

Time Runs Out In Pipeline Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — Tumultuous scenes such as the Commons have seen in many years have marked the hectic course of a government bill to speed construction of a 2,200-mile natural gas pipeline from Alberta to Ontario and Quebec.

States interests owning 83 per cent of Trans-Canada. So far, their delaying strategy has cut 10 days from the government's original 19-day schedule for getting the measure through both Commons and Senate.

Forest Fires Plague British

firemen and servicemen battled forest fires in seven parched British counties Sunday night. High winds sweeping across wooded lands that haven't had a good rain for more than three weeks made it difficult to keep the fires in check.

Thousands of young trees perished in moving walls of flame that seared through some of Britain's celebrated scenic areas.

I.O.D.E. Spends On Education

QUEBEC (CP) — Nearly $250,000 was spent on education last year by the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire, President Mrs. L. B. Smart of Toronto said at Saturday night's official opening ceremony of the IODE annual meeting.

Smart told the 300 delegates and guests, who included Premier Duplessis, that 17 per cent more bursaries and overseas scholarships were awarded last year by the IODE, compared with the previous year.

Rather than erect stone monuments, since 1920 the IODE has continued to carry on a living memorial to men and women who died in defence of their country by awarding these bursaries and scholarships, said Mrs. Smart.

Two Missing Trout Fishermen Located

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — An RCMP search plane located two missing trout fishermen Saturday and brought them home to St. John's, hungry but unharmed. John Angel, 50, and Charles Rice, 48, had been missing since Thursday in a small patch of open bush country near Placentia on the south coast. Hope for their safety was beginning to wane.

Borden Players Trophy Winners

The Smallman Trophy awarded to the outstanding play in the P. E. I. Drama Festival which ended Saturday evening was won by the Borden Youth Club for their presentation of "You Can't Beat the Irish," directed by the Rev. Preston Hamill.

In summing up the play produced Saturday evening Prof. Harold F. Sippell, the adjudicator, said he felt the director had shown feeling and refreshing originality in his production. The lack of action kept the characters too much in one place and more use should have been made of the stage.

Queen And Children Return To London

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth, Prince Charles and Princess Anne returned to London Sunday from a holiday at Balmoral castle, Scotland amid newspaper reports of tightened security for the royal family.

The Duke of Edinburgh flew back to London Saturday and played polo in Windsor, Great Park the same afternoon. None of the Sunday newspaper reports of special precautions to protect the Queen and the Duke were officially confirmed.

A Scotland Yard spokesman said he could make no comment on a report that extra police were going to guard the royal family against possible attempts on their lives by Cypriot terrorists in Britain. The report, published by the Sunday Dispatch, says the guard has been increased at Oxford Street and Whitehall, and that a "strong force" of police will be stationed at the Royal Albert Hall, where the Queen and Prince Charles are to spend the next seven days. The newspaper adds that Greek-Cypriot terrorists "are known to have smuggled their rifles into Britain."

GERMAN MIXED WITH BRITISH LEADERS

Secret Papers Released

LONDON (Reuters) — A young German who mixed with Britain's leaders at a country home in Windsor shortly before the Second World War later sent a detailed report to Adolf Hitler, official documents disclosed today. The report on the attitude toward Germany of leading British figures was prepared by Adam von Trotz to Salz, a former German Rhodes scholar at Oxford University. It is contained in the latest volume of "Documents on German Foreign Policy 1918-1945—the Last Months of Peace," published here today by the official British stationery office.

Von Trotz in June 1939, obtained an invitation to the country home at Cliveden of Lord and Lady Astor. There he was introduced to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, the foreign secretary, Lord Halifax and Lord Lothian, who a few weeks later was appointed British ambassador to the United States.

Von Trotz recorded his conversations with the British leaders in a 6,000-word report on his "fact-finding mission" which was stamped by German authorities "submitted to the Fuehrer."

He reported that Chamberlain said Conservative rebels against his "appeasement" policy toward Nazi Germany—including Anthony Eden and Winston Churchill—could be "completely ignored and that because of his large majority he need not pay any attention to the opposition."

SECRET IDEA Von Trotz also outlined an idea, said to have been submitted to him in confidence by Lord Lothian, under which Hitler should restore independence of the Bohemia and Moravia sections of the Czechoslovakia. This action would have a "revolutionary effect" on British opinion and would "disarm Hitler's opponent elsewhere, Lord Lothian was said to have argued. The main theme of the whole

Reveal Nazis Made Attempt To Sway Republican Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secret documents made public Saturday recount that Nazi propagandists with the aid of a "well-known Republican congressman" in trying to get the 1940 Republican party convention to adopt an "isolationist" platform.

No name was given for the congressman in captured German documents held secret for 16 years by British, French and American officials. They were made public without comment by the state department, but a footnote cited a keep-out-of-war newspaper advertisement published at the time over the signature of Hamilton Fish Jr., then a Republican representative from New York.

Fish, asked for comment, said he remembers the ad very well and he added, that in raising the money to pay for it, "not one cent came from German sources."

ISOLATIONISTS LOSING Many of the documents made public were cables to Berlin from Hans Thomsen, counsellor and man-in-charge at the German embassy in Washington in 1940, the last full year of peace for the United States before it entered the Second World War.

It was a year of struggle between so-called isolationists and interventionists in American politics. The struggle was heightened by the fall of France, Italy's entry into the war against the Allies and

SAVAGE CLASHES SATURDAY NIGHT

Turkish vs. Cypriot Racial Explosion Is Threatened

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) British troops strung barbed wire between the Turkish and Greek sections of Nicosia Sunday, as the slaying of a Turkish-Cypriot policeman threatened a new racial explosion following savage Greek-Turkish rioting Saturday night. The policeman died of wounds caused by a terrorist bomb hurled as he was standing guard at a courthouse in Paphos. His death followed the slaying of another Turkish-Cypriot auxiliary policeman and a Greek-Cypriot in a violent riot Saturday night at the village of Afania, outside Nicosia. Turkish and Greek Cypriots battled in the moonlight with fists, knives and sticks as buildings and haystacks were set afire at Afania. It was the worst clash so far between the Turkish and Greek Cypriots, at odds over agitation to unite this British Mediterranean colony with Greece. Turkish Cypriots oppose the union-with-Greece movement. The Turkish-Cypriot slain at Afania was attacked by Greek-Cypriot villagers as he drove into the town on a motorcycle, a Turkish newspaper said. The Greek-Cypriot was killed by snots fired by security forces sent to quell the riot. Nine persons were wounded, and 20 were detained for questioning by authorities.

EIGHT STORES BURNED Each side blamed the other for starting the fighting. Eight Greek stores were set on fire by angry Turkish-Cypriots in Nicosia Sunday, and British authorities clamped a curfew on the Turkish quarter of the city for the first time during the evening. Barbed wire went up between the Turkish and Greek quarters here, and British troops stood guard at Paphos, Afania and other centres. More Turkish outbreaks were feared following the death of the policeman. British troops, meanwhile, moved into the Greek central sector of Nicosia and evicted more than 150 persons from stores, offices and homes as punishment for failure to give information on bomb-throwing in the area last Monday which fatally wounded a British soldier. Thirty-four stores, 17 houses and a big office building had their entrances sealed as the occupants were turned out for the next three months. An official statement said the rioting at Afania broke out late Saturday night after members of the town's Turkish community had returned from a wedding celebration at a nearby village. One Turkish farmhouse was reported to have been burned down and set on fire during the outbreak.

SOS Strengthens Hope For Pilot Missing In Arctic

WINNIPEG (CP) — A third SOS signal and terse message, "Down on an ice field," strengthened hope Sunday that a pilot missing nine days in the Arctic barrens about one hundred miles of Winnipeg is safe.

The RCAF at Winnipeg said the signals came from C. C. Crossley, 60-year-old pilot from Toronto missing since May 19 on a flight from a secret "EW-line site" to Churchill, Man.

The messages were garbled, but a bearing was picked up indicating the pilot's position was near Sturges Island. Two SOS signals were picked up Saturday but RCAF search planes failed to find any trace of the missing pilot when they scoured the area Saturday night after being grounded by a low ceiling most of the day.

Circus Husband Saves His Wife

WASHINGTON (AP) — A swaying pole snapped Friday night, plunging aerialist Elizabeth Nocks 21, toward tankard 55 feet below in the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey circus.

Her husband, Joseph, 24, swinging on the top of another swaying pole snatched at her arms. He caught her.

Both slid safely down his pole to the ground.

Mrs. Nocks performed a similar rescue for her husband in New York earlier this season when his pole snapped as they presented their act.

GAS INVENTOR DIES

LONDON (Reuters) — Dr. Martha Annie Whiteley, co-inventor of a gas used against the Germans in the First World War, died here Thursday. She was 80. She started her career at 20 as a teacher at a suburban high school and soon was teaching at the Royal College of Science.

COMIC DOCUMENT

Another reference to the apparent interception of confidential British diplomatic messages is made in a memorandum by Ernst von Weizsaecker, German state secretary, on a meeting he had with the British ambassador in Berlin, Sir Neville Henderson, May 15.

Von Weizsaecker wrote that the ambassador was "plainly anxious to unburden himself of some instructions already known to us through other channels" to the effect that Britain "... was ready and determined to go to the help of Poland in accordance with her pledged word."

Mention is also made in the documents of efforts in 1939 to preserve world peace made by President Franklin Roosevelt and Pope Pius XII.

The Roosevelt appeal is referred to by Weizsaecker as "a comic document of mental aberration and not a diplomatic document to be taken at all seriously."

The documents also reveal details of German intrigue in the Middle East. A report to Berlin by Fritz Grobba, German minister to Iraq and Saudi Arabia, said Grobba in a talk with the late King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia had "gained the definite impression that he hates the British and is trying to extricate himself from their hands."

It said the king wanted 8,000 rifles and a small munitions factory in return for cooperation with Germany.

WOMEN CONCEAL WEAPONS

French In Unprecedented Arms Raid On Arab Area

ALGIERS (AP) — Thousands of battle-dressed French troops and special police swooped down Sunday on Algiers' Casbah (Arab area) in an unprecedented raid for rebel suspects and arms.

They seized a quantity of arms, some of them concealed beneath the white dresses of veiled Moslem women, and detained 4,480 Moslems for questioning. All were released later except 522, detained as "super-suspects."

The French troops sealed off the 16th-century Casbah, hitherto considered an inviolable refuge for Moslems, and held it in an iron grip for 18 hours.

The raiding party of 6,000 troops and 1,500 special police swarmed through the dark recesses and twisting, narrow streets of the area. Searchers combed through the possessions of some 50,000 Moslems and 6,000 Frenchmen who have infiltrated the area over the years.

Japan Has Bomb Jitters

TOKYO (AP) — Japan reported three cases of "hydrogen bomb jitters" Saturday in the wake of the May 21st Bikini test.

Stevadores refused to unload the British freighter Arufara at Kobe until after authorities had checked with geiger counters and assured them the vessel was not radioactive. The freighter left Brisbane, Australia, May 6 with a cargo of wool and scrap.

Fishing boat owner Kiyoshi Yoshida reported to the coast guard at Iwakai port, north of Tokyo, that one of his skippers "might have" been affected by radioactivity from the Bikini test while cruising in Indonesian waters.

A coast guard spokesman said "the matter is not even worth investigating because the fishing boat was so far from the test area."

Some newspapers featured pictures of the Japanese freighter Chowa Maru, which underwent geiger counter tests in Tokyo harbor after reporting a geiger count up to 10,000 on its homeward voyage from New Caledonia. The Tokyo tests showed nothing significant.

Charges Rights Of People Are Challenged By Federal Gov't

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — George Drew, national Progressive Conservative party leader, said Saturday the rights of the Canadian people are being challenged by the federal government.

He said the Liberal administration has grown contemptuous of these rights and that the Opposition in the House of Commons now is on a crusade for democracy.

In reference to the tumultuous happenings in the House of Commons last week during debate on the controversial trans-Canada pipeline issue, the Opposition leader said:

"The opposition is the most important part of Parliament. It is what differentiates our government from a dictatorship. The existence of the Opposition is the hallmark of democracy. This now has become a crusade for democracy."

B. C. Holding Fires In Check

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia held its own against forest fire and flood threats during the week-end with no major trouble spots reported.

Cooler weather helped ease the fire hazard in the big Vancouver forest district covering the southern parts of Vancouver Island and the mainland.

District forester D. B. Taylor, after making an aerial survey of the Secheil peninsula about 50 miles north of here, said a fire which swept over more than 2,500 acres of second growth last week was "reasonably under control."

The flood threat in the Fraser valley eased somewhat with a two-inch drop in 24 hours in the river level at Mission. The water stood Sunday at 18.85 feet.

BUY OLD POW CAMP

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — An island in Sandusky bay, once a Civil War prison camp, is being turned into a residential resort. Some Cleveland promoters bought Little Johnson's Island—all except one acre where 206 Confederate army officers are buried. The promoters said Saturday they have already sold one-third of the lots along the coast line and are negotiating for construction of a three-mile causeway to the mainland.

FOR GERMANY

Officer Cadet James Arnold Mullin leaves today for Halifax where he will join his unit preparatory to proceeding to Montreal where the entire contingent is scheduled to leave Montreal by air on June sixth and fly direct to Dusseldorf, Germany from where they will be transported to their headquarters at Soest, Germany by Army transport. Officer Cadet Mullin, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mullin, 15 Park Terrace, is a graduate of Queen Square School and has just completed his third year at St. Dunstan's University. He expects to complete his training overseas and return home by Mid-September to continue his studies at the University. Officer Cadet Mullin is the sole representative from the Province chosen by Army Headquarters, Ottawa, to take the overseas training course.

OLDEST SA OFFICER DIES

BIDBOROUGH, England (AP) — Mrs. Hannah Lord, 98, believed to be the oldest Salvation Army officer in the world, died Thursday. She had the rank of brigadier. Her husband, Brigadier William Lord, who died three years ago, served with the army's founder, William Booth, in the early days of the organization.
