
GETS A REAL 'KICK' OUT OF SOCCER

Lawrence Freedman, 54, a London business executive, displays his cheque for 301,739 pounds (935,000), his payoff Tuesday from the British soccer pools. Th cheque, largest payment ever made in a soccer pool, is the result of Freedman's five-shilling (75 cents) investment and his knack of correct picking. He correctly forecast eight drawn matched on a day when the program produced only nine. That gave him the first dividend, one second dividend, two thirds and one fourth. The previous biggest win was £300,683 $902,049. (AP Wirephoto via cable from London)

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market took a loss Tuesday, failing to maintain an advance in the morning. Trading was more active.

A scattering of blue chips once again paced averages into higher ground in early trading but, once more, they failed to get a following.

Steels and rails were weak from the start. Rails were dampened by news of a breakdown in Washington talks in a nation-wide dispute over wages.

The Dow Jones industrial average took a moderate loss of 3.30 at 870.69.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 1.5 to 324.2 with industrials down 1.3, rails down 2.2 and utilities down .2.

Volume rose to 5,000,000 shares from 4,770,000 Monday.

Comsat was the most active stock for the second session in a row, rising 3½ to 62 on 169,500 shares.

In early trading, du Pont continued to bolster the averages with a gain of well over a point but amid general market weakness it failed to hold and ended with a loss of 1.

Among Canadian issues traded Dome Mines and Hudson Bay Mining gained a point, Granby Mining and International Nickel ¼, McIntyre Porcupine ½ and Aluminium Ltd. ⅛. Walker Gooderham lost ⅜, Canadian Pacific ¼.

Prices declined on the American Stock Exchange. Scurry Rainbow Oil gained ⅛. Canadian Javelin eased ⅜, Fargo Oil 1-16.

Hate For Arabs Is Deep In Sudanese Tribesmen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In Arabic, Sudan means black. For hundreds of years, Arab writers have called the vast area dominating the headwaters of the Nile the country of the blacks.

To the Sudan's 4,000,000 Negroes, the country is black more in name than in control. They have long resented domination by the Arab north. A sizable portion of the Sudanese army is tied down in the country's three isolated southern provinces trying to put down a rebellion against the Arab-dominated government in Khartoum.

Hatred of the Arabs is seared deep in the consciousness of the Sudanese tribesmen in the south. It is kept alive by differences in religion, language, customs and race, and stirred by memories of Arab slave raids.

Arab-African relations always have been "a chain of misery and bloodshed," says the Sudan African National Union, which is seeking to wrest the southern provinces from the north and create a new African state of Azania.

The southerners are largely pagan tribesmen, Nilotic, Nubian and Hamitic peoples, who still live the primitive lives of their forefathers. The Arabs of the north are far more cultured and sophisticated.

Blaming Christian missionary activity for the unrest in the southern provinces, the Khartoum regime expelled all Christian missionaries from the area last spring. But the rebellion continues, with tribal warriors striking out of the bush and marching against isolated government outposts.

Serious fighting has gone on for more than a year. The jails are full and thousands of Sudanese have fled across nearby frontiers to escape the bloodshed.

Leader of the southerners is a tall Catholic-educated Dinka tribesman, William Deng. Exiled since 1961, Deng is a shadowy figure drifting among refugee camps in Ethiopia, Uganda, Kenya and The Congo, seeking support for his cause.

House Committee Critical Of Prices On War Surplus

OTTAWA (CP)—A Commons committee has reported values placed on surplus defence department equipment are "frequently unrealistic" and suggested an overhaul of the department's accounting techniques in this field.

In a report tabled in the Commons, the standing committee on public accounts said the defence department maintains only physical inventory quantities for surplus items.

"The related costs of materials, supplies and equipment stored at supply depots, repair and overhaul contractors' establishments are not available. Nor are there reports available which would indicate: The cost of storing and handling such items; the related costs of accelerated depreciation, obsolescence and spoilage; and the cost of money invested in such inevntories."

The report followed establishment of a subcommittee set up to look into sales of surplus defence equipment by Crown Assets Disposal Corporation. A number of accountants were brought in to study the handling and sale of surplus equipment.

The report said subcommittee members were concerned about large quantities of surplus material and small amounts recovered through their sale. It studied Crown assets operations for the 1962-63 fiscal year.

$715,106 RECOVERED

A report by the auditor general showed new and used surplus equipment valued at $29,000,000 was disposed of that year by Crown assets for a recovery of $715,106.

Two accountants were assigned to study the defence department's procurement operation, the way in which items were declared surplus and the sales techniques of Crown assets.

The report outlined these findings:

"No evidence was found to indicate that Crown Assets Disposal Corporation conducted technical market studies to determine approximate fair prices for use as standards to assess the reasonableness of bids received or on which to base reserve bids."

"In a number of cases Crown assets . . . had reclassified new and unsable materials declared surplus by the department of national defence as scrap. . . . Examples of this are the Orenda (jet) engines with a declared value of $1,827,000 and the browning machine-guns with a declared value of $133,701."

"The value of the items declared surplus . . . does not in all cases reflect the original cost to the department."

"The department . . . makes no provision in its accounting records for depreciation or obsolescence chargeable as a cost to national defence nor are such costs reflected or detailed in the estimates. In the absence of such a provision . . . the aluations placed on equipment, stores items and on residual inventories declared surplus are frequently unrealistic."

Chinese Told Soviet Policies Are Unchanged

PEKING (Reuters)—The Chinese have for the first time been told in their newspapers that the new Soviet leaders were previously close colleagues of Nikita Khrushchev and still follow many policies of the former Soviet premier.

The People's Daily, the Chinese Communist party newspaper Saturday devoted its third page and most of its fourth to a week-old speech by Albanian Communist chief Enver Hoxha.

Hoxha criticized the Soviet Union's party first secretary, Leonid Brezhnev, President Anastas Mikoyan, Premier Alexei Kosygin and Mikhail Suslov, a leading party ideologist, as well as Khrushchev and President Tito of Yugoslavia.

Purpose of the exercise was to give U.S. skiers experience in high altitudes and to assist Canadian army skiers in cross-country techniques.
