Hungary's

Continued from page 1) to public concern in Canada over reports that teen-agers are being held for execution when they reach the age of 18 for their part in the 1956 uprising.

In a busy weekend, the assembly passed another three items relating to disarmament, making a total of six. Canada supported an Afro-Asian resolution calling on all countries to test nuclear weapons while talks are in progress in Geneva for the controlled cessation of such tests. The vote was 60 to 1 in favor of the 24-nation resolution.

France—earlier chided by the UN for its plans to explode its try voting against the resolution first A-bomb—was the country voting against the resolution but there were 20 abstentions, including Britain and the U.S.

The assembly also took note of a report by UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold on the United Nations Emergency Force that has been standing between Israel and Egypt since the Suez crisis of 1956.

The vote on this formality—the issue now goes to the assembly's budgetary committee—was 66 to 0 with six abstentions. The Soviet bloc, as in other years, attacked the legality of the seven-nation 5,500-man force which was created largely on the initiative of Canada.

UNEF CHIEF PRESENT

Lieut.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, commander of the UNEF was present in the assembly for Saturday's vote and will also be on hand when the budgetary committee discusses the force, Tuesday or Wednesday.

Soviet Delegate Arkady Sobolev declared that the assembly usurped the authority of the 11-member Security Council when it created the force in 1956.

He said the "aggressors" should bear the full $19,000,000-a-year cost of the UNEF, and added that 61 of the 82 UN members this year had failed to meet their share of the cost.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge urged all countries to pay their share and noted that Hammarskjold's report said it was difficult to see when UNEF might be withdrawn "without inviting the risk of dangerous consequences."

U.S. CONTRIBUTIONS HELP

The U.S. has been getting UNEF over the financial hump by making voluntary contributions as well as its regular assessment. Said Lodge: "He who would contribute directly or indirectly to ending this force in the face of Hammarskjold's statement... takes upon himself a heavy and fateful responsibility indeed."

It was a big day for Canada at the UN Tuesday when the General Assembly gave unanimous approval to a Canadian proposal for a world-wide study, involving sampling of air, soil and food, on atomic radiation.

The topic of disarmament was attacked from various angles again in the UN last week. Canada supported a resolution that was adopted asking France to refrain from its Sahara A bomb tests. But President Charles de Gaulle and spokesmen here have indicated the blast will be conducted in any case.

LIMIT NUCLEAR CLUB

That vote was taken when Canada also supported an Irish resolution seeking to limit the so-called nuclear club to the charter members—the U. S., Britain and Russia.

The assembly passed unanimously Friday a resolution, inspired by the U. S. and Russia and co-sponsored by all UN members, referring to a new 10-nation committee all disarmament proposals, including those by Premier Khrushchev and British foreign secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Saturday's main resolution—regarding nuclear tests—was supported by Russia, which now is conducting talks in Geneva with the U. S. and Britain, aimed at halting tests permanently.

The other members of the nine-country Soviet bloc also voted for the proposal, along with the 29-nation Afro-Asian group and most of the 20-nation Latin-American bloc.

Another resolution, backed by Austria, Sweden and Japan, urged the three negotiating countries "to continue their present voluntary discontinuance of the testing of nuclear weapons." The vote was 78-to-0, with Afghanistan and France abstaining.
