THE TREE HOUSE

This is a little boutique at 79 queen st. owned and operated by Richard and Rosemary Whitlock. Opened early this summer past, it offers a small but exclusive selection of clothing ranging from tunics imported from India to gowns from Montreal, as well as a variety of dresses, vests, knickers etc. made at the shop. These are designed by Rosemary and sewn by Judi Burbidge, who is their resident seamstress.

During his spare time Richard makes and sells leather and suede belts and pouches at very reasonable prices.

Aside from this, there is an arrangement of paintings, pottery and hand weaving by Barry Jeeves and his wife Joan. Stone pendants are also contributed by their young daughter, Trilly.

Artist, Bill Murry, displays his hand drawn writing paper depicting designs of the "Tarot". An explanation of the Tarot designs are enclosed with the paper.

Another great asset of the shop is that anything requested in dress wear or leather work can be made special if you have an idea or design of the article you would like.

Note...Sale at the Tree House till Nov. 23

Feed Your Head

On Saturday Nov.13, the "Covered Wagon" set up camp again at the Confederation Center, with right down home hospitality, strangers lessened and acquaintances grew. The only real grub consisted of fresh brewed coffee but most were more concerned with feeding their heads, with relaxing noises and stimulating conversation.

Music was well varied although all of it agreed to everyone's tastes. Jean Degend was first to initiate the audience skilfully dancing articulate fingers over classical guitar, there following, George Rogers played a mean fiddle, with Jean Degend backing up on guitar. Later George took the limelight soloing on guitar and Alternating between unique tastes in folk ballads and wry wit, he seemed to feel for an audience. My choice for the evening would have to be Edan, whose angelic voice mirrored that of Jani Mitchell. Her choice of "every day" tunes and originality reflected experiences in common with the audience, but most important her voice seemed to flow from the heart. I'm convinced she feels exactly all she sings, beautiful Frankie Trainor appeared next and moving from Dodavan through Lightfoot and even on to Jesus Christ Superstar with his superb blending guitar and voice. Jim, left handed, playing a right handed guitar upside down managed quite well in holding the audience.

Handicrafts for Christmas

An interesting idea for Christmas gift buying would be to visit the Handicraft sale this weekend and pick up some Isla Island made handicrafts. The Craftsmen Council Christmas Fair will be held in Memorial Hall of Confederation Center Fri. Nov. 19, 10am-9pm and Sat. Nov. 20, 10am-5pm.

MUSICAL NOTES

A very special night of entertainment is being planned for the night of Sat. Dec. 11th, at Colonel Gray High School Auditorium at 8:15pm. The Colonel Gray Legion Concert Band and the Charlottetown Legion Mens Chorus will present a Christmas Cabaret, which has not been tried before and promises to be an interesting experience for every member of the family.

people of all ages will be welcome, particularly family groups. Tickets will be $1.00 for adults and $0.50 for students. Refreshments are included.

On Sun. night Dec. 12, a Christmas Concert will be held at Confederation Center, featuring the P.E.I. Symphony, the U.P.E.I. Chorus and members of other choirs in the city.

An interesting selection of symphonic and choral music will be presented, climaxing in the combined presentation of the Halleluiah Chorus from Handel's Messiah.

Plans for a Community Carol Sing are in the works for the week before Christmas. It will be the first annual Community Carol Sing held in Charlottetown, and will be one of the first in Canada held on such a grand scale.

This event will be held on Tues. Dec. 21 and Thurs. Dec. 23 from 8-9pm, provided the weather is suitable.

It is hoped by the organizers that as many people as possible can take part in this open air event, not in the massive choir, then on the sidelines in front of Memorial Hall, Confederation Center.
