ARMOND'S BUDDY, 'HORSE OF THE YEAR'

Audiences attending the Monday and Tuesday Gold Cup and Saucer film nights were given the honor of selecting the "Horse of the Year" from the impressive array of top- notch trotters, pacers and free-for-allers that performed at the Charlottetown Driving Park during 1962. When all votes were counted, race secretary, Frank Acorn, announced that Armond's Buddy, 2.06:4, an Island-bred horse owned by Leigh Taylor of Nine Mile Creek, had received the lion's share of the votes. Here, Mr. Acorn, right, presents the Ed's Taxi plaque to Mr. Taylor, during the intermission at last night's program.

Ch'town Artist Will Submit Portrait For Art Exhibition

H. Barry Bugden, Charlottetown artist, has been requested by the National Gallery, Ottawa, to submit one of his paintings, a portrait, for possible inclusion in the Fifth Biennial of Canadian Art, now being organized.

Earlier this year, the curator of Canadian art, J. Russell Harper visited studios of artists throughout Canada, viewing their work, and requested artists he could not visit, both in Canada and abroad, to forward photographs of their work for consideration.

Approximately 200 paintings have been chosen for consideration by the jury, and from these the exhibition will be selected. Schedule of showings include three months in the Commonwealth Galleries, London, England; two months in the National Gallery, Ottawa, and a Canadian tour.

Mr. Bugden's entry is a large oil painting of his son, titled "The Red Sweater", completed last year.

Two of Mr. Bugden's works, a landscape and a semi-abstract, are currently on display at the art exhibition at Montgomery Hall. The exhibition is scheduled to close Thursday night.

Dalhousie Asks More Assistance

The provincial government was asked yesterday to work with the governments of the other Atlantic Provinces in setting up a formula for increased financial assistance to Dalhousie University, Halifax, to help pay the cost of training medical and dental students from the Atlantic area.

Waiting on the cabinet were Dr. C.B. Stewart, Dalhousie's dean of medicine; and the university dean of dentistry, Dr. J.D. McLean.

Dr. Stewart said "we are asking the Atlantic premiers to work on a long range formula of financial assistance." He pointed out that 90 per cent of English - speaking medical and dental students from the Atlantic area get their training at Dalhousie.

He said a long-range plan of financial assistance would enable the university to "plan ahead" for an expected increase in the number of medical and dental students. He suggested that the Atlantic area has a low ratio of doctors and dentists compared to most of Canada.

The provincial government grant to Dalhousie is $40,000 annually.

OBSERVANCE

also has varied over the centuries.

The customs of those who observe the fast vary among denominations, but tend to follow this pattern:

Only one full meal is allowed, plus two light collations which combined shouldn't amount to as much as the full meal. There may be no snacks between meals, and meat may be eaten only at the principal meal.

FEAST BEFORE FAST

In some areas, the days just before Ash Wednesday are reserved for one final burst of fun and feasting before the fasting begins. Mardi Gras, traditional pre - Lenten festival, literally means "fat Tuesday." The word carnival comes from the Latin Carni vale meaning "farewell to meat."

In the first three centuries after Christ the fast generally didn't exceed 40 hours, but it was far more severe.

Some strict observers ate nothing at all from Good Friday afternoon until Easter Sunday morning.

The first mention of a 40-day preparatory period occurs in the canons of the Council of Nicaea in the year 325, though the emphasis was less on fasting than on prayer, recollection and other forms of self-examination.

STRESS POSITIVE

Churches today seem once more to be stressing positive Lenten practices instead of the traditional "giving up" something.
