Planning Officer Is Guest Speaker

MONTAGUE — Stanley W. Bishop, Provincial Planning Officer from Charlottetown, was guest speaker on Monday evening at the Trinity Mens Club at their first fall meeting. Mr. Bishop was appointed Provincial Planning Officer in July. In his address he outlined some of the programs for planning and stated man has always planned, and accepts planning. Why? Because he wants to accomplish and progress. He must inspire changes and avoid undesirable changes. Facts must be analyzed and the science of planning must be put to use. Planning is the product of people and the terms "Master Plan", "Zoning By-Laws", and "Capital Budget" will become quite familiar in the future. Mr. Bishop was educated in England and held several positions to qualify him for the position as provincial planner. The dinner was the first held for the 1966-1967 season and was well attended and all expressed their appreciation to Mr. Bishop for his talk and for the films shown.

Water Gushing From Well Is Trouble In Arid Valley

By ROBERT MACKENZIE
OTTAWA (CP)—What do you do with a well producing 500,000 gallons of water a day in an arid valley?
The Geological Survey of Canada has no choice in the matter. It has to shut it off.
"It's rather embarrassing," says Dr. S. C. Robinson, chief of the economic geology division of the survey bureau. "Farmers in the Coldstream Valley southeast of Vernon, B.C., signed a $6,000,000 contract for an irrigation program only a week before a geological survey field party struck water 17 months ago while drilling for a geological mapping project. But the water they struck was in a rather inconvenient location next to a building on the Coldstream Ranch and to date has been uncontrollable. After some ill-fated efforts to halt the flow, Dr. Robinson now hopes the field party led by Dr. J. S. Scott has got the problem licked. "At least I think we've got the flow stabilized," he said in an interview. The unwanted water presented a unique engineering problem because of two facts: The underground water reservoir struck by the six-inch drill about 200 feet below the surface is under considerable pressure—enough to leap 70 feet above ground in a pipe—and the soil is composed of rather loose gravel, which has eroded and enlarged the original hole. In the summer of 1965, just after the water started pouring to the surface, several efforts were made to plug the hole with cement. They failed. FINALLY SOLVED
Engineering consultants called in had no solutions. "Some told us they wanted to know how we eventually solved it," Dr. Robinson said. The final solution—shutting off the flow—won't be possible until next spring but Dr. Robinson said he feels the problem has finally been solved. Becker Drilling of Calgary has installed a 30-inch-diameter steel casing to contain the flow from a depth of about 150 feet. The area outside the casing has general call for Mr. Maloney. The Toronto lawyer, who was MP for Toronto Parkdale between 1957 and 1962, congratulated Mr. Camp and all those who had worked in his cause. The crowded ballroom of the downtown Chateau Laurier was a tumult of noise after the result of the crucial election was announced. The air of tension had built up all day and during the three hours of voting. WILL SEEK CONVENTION
In his nomination speech in the afternoon, Mr. Camp said he would seek a leadership convention next year or before the next general election. He has been campaigning across the country for reassessment of the party leadership. Mr. Maloney said in his nomination speech that the Conservative party owes loyalty and respect to Mr. Diefenbaker, now 71. As long as the lawyer from Prince Albert is party leader "Arthur Maloney stands up." Camp supporters hooped Mr. Maloney when he ran over his allotted 12 minutes speaking time but the tone was fairly subdued after booring, hissing and heckling given Mr. Diefenbaker when he spoke Monday night. By agreement, all banners in the convention hall were taken down before the nomination speeches. There were no nominations except those of Mr. Camp, 46, and Mr. Maloney, 47. Mr. Camp won the draw to speak first.

Many Drugs Pure Junk, Is Claim

OTTAWA (CP)—Too many drugs on the market to day are "pure junk", Dr. Alan S. Davidson, a Toronto psychiatrist, told the Commons drug prices inquiry Tuesday. "A drug doesn't have to be good to be successful," he said. "Sales volume is apparently a function of promotional intensity." A drug's success requires only "partial or slight efficacy," he said in a brief which he himself described as "biased." Bryce Mackenzie (L—Montreal Verdun) called the brief "a rather strong condemnation of the medical profession." Its author, who directs a clinical research unit for the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation of Ontario, emphasized that it was a private brief containing his "own personal views." BRIEFS "BIASED"
Most of the briefs presented to the committee are biased, he said. "I was being extravagant and caustic to make a point." The brief states "government, medicine and industry have not protected the prescription drug consumer." It describes government control as "erratic, impulsive, expedient and inadequately enforced." Dr. Davidson said there is unnecessary duplication of many drugs. "Our controls are substandard. New products of dubious novelty or utility are marketed."

Specialist To Address Canadian Club Dinner

Dr. John D. Griffin, physician and specialist in psychiatry will be guest speaker at the Canadian Club dinner scheduled for The Charlottetown Hotel next Tuesday Nov. 22. Dr. Griffin's early experience in undergraduate medicine in Toronto and postgraduate studies in Providence, R.I., and London, England, brought him to commit his life to intensify public support for improved mental health services in Canada. In 1936 he joined Dr. Clarence M. Hincks, founder of the Canadian Mental Health Association, as his first lieutenant, and in 1962 succeeded Dr. Hincks as General Director. During war years, Dr. Griffin was an officer of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps and was psychiatric consultant at army headquarters. Since then he has held appointments as a consultant on human relations to leading Canadian corporations, to education systems and in connection with mental health programs of the C.B.C. He has lectured at the University of Toronto School of Social Work, the Department of Psychology and the College of Education. As well as organization of the public into a vigorous voluntary health movement, he spurred the formation, and developed financial support, for a private committee of outstanding professionals to study Canada's mental health services and make a blue print for their future development in accord with modern concepts. He also sparked and brought into action a unique scientific research program, financed by contributions to the Canadian Mental Health Association, that has been acclaimed internationally for its ideals and approach. The reception is scheduled to commence at 6 o'clock, with the dinner getting underway at 6:30 sharp.

Grand Jury Returns True Bill Against S'ide Man

SUMMERSIDE — A True Bill was found by a Grand Jury here yesterday in the case against George Michael Charles (Junior) Kinch, Summerside, charged with Break, Entry and Theft at the store of Edward Sharbell in Portage, in the only case on the Supreme Court docket. Taken in the theft August 8 were an office safe containing some $3,500 in currency, $1,500 in cheques, three watches, a purse containing $350, bonds, securities and other papers. Presiding is Justice R.E. Bell. The Grand Jury made the following recommendations in its report yesterday afternoon: That the Provincial Government acquire a Minimum Security Prison Farm for P.E.I. That facilities be made available in the new institution for training prisoners to be more useful citizens, so that on their release, they would be in a position to be gainfully employed. Assuming that under a new program for the care and training of prisoners in such a prison much of the present prison area would be unoccupied, the extra space could be used for Government offices and the jail grounds could be used for parking facilities. No registration should be issued for any motor vehicle unless it is covered with at least Public Liability Insurance. Members of the Grand Jury were: Kenneth MacLean, Lot 16, Foreman; Claude Ives, J. Frank Jenkins, both of Summerside, Thane Ellis, O'Leary, William Roy S. MacLeod, Tignish, Archibald Montgomery, Lower Bedouque, Bruce Carruthers, Howland R.E., Robert Schurman, Freshford, and Fred J. Peters, St. Louis. A Petit Jury will be sworn in today and six Crown witnesses will be called. The six are Edward Sharbell, owner of the store in Portage; Summerside

Tuesday morning. While only a few were believed to have expressed their own opinions at these meetings, the four Island MPs were asked to indicate where they stood. The Island MPs split down the middle on both questions. Senior Queens' MP Hon. J. Angus MacLean and Kings' MP Melvin MacQuaid were Diefenbaker-Maloney supporters while Junior Queens' MP Heath MacQuarrie and Prince MP David MacDonald favored reassessment of the party leadership and supported Mr. Camp's bid for reelection. Perhaps not too surprisingly, the split is in lines of age with the two older Island MPs supporting the present leadership and the two younger ones seeking a change. Some delegates who voted for Mr. Camp are expected to express their appreciation of Mr. Diefenbaker's past services by voting confidence in him Wednesday, one delegate said that an effort is being made to avoid such a showdown at all and to eliminate the confidence vote. DEPENDS ON WORDING
Another expressed the view that their vote on this issue, if it is held, would depend largely on the wording. "It depends if we are being asked to vote on Mr. Diefenbaker's past record or to give him a vote of confidence to carry on indefinitely in the future," the delegate explained. But whatever the outcome, it is apparent that the party has suffered seriously by the split and it will take some time for the bitterness to be healed in all sections of the country. Not a few delegates expressed the view that it all could have been avoided if Mr. Diefenbaker had taken the initiative some months ago to make clear his intention to step aside some time next year after the main centennial celebrations have been completed. These delegates claim that such a statement would have prevented Mr. Camp from starting his campaign for reassessment and would have allowed this week's meeting to deal with matters of national policy, something that has been almost totally ignored so far.

Sheppard Case Ready For Jury

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The case of Samuel H. Sheppard, charged with second-degree murder in the 1954 blood-slaying of his first wife Marilyn, goes to the jury again today. The retrial of Sheppard, 42, ended Tuesday with the state renewing its long-standing motive for the slaying—Sheppard's bygone love affair with Susan Hayes. Twelve years ago a jury believed the state and convicted Sheppard of murder. He was sentenced to life in prison. But after nine years in prison he won a retrial from the United States Supreme Court.

a justice department legal opinion approving the step. Interim supply debates continue until the opposition stops talking. By withholding interim spending authority, oppositions can starve a government out of office, and into a general election. Last week, as the deadline for paying civil servants' salaries approached, there were indications this might happen. It was Thursday night when Prime Minister Pearson relieved the pressure by announcing that with the aid of computers the government had discovered some already-approved but unspent money. Several Conservatives, including Mr. Baldwin, have demanded an early hearing by the Commons public accounts committee to study the propriety and legality of the step. WANTS STUDY
Earlier, Donald MacInnis (PC—Cape Breton South) continued to press for an immediate committee study of the unification bill. He charged the government with conducting a program of deceit and blackmail designed to keep the opposition from criticizing a "stupid bill from a stupid minister." He challenged the government to move its motion, still
