

The Examiner

VOL. XXV. CHARLOTTETOWN, PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND, MONDAY, APRIL 27, 1874. NO. 17

CLOSING AND ARRIVAL OF MAILS,

AT
POST OFFICE, CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. ISLAND,
AFTER FRIDAY, 19th DECEMBER.

MAILS.	CLOSE.	DUE.
Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and United States.	Tues., Thurs. and Sat., 8 p.m.	About Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday evening, but uncertain.
Great Britain & Newfoundland, via Halifax.	Tues., Thurs. & Saturday, 25th instant, and every second Tuesday and Thursday after.	Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday, 25th instant, and every alternate Tuesday afterwards.
Great Britain, via United States.	Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 8 p.m.	Uncertain.
West Indies.	Forwarded to Halifax three times each week.	Uncertain.
Summerside and intermediate offices.	Daily, Sunday excepted, 9 p.m.	Daily, Sunday excepted, 2 p.m.
Georgetown and intermediate offices.	Daily, Sunday excepted, 9 p.m.	Daily, Sunday excepted, 2 p.m.
Western - Tignish, Alberton, &c.	Monday, Thursday, 9 p.m.	Wednesday, Saturday, 7 p.m.
Southern - Murray Harbor, Belfast, &c.	Monday, Thursday, 9 p.m.	Wednesday, Saturday, 2 p.m.
Bellevue - Tignish, Crapaud, &c.	Monday, Wednesday, Friday, 9 p.m.	Monday, Wednesday, Friday, 2.30 p.m.
Brackley Point - Covehead, &c.	Monday, Thursday, 8 a.m.	Tuesday, Friday, 9 a.m.
Pisiquid - Johnston's River, &c.	Friday, 12.30 p.m.	Friday, 10 a.m.

Letters intended for registration must be posted half an hour previous to the closing of the Mail by which they are to be forwarded, and the postage and registration fee must be prepaid.

The postage on transient Newspapers and on Letters for City delivery, must, in all cases, be prepaid.

Mails arriving before 10 p.m., will be delivered same night.

Office hours from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Money Orders issued and paid from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A. A. MACDONALD, Postmaster.

POETRY.

LONGFELLOW'S NEW POEM

"The Hanging of the Crane," a new poem by Mr. Longfellow, of about two hundred lines, is first published in the Ledger. Its title is from the French expression - pendre la cravatte - for a loose hanging, of the first party given in a new house. It is a prophetic picture of the future of the home and its dwellers; we extract some of the finer passages.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

POETRY.

LONGFELLOW'S NEW POEM

"The Hanging of the Crane," a new poem by Mr. Longfellow, of about two hundred lines, is first published in the Ledger. Its title is from the French expression - pendre la cravatte - for a loose hanging, of the first party given in a new house. It is a prophetic picture of the future of the home and its dwellers; we extract some of the finer passages.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

POETRY.

LONGFELLOW'S NEW POEM

"The Hanging of the Crane," a new poem by Mr. Longfellow, of about two hundred lines, is first published in the Ledger. Its title is from the French expression - pendre la cravatte - for a loose hanging, of the first party given in a new house. It is a prophetic picture of the future of the home and its dwellers; we extract some of the finer passages.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

POETRY.

LONGFELLOW'S NEW POEM

"The Hanging of the Crane," a new poem by Mr. Longfellow, of about two hundred lines, is first published in the Ledger. Its title is from the French expression - pendre la cravatte - for a loose hanging, of the first party given in a new house. It is a prophetic picture of the future of the home and its dwellers; we extract some of the finer passages.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

POETRY.

LONGFELLOW'S NEW POEM

"The Hanging of the Crane," a new poem by Mr. Longfellow, of about two hundred lines, is first published in the Ledger. Its title is from the French expression - pendre la cravatte - for a loose hanging, of the first party given in a new house. It is a prophetic picture of the future of the home and its dwellers; we extract some of the finer passages.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

THE NEW HOME.

O fortunate, O happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriads of earth,
Then drops its careless and its song,
And rolled on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space!
So rarely the guests in speech and song,
As in the chimney, burning bright,
We hang the iron crane to-night,
And merry was the feast and long.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CREMATION.

Recent discussions respecting the best method of getting rid of this "mortal coil" after the spirit has taken flight, has resulted in so strong a conviction on the part of some persons of the advantages of the cremation system, that a society has actually been organized at New York for promoting the revival of this ancient practice. The preliminary meeting, which took place on Friday evening in the Young Men's Christian Association building, was somewhat remarkable for the letters which were received from persons who had been invited to attend. Mr. Charles A. Dana, of the Sun, gave his opinion entirely in favor of the proposition, and added that it is not creditable to civilization that any part of the earth's surface should be devoted to graveyards, or that the remains of the dead should be disposed of in the "unscientific, cumbersome, and repulsive manner which now obtains." The well-known Mr. Bergh, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, also wrote a letter approving very highly of burning the bodies of the dead, denying that in any way conflicts with the Christian religion, or weakens the belief in the immortality of the soul. On the other hand, he regarded the system of inhumation as satisfying "no reasonable instinct of our nature." If asked whether he would consent to a personal application of the ancient custom which it is proposed to substitute for inhumation, he would "unhesitatingly answer yes," as he infinitely prefers that his ashes should be of some immediate and practical utility, even though they be used "to stop a crack to keep the wind away" rather than that his body should be subjected to the buffeting and jostling incidental to the other system, and which he thinks "are as sure to ensue as May-day movements."

CREMATION.

Mr. Bergh's idea of letting his body be of use after his death is, however, the chief ground which another writer, Mr. D. G. Croly, assigned against the restoration of ancient usage. He thought that the belief in the resurrection of the body would militate against a return to the pagan system of cremation, but even if it were in our power generally to change the method of disposing of human remains, he said he should still oppose cremation "as being a waste of material which might be utilized by the disposing of the corpse as to add to the fertility of the soil." So Mr. Bergh, if he is desirous of the use of the greatest possible use to his fellow, had better bequeath his corpse to a patent guano or superphosphate company. And this reminds us that the discussion of the question was revived principally by an eccentric wit, wherein the testator desired that his body, instead of poisoning the air of a cemetery, should contribute to the enlightenment of mankind by being consumed in a gas retort. After listening to these letters from absentees, and to a paper describing the experiments already instituted in Europe, the philosophers assembled in New York passed resolutions to the effect that they considered cremation far preferable to inhumation as a method of disposing of the bodies of the dead, from sanitary as well as aesthetic and economical reasons, and an association was organized for the purpose of advancing the object in view. For the present, however, the philosophers have rejected the proposition that cremation should be rendered obligatory on each and every member, and have decided to leave the matter to the order of this somewhat diabolical organization will continue to burn so brightly as to induce the members to give a convincing proof of their sincerity, by directing that their remains shall be converted into ashes.

CREMATION.

There can be no doubt that very strong reasons may be advanced in favor of the system now recommended. One may even imagine instances in which cremation would become almost a necessity. A handsome mausoleum with cinerary urns would never be so unpleasant a place as the mouldy vault or the damp, unwholesome graveyard. But under ordinary circumstances, where space is abundant, the simplicity of our present system of committing the dead to mother earth must tell strongly in its favor. There seems to be something repellent to most people in the idea of burning bodies. Probably, however, if we had been brought up to a different system, the process of inhumation would be equally repugnant. But it must be remarked that the process of cremation, in all things in and about buildings are put in order.

CREMATION.

Manures not turned and composted should have immediate attention. Without plenty of manure, in the right condition, little profit may be looked for from the farm.

CREMATION.

Animals need great care in April and May. Hay and other fodder should be cut with a horse-power machine, salted at the rate of about two quarts to each bushel, and stored for future use. Mouldy food is greatly improved by being steamed.

CREMATION.

The American Stock Journal says - "Those having the care of farm stock should ever have a watchful eye on it. The flocks weather of this month - some days balmy and pleasant, others cold and stormy, the changes sudden and unexpected, present sunshine in the morning, followed by a north-easterly wind, which requires the greatest watchfulness on the part of herdsmen.

CREMATION.

The sunshine of this season is very grateful to the animal system, and highly conducive to health; but the adverse changes are very injurious, and should be guarded against by housing or sheltering stock whenever they occur. Having been established all winter stock are very tender, and feel the effect of such storms as we are subject to this month. Besides the humanitarian view of the subject, there is a question of dollars at stake, for exposure to such a state of the weather, the growth and the profit.

CREMATION.

Farm horses that have been brought through the winter without much labor, and perhaps without much grain, should now have two measures of grain every day, in order to strengthen the system and prepare it for the spring work; they should be put to work gradually, half a day at a time for a few days, until they get a little hardy to it. Wash the shoulders with cold water whenever the collar is taken off and rub them until dry with a woollen cloth, and thus prevent their getting sore."

CREMATION.

Many lambs are dropped this month; these and their dams require special care, they should be protected from colds and storms, yet enjoy all the sunshine possible; should be fed liberally and regularly. It is absurd to continue some people of the importance of regularity in the feeding of animals; their food should be given in proper quantities and at regular stated times, morning, noon and evening. They should not be permitted to fret by delay of the herdsmen; all fretting is a loss to the owner, as it interferes with the thriftiness of the animal. If fed at regular periods the stomach is just in condition to digest it, having had a rest after the disposition of the former meal.

CREMATION.

An exchange notes the rumor that Donati the great astronomer, died from excitement consequent upon discovering that the earth is approaching the sun so rapidly that in ten years it will be drawn into the sun and shrivelled up. The paragraphist then adds the decidedly American comment, "This will be discouraging news to the insurance companies."

CREMATION.

The German immigration to the States is diminishing. It is proposed to erect a statue of Livingstone at Edinburgh.

CREMATION.

Fullman, of palace car fame, is building a $150,000 cottage at Long Branch.

CREMATION.

Brigham Young is said in anticipation of trouble which may necessitate his flight, to be realising his effects.

CREMATION.

A postal convention has been arranged between the Governments of the United States and Japan.

CREMATION.

The loss of the steamer L'Anse-au-Loup attributed to unskillful work performed upon the ship when she was lengthened at Newcastle, England.

CREMATION.

James Gordon Bennett is reported to be worth from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000, including the Herald property and he is therefore, one of the richest men of his age (he is but thirty-three) in the whole country.

CREMATION.

The late residence of the Mikado, at Kyoto has been utilized for the purpose of an exhibition on the European model. This is the first time the public have been admitted to the sacred precincts of the Imperial palace.

CREMATION.

Woman's faith was justified in the Athynaeae. A native soothsayer had prophesied the fall of Coemeter. His declarations were verified in England, and the highest peaks in England and a few perimeters in America tried there, then have it packed, conveyed to New York, inflated (like the currency) and sent forth in quest of the Easterly current and from a while ago, every body forgot all about it afterwards; but late news from England state that the great show of balloons, collecting curiosities, and theatrical talent, etc., and enteringprising for proposals from balloon-makers for the construction of a monster balloon which two scientific men, whom he has already mentioned, had proposed to send to the Transatlantic balloon idea should now, thanks to the "Daily Graphic" be generally looked upon as an advertising expedient and a means of raising money, as evidenced by the announcement of Barnum's.

CREMATION.

TERREINE FEELING AGAINST ENGLAND. - An occasional correspondent writing from Tunis speaks of the feeling against England, and the feeling at Constantine is just now one of bitter hostility, and that the delay in according to the engineers lately so suddenly expressed and from a while ago, every body forgot all about it afterwards; but late news from England state that the great show of balloons, collecting curiosities, and theatrical talent, etc., and enteringprising for proposals from balloon-makers for the construction of a monster balloon which two scientific men, whom he has already mentioned, had proposed to send to the Transatlantic balloon idea should now, thanks to the "Daily Graphic" be generally looked upon as an advertising expedient and a means of raising money, as evidenced by the announcement of Barnum's.

CREMATION.

AN IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT. - One of the last and best inventions brought out on the other side of the line, is a process, by which a very superior butter is made from the fat of cows and milk, and from a whole number of the process simply accomplishes, mechanically, what the cow does naturally. In the latter instance, the cow has the power of extracting the cream from the fat which is very much more than is contained in the milk which is dropped, drop by drop into her bag or udder, at the same time, introducing water, which by a muscular action is mixed with the cream, and forms a whole substance which we call milk. This, when taken from the cow, is allowed to stand in open flat vessels, and on the surface of the milk the oil is allowed to rise to the top, and is skimmed off, and the water which remains is churned, the oily particles unite and form butter, the water being left behind, which is called buttermilk. This simply, is the mode of making what we call our butter, and from a while ago, every body forgot all about it afterwards; but late news from England state that the great show of balloons, collecting curiosities, and theatrical talent, etc., and enteringprising for proposals from balloon-makers for the construction of a monster balloon which two scientific men, whom he has already mentioned, had proposed to send to the Transatlantic balloon idea should now, thanks to the "Daily Graphic" be generally looked upon as an advertising expedient and a means of raising money, as evidenced by the announcement of Barnum's.

CREMATION.

THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION. - The Young Men's Christian Association of New York, has just published a pamphlet, entitled "The Young Men's Christian Association of New York, and its work in the world." It is a very interesting and valuable work, and one which every young man should read. It is published by the Association, and is sold at the price of one cent.

CREMATION.

THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION. - The Young Men's Christian Association of New York, has just published a pamphlet, entitled "The Young Men's Christian Association of New York, and its work in the world." It is a very interesting and valuable work, and one which every young man should read. It is published by the Association, and is sold at the price of one cent.

Business Cards.

JOSEPH CREAMER,
Physician & Surgeon,
CITY HOTEL,
CHARLOTTETOWN.

JAMES BRANAN,
House, Sign, and Carriage Painter,
Paper Hanger & Glazier,
SOURIS WEST.

BANGOR HOUSE,
North Side King's Square,
St. John, - New Brunswick.

F. M. CAMPBELL,
GENERAL MERCHANT
COMMISSION AGENT,
AUCTIONEER & BROKER

Standard Life Insurance Co.
Sept. 1, 1873.

VULCAN FOUNDRY
GEORGETOWN.

WILLIAM DODD,
Commission Merchant and
AUCTIONEER

CARVELL BROTHERS,
AUCTIONEERS,
Commission Merchants,AND
GENERAL AGENTS,
BANK BUILDING, QUEEN STREET,
CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. ISLAND

HERMANS & SON,
Bell-Hangers, Gun and Tin-Smiths,
QUEEN STREET,

THE CURRY FARM,
CONTAINING 120 ACRES, situated on the Western Road, 10 chains from, 70 acres cleared, well cultivated and fenced with Cedar, balance covered with hardwood and cedar.

A HANDSOME DWELLING HOUSE,
27 x 30 well finished throughout, with Kitchen attached, 12 x 17, Barn 24 x 41, with Pig-house and Sheep-house. This is also another DWELLING HOUSE, 16 x 25. This Farm will be sold with or without the stock and possession given in Spring, or Cropped and sold with the Crop delivered next Fall. Terms easy. Apply to
GEORGE W. HOWLAND,
Feb. 16, 1874.

Valuable Business Stand for Sale.
The Subscriber will sell, private sale, his Store and Dwelling House, with other outside buildings, situated at Cardigan Bridge, about 4 chains from Railroad Station. As this is one of the finest and most convenient business stands on the Island, parties desirous of engaging in Merchantile Business, will find it their advantage to call and examine, before purchasing elsewhere.

PRINTING.
Having improved
Power & Gordon Presses,
And a Good Variety of
The Newest Styles of Type,
We are prepared to do all kinds of
BOOK & FANCY JOB PRINTING
on the Lowest Terms, at the
EXAMINER OFFICE.

Properties for Sale.

FREEHOLD PROPERTY FOR SALE, On Lot Number 23.

To be sold by Public Auction, on Wednesday the Twenty-fifth of March, A. D. 1874, at about two o'clock, p.m., at the Colonial Building, Charlottetown, under and by virtue of a power of sale, contained in a Deed of Mortgage, bearing date the Tenth day of December, A. D. 1871, and made between Lazare Boute, of Township number twenty-three, in Queen's County, in the Prince Edward Islands, Farmer, and Anastasia his wife, of the one part, and Henry Jones and Thomas DesBrisay, of Charlottetown, in the said Island, Esquires, of the other part, all the Freehold Estate and Interest of the said Lazare Boute and Anastasia his wife, and all that tract, piece and parcel of land and premises, siting and being in said Township number twenty-three, and bounded as follows, to wit: On the north side of a street called the North Side of King's Square, and on the east side of the road leading from New Glasgow to Cavendish, the same being the north-west corner of a lot of land, containing fifty (50) acres, be the same lot more or less.

Also, all that other tract, piece or parcel of land, siting in the said Township number twenty-three, and bounded as follows, to wit: On the east side of the road leading from New Glasgow to Cavendish, the same being the north-west corner of a lot of land, containing fifty (50) acres, be the same lot more or less.

Also, all that other tract, piece or parcel of land, siting in the said Township number twenty-three, and bounded as follows, to wit: On the east side of the road leading from New Glasgow to Cavendish, the same being the north-west corner of a lot of land, containing fifty (50) acres, be the same lot more or less.

H. J. CUNDALL, for Mortgagees.
Ottawa, 4th Feb., 1874.

Business Stand for Sale!
I will Sell by Public Auction, on FRIDAY,
The 1st day of May next,
at 12 o'clock, noon, if not previously disposed of by private sale, the valuable BUSINESS STAND, at the CORNER of the ROAD AND FRONT STREETS, TO THE WHARF, HILLSBOROUGH RIVER - one of the best shipping places on the Island - consisting of one acre of Land, with the buildings erected thereon, one Dwelling House, x 25 feet, Shop 20 x 19 feet, and Warehouse 28 x 21 feet, - all nearly new and in good repair. For further particulars, apply to E. J. Hodgson, Esq., Charlottetown, or on the premises to
ROBERT WEBSTER,
Fort Augustus, Mar. 16, 1874.

FOR SALE.
A GOOD FARM WEST.