roseville and Campbellton all of the gear is reported to have been landed in the past two weeks. The fall lobster catch in West Prince is estimated at slightly more than one half of last year's total but exceptionally high prices brought good returns to the fishermen. The landing of illegal (short) lobsters is reported to have been practically nil during the season. Highest prices paid at Morningside were 31 for canners and 36 for markets. Gatherers of Irish moss were flocking to the west side of the Island yesterday in expectation of a good harvest of moss being washed ashore by the high winds and heavy seas.
