THE AMERICAN

$8.00 Typewriter.

This is a well-made, practical machine, writing capitals, small letters, figures, and punctuation marks (71 in all) on full width paper, just like a $100 instrument. It is the first of its kind ever offered at a popular price for which the above claim can be truthfully made. It is not a toy, but a typewriter built for and capable of REAL WORK. While not as rapid as the large machines so netimes become in expert hands, it is still at least as rapid as the pen and has the advantage of such simplicity that it can be understood and mastered almost at a glance. We cordially commend it to helpful parents and teachers everywhere.

- Writes capitals, small letters, figures and marks—71 in all.
- rites just like a $100 machine.
- No Shift Keys. No Ribbon. Prints from the type direct.
- Prints on flat surface.
- Writing always in sight.
- Corrections and insertions easily made.
- Takes any width of paper or envelope up to 8½ inches.
- Easy to understand—learned in 5 minutes.
- Weighs only four pounds—most portable.
- Compact, takes up but little room.
- Built solid and simple; can't get out of order.
- Capital and lower case keyboard alike—easily mastered.
- More "margin play" for the small letters which do most of the work.
- Takes good letter-press copies.

Packed securely in handsome case and expressed to any address on receipt of price, $8.00, in registered letter, money order or certified check. We guarantee every machine, and are glad to answer all inquiries for further information as to this machine and also the "Yost."

"She Looketh Well

to the ways of her household." Yes, Solomon is right; that's what the good housekeeper everywhere does, but particularly in Canada.

But her ways are not always old ways. In fact she has discarded many unsatisfactory old ways. For instance, to-day she is using the New Shortening, instead of lard. And this is in itself a reason why "she looketh well" in another sense, for she eats no lard to cause poor digestion and a worse complexion.

COTTOLENE is much better than lard for all cooking purposes, as every one who has tried it declares. Have you tried it?

AN 800 MILE JOURNEY

THROUGH GROUND NEVER BEFORE TRAVELLED BY WHITE MAN.

The Tyrrell Brothers Explore the Unknown Territory—The Perils of The Voyage Down Hudson Bay in Canoes—Six Months Away from Civilization.

J. B. and J. W. Tyrrell, sons of a Weston, Ont., resident, and members of the Dominion Civil Service, tell the story of their recent trip in the frozen lands of the north. The former said:

On May 26, 1893, our party left the end of the railway track at Edmonton and journeyed by team to Athabasca River. Our party consisted of myself and brother, and three Iroquois Indians from Caughnawaga, near Montreal, and three natives of the Saskatchewan district. We took with us three large waterboro canoes, each with a carrying capacity of about 1800 pounds. At the Landing we launched our canoes and paddled down to Lake Athabasca. Here we bade adieu to the white man and civilization. We traveled along the north shore of the lake for about 200 miles, and then ascended the Black river and Black lake. From here we got over the height of land by numerous portages, and came upon a river the water of which flows northward. We determined to follow this river, but were quite ignorant whether it flowed into the Artic Ocean or into Hudson Bay. It turned out that we were on a stream that after a course of some 800 miles found its way into the west side of Hudson Bay at Chesterfield inlet.

We reached the inlet about Sept. 1. On our trip to Hudson Bay we journeyed through 850 miles of entirely new country. No white man had ever crossed that region before, and there is no record or report of any Indian having done it either. The knowledge that the Indians have of this unknown region is entirely mythical, as I learned from experience.

Until we got to Chesterfield inlet we had plenty to eat and lived fairly well. Our staple diet was reindeer steak. We shot reindeers every day. The country is just full of these animals. You will hardly believe me when I tell you of one occasion I saw a veritable sea of reindeers. I should estimate there were several hundred thousand in that herd. It was one of the greatest sights I ever witnessed. I had an obstructed view for three miles, and the whole tract was covered with reindeers.

The ground is always frozen in this country, except a few inches on the surface in summer. The grass thaws out during this season and the deers live on it. In winter they subsist on moss.

Chesterfield inlet was found to be a long deep fiord. There was no sign of ice in the inlet till about the middle of September. We stayed two weeks here. It was now getting late in the season, and we had to take a speedy departure for Churchill Harbor, which is some 90 miles south of Chesterfield inlet on the Hudson bay. It was in making this trip down the bay that we experienced our greatest hardships. Our objective point was Churchill, 500 miles south of Chesterfield inlet. We left about the middle of September and reached Churchill October 19. You can imagine the discomforts of a canoe voyage in October along Lake Ontario. Just multiply those by a pretty large number and you will get an idea of our canoe trip on the open sea. When we left Chesterfield we had provisions for about eight or ten days only, consisting of dried reindeer meat, bacon and a little flour. Then the cold was intense, the sky was constantly overcast and drear. We hardly ever saw the sun and the winds were adverse all the time. Shortly after leaving the inlet we encountered the equinoctial gales and had to lie up for several days. The tides botheredus a great deal, and the lack of wood to cook our provisions was most annoying. The tides rise from 14 to 18 feet, and in some places run four or five miles in on the low land, rendering our progress slow and irritating. The biggest run we ever made was 35 miles in one day and the longest period we were storm-bound was five days. On one occasion we were out two days without being able to land. Three weeks before reaching Churchill our rations began to give out, and our supply kept getting smaller. The cold was more severe and things looked gloomy in the extreme. On one occasion we shot a polar bear, all of which we ate except the skin and bones. We also shot a few ducks out from shore. For five days we had hardly a bite to eat and for two days absolutely nothing. Between hunger and cold we were much reduced in weight when we finally neared Churchill. The ice formed so rapidly on the shore that we could proceed no further by canoe, and I sent two of the men whose condition was the best forward to Churchill for relief. They walked to this place and brought us four dog teams and supplies. It was on Oct. 19 when we reached Churchill.

We remained at Churchill nineteen days to recuperate. I can tell you we were a pretty sick lot of men when we got there. I myself was very weak and had to be carried into the place. But we fell into kind hands. The Rev. Joseph Lofthouse is one of the decentest men that ever lived. He is an English Church clergyman, who was sent out primarily as a missionary to the Esquimos. He now ministers to the Indians. His wife and daughter compose the family. He is a young man and has been at Churchill since 1886. The rest of our journey was made on foot with the assistance of dog teams. On Nov 5 we left Churchill and walked to York Factory. We were delayed 10 days en route waiting for the Nelson river to freeze over. The distance covered between Churchill and York Factory was 200 miles. We remained there four days and got another dog team and started for Oxford House, which is 250 miles southeast of York Factory, reaching that point after 10 days' walking. Here we remained a few days and set out for Norway House. Reaching the latter place we obtained all the dogs we required. We now took sufficient to carry ourselves as well as our supplies to Selkirk, which place we reached on New Year's Day. Thence we took train for Winnipeg.

During our journey from Churchill to Selkirk the weather was extremely cold. The thermometer was generally away down. Near 40 degrees below zero. We slept every night in the open, wrapped tightly in rabbit blankets and close to a fire which lasted for three or four hours after we fell asleep.

During the whole trip we wore Esquimo clothing, which is made of reindeer skin with the hair outside. We made no attempt to wash ourselves during the greater part of the trip. I may say [illegible] my hands and face, but the cold water and the wind produced blisters as big as acorns. I gave it up, and never washed myself for two months at a time.

Our greatest inconvenience was the lack of wood. For about three months we could get almost nothing to cook our meals with, and a great deal of our food was eaten raw. This inability to get fuel, coupled with driving rainstorms such as you never saw here, rendered the flight rather miserable on many an occasion.

The total distance covered by the party, from Athabasca Landing to Churchill, with canoes was 2200 miles, and from Churchill to Winnipeg on foot and by dog team, about 1000 miles. Of the 2200 miles 850 was through an entirely new country never before traveled by white men.

Mr. Tyrrell has made 11 different exploratory expeditions, but this over the great Barren Grounds was by far the most adventurous of all.

TOM AND NELL.

An Island Courtship.—How it Was Carried on.

Tom asked Nell to go with him to the Morell pie social. You see, Tom thought Nell was beautiful, and Nell considered Tom really handsome. Nell said she would be delighted to go. So Tom got his sister to tie up, in a WEEKLY EXAMINER, the white shirt he had had starched at the great steam laundry of Charlottetown, because, you understand, it was some way to Morell, and Tom feared he would crumple and dirty the snow-white bosom with his heavy clothing. As for Nell, she got her brother to tie up in a DAILY EXAMINER her brand new bodice that had just come from the hands of a real Charlottetown modiste, because, of course, a party bodice is not very warm for driving. Well, Tom let Nell off at her aunt's at Morell, and Tom put his horses up at his uncle's. Tom went upstairs, and having washed, he opened the parcel, saying as he did so, "I bet Nell will be just struck on this shirt, and I'll make all the other fellows jealous." Just about the same time Nell opened her bundle at her aunt's with the remark, "Tom will think I am just lovely and the other girls will be green with envy." In place of his shirt, Tom found a beautiful bodice—which he thought his sister must have given him by mistake; and in place of her bodice, Nell discovered, Oh horrors—a snow white shirt—and she blamed her mother with playing a trick on her. Tom started for Nell's Aunt's, and Nell set out for Tom's Uncle's, and they both met half way. Tom said that his foot pained him so that he could not go to the social, and Nell said her head ached so bad that she was just coming over to say that she could not attend either. The consequence was that Tom harnessed up again and they both started off for a drive, because Nell said that the fresh air always cured her of a headache, and Tom protested that nothing relieved a pain in his foot like a sleigh ride. Well, you see it was real comfortable under the sleigh robes, and they got real confidential, so that Tom soon told Nell that he loved her, and Nell, why she said she loved Tom. Then Tom kissed Nell with such a loud smack that the horse was frightened and ran away, and—well, its no use going into particulars, for an account of the marriage will appear in both the daily and weekly editions of THE EXAMINER next June.

A NEW RECIPE FOR LONGEVITY.

A physician who has just died at the age of 107, made known before his death the secret of his longevity. All he did in order to reach that age was to place his bed so that it stood north and south, in the direction of the great magnetic currents. It has been remarked that the flow of the electric current is more intense in a northerly direction during the night than during the day. In considering the favorable effects of the current so often experimented on, it has become evident that turning the head towards the north or rather slightly towards the east, you are under the best conditions for having a sound sleep. The influence of the magnetic current on the human body was proved long ago, and in 1765 a Dr. Clarich, at Gottingen, used to cure the toothache by turning to the north the face of the person on whom he operated and touching the aching tooth with the south pole of the magnetic bar. If, in order to live to old age, it is sufficient to sleep from north to south, it is worth while taking the trouble to change the position of one's bed.—Journal de Debats.

Other Cough Medicines have had their day, but Puttner's Emulsion has come to stay, because its so nice and so good.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. Millers Emulsion is "the kind that cures" colds, coughs, bronchitis and lung disease generally. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50 and $1.00, at druggists.

Deafness Caused by Catarrh.

Capt. S. F. Belyea, of Greenwich, King's Co., N. B., suffered from an aggravated form of catarrh which had in his case induced serious deafness, closed the nasal passages so that he could scarcely breath and caused him great pain and trouble. He tried many remedies, but all failed until he got Hawker's Cattarrh Cure, three 25 cent packages of which effected a cure. "I can honestly say" says capt. Belyea "that I am practically well, and I take great pleasure in recommending Hawker's Catarrh Cure to those who may be suffering from this very troublesome disease."

Mr. Herman Hicks
Of Rochester, N. Y.

Deaf for a Year
Caused by
Catarrh in the Head

Catarrh is a CONSTITUTIONAL disease, and requires a CONSTITUTIONAL REMEDY like Hood's Sarsaparilla to cure it. Read:

"Three years ago, as a result of catarrh, I entirely lost my hearing and was deaf for more than a year. I tried various things to cure it, and had several physicians attempt it, but no improvement was apparent. I could distinguish no sound. I was intending putting myself under the care of a specialist when some one suggested that possibly Hood's Sarsaparilla would do me some good. I began taking it without the expectation of any lasting help. To my surprise and great joy I found when I had taken three bottles that my hearing was returning. I kept on till I had taken three more. It is now over a year and I can hear perfectly well. I am troubled but very little with the catarrh. I consider this a remarkable case, and cordially recommend to all who have catarrh." HERMAN HICKS, 30 Carter Street, Rochester, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

HOOD'S PILLS are purely vegetable, and do not purge, pain or gripe. Sold by all druggists.

Headache and Catarrh.

How many people suffer constantly from the above diseases, which ultimately lead to nervous prostration, consumption and death. Mrs. Whittemore says: "Have had headache and catarrh for years, and found no relief until I took Skoda's Discovery.

I have not had headache once since." Skoda's Discovery purifies the Blood, tones up the nerve centers and makes you well.
