

THE DAILY EXAMINER

FEBRUARY 10, 1883.

Notes of the Week.

Early in the week, the trial of the men, lately arrested, charged with the murder of Lord Cavendish and Mr. Burke began. At first the prisoners were disposed to be merry over the affair. They shook hands with each other in the court, joked and nodded to their friends; and when the charge was read burst into laughter. But, as the case proceeded, and link after link of the evidence came out unbroken, their apparent lightness of heart gave way to a feeling of deep concern. It is reported that "they leaned over the dock drinking in every word." Should this trial result in the breaking up of the Assassination Club, it is not likely that there will, for some time, be a recurrence of the deeds of blood which have disgraced Ireland, and done so much damage to the cause of her people.—That Earl Spencer left Dublin in a hurry in consequence of the discovery of a plot to assassinate him is not probable.—The latest report is that Dowling has been convicted for the part he took in the murder of Detective Cox, and sentenced to penal servitude for life.

In England and Scotland the farmers continue to grumble about the weather and the landlords. The winter has been marked by a succession of frosts, floods and hurricanes, and the landlords must have his rent. The gloom of the time is only lightened by the early recovery, and anticipated return to his duties, of Mr. Gladstone.

It is announced that Her Majesty will open the Fisheries Exhibition in person; and the indications are that fish as an article of food, is likely to come into more general favor than ever before in the more populous countries.

A stormy season in the French Chambers has been followed by the release of Prince Jerome. It is not likely that the Prince will publish any more manifestoes. The star of the Bonapartes has set.

Floods continue to do great damage in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana. The town of Jasper, O., was flooded on the 7th and the damage reported is enormous. The Ohio River was rising on the 7th at Cincinnati, Portsmouth, and Carleburg; and serious damage was expected. The lower part of the town of Marietta, Ohio, was flooded and hundreds of people were driven from their homes. A Pittsburg dispatch of the 7th says: "From present indications this section will be visited before morning by the greatest flood for 50 years. All day yesterday and last night rain fell in torrents at all points along the Monongahela Valley. The river here has been rising rapidly since noon. Despatches from Morrisstown, Pennsylvania, Greensboro, Brownsville and other towns along the river, report the water rising from 6 to 18 inches per hour. In Indiana the streams were never so high, the damage by flood is very great. Pomroy, Toledo, Millersburg, Suben-burg and other places in Ohio have suffered greatly by the flood.

A Committee of the United States Senate has reported in favor of a termination of the Fishery Articles in the Washington Treaty. The "Fishery Award," made under the Treaty, gave to Canada about four millions of dollars—one and a quarter millions of it having been paid by the British Government to Newfoundland—and the Americans, by the use of purse nets and seines, have done the Fisheries infinite damage. It is to be hoped that when the Fishery Articles are abrogated, the Government of Canada may afford the Fisheries sufficient protection.

In opening Parliament, yesterday, the Governor General referred with satisfaction to the prosperity which now prevails throughout Canada. Our miners, our manufacturers, our farmers, our merchants; all—or at least all who deserve to be—are prosperous. The "Great Lone Land" of the Northwest is lone no longer. It is being opened up and peopled, while the construction of one great railway is going on apace. The surplus revenue of the current year is, so far, about four and three-quarter millions. It is likely that, without interfering with the advantages afforded home enterprise by the National Policy, still further reductions in the tariff will be made. To crown all, the Toronto Globe's Montreal correspondent asserts that "people are well satisfied," and business is in a highly satisfactory state. The Parliamentary measures foreshadowed by His Excellency are: To assimilate the franchise of the various Provinces for the purposes of Dominion elections, to regulate the granting of shop, saloon, and tavern licenses, to regulate factory labor, to protect the interests of men and their families; and bills will be submitted relating to the Customs, the Militia, the Public Lands, the Banking system, the Civil Service, the management of shipping on the inland waters of Canada. After the settlement of the tariff and Pacific Railway questions, and the passage by the last Parliament of many measures of great national importance—this, it will be admitted, is not a bad array of measures for the new Parliament to deal with.

The Legislature of Nova Scotia opened on Thursday under very suspicious circumstances. The Government have the majority; and the Railway Syndicate Scheme of the late Government is in a state of collapse.

In the case of Ireland, we have seen what damage a few villains may do to the good name of a country; and in the decision on the King's County Election case, we have seen how two or three men, innocent of wrong intent, travelling about the country, with black ducks, just before the election, and dispensing free drinks to all who would take them—just for the sake of friendship—have brought down upon the Province, and especially King's County, a judicial rebuke.

The dismissal, without cause assigned, of Mr. H. B. Smith, has created some feeling in this City. We learn that His Worship the Mayor has not acceded to the prayer of the petition for a public meeting at which cause might be shown why Mr. Smith should be re-appointed.

Editorial Notes.

The New York Herald calls upon the Legislature of that State to devise some method to prevent and punish the adulteration of sugar by the use of glucose.

The resolution of the Presbytery of P. E. Island calling upon Parliament to make the crime of seduction legally criminal, is attracting attention in the neighboring Provinces.

The St. John Telegraph is in receipt of the following telegram from a prominent member of the Methodist Church of Canada in Toronto:—

Thirty quarterly meetings of the Methodist Church of Canada in Ontario voted last night, all for Union. Over fifty in all have thus far voted and all in favor of Union. Three-fourths have been unanimous, the others by large majorities. Tomorrow's quarterly meeting will be numerous. The Primitive Methodist have thus far voted strongly in favor of Union.

The famous blue laws of Connecticut, enacted by the Dominion of New Haven, were so called because printed on blue paper. They prohibited the ceremony of marriage being performed by a clergyman, on the strange ground that a magistrate might perform it with less scandal to the church. Adultery was punished by death. Wearing clothes trimmed with gold, silver or lace, above one shilling a yard, involved a tax on the persons estate of $15. "No one to cross a river on the Sabbath, but authorized clergymen. No one shall travel, cook, make-bed, sweep-houses, cut hair, or shave on the Sabbath. No one shall kiss his or her children on the Sabbath or fasting days. The Sabbath day shall begin at sunset Saturday."

The following is the official statement of the revenue and expenditure on account of the Consolidated Fund of the Dominion of Canada, as by returns furnished to the Finance Department to the night of the 31st January:—

The Digby Tragedy.

Our exchanges bring further particulars of the tragedy at Marshalltown, N. S., reported by telegraph on Thursday. It appears the row began in the house between the deceased, Jas. Worthylake, and Dennis Hutchinson, who came in the house during the evening. There was a bad feeling between them. Hutchinson's niece had had an illegitimate child, of which Worthylake was reputed to be the father, and on account of which he had been compelled by legal process to pay $340. Worthylake had some words on a side of his house with a man named Brooks. He came in and, taking his hat, went out again saying, "They will go for me, will they?" Hutchinson followed and endeavored to strike him. Worthylake, who was a much smaller man than Hutchinson, drew a revolver and said, "Keep off or I will shoot you." Hutchinson followed, whereupon Worthylake discharged the revolver, the ball entering Hutchinson near the centre of the breast, going through the second rib. They then clinched and fell. Worthylake being underneath. He was heard to exclaim, "Dennis you are killing me." Hutchinson replied, "You have shot me." Immediately afterwards the pistol was discharged again, the ball entering the left side of Worthylake's head and being buried in his brain. He immediately expired. The coroner's jury returned a verdict in eff et that Dennis Worthylake, came to his death from a bullet shot in the head, discharged from a revolver, while he was on the ground engaged in a scuffle with Dennis Hutchinson. Hutchinson is not expected to recover. The doctors are unable to find the bullet. Worthylake was only 22 years of age. He was a sailor. Hutchinson is a farmer, about 30 years of age. He is married, and has two or three children.

A Paris despatch says Jules Ferry yesterday recommended President Grevy to expel the Orleans princes by a decree. Grevy hesitates to take such a course, but it will probably be adopted. If a ministry is formed under Ferry, sweeping changes in the ministry, making virtually a new cabinet, are expected to be gazetted on Sunday next. It is even said that General Thiaudin, Minister of War, will be the only member of the present ministry remaining.

M. Falliere, President of the French Council has expressed his intention to resign.

Religious Movements in our Midst.

REPORTS FROM THE CHURCHES.

The Rev. Edward Osborne—or Father Osborne, as he is generally called in this town and elsewhere—who has been conducting the Mission in St. Peter's, is a member of the Society of St. John the Evangelist. The Society has its chief house at Cowley, near Oxford, in England, where the Superior, Father Benson, who held a Mission in our town some years ago, resides. It was founded some sixteen years ago by three clergymen, who associated themselves in a common rule of life. Their intention was to adopt a high standard of life for themselves, or, as it is technically called, to live a Religious Life; and also to devote themselves to the Missionary work of the Church. Other clergymen have since joined them, and the Society now numbers about thirty members. Besides its central house in England, the Society has branch houses or stations at Bombay, Poonah and Indore, in the East Indies; and at Philadelphia and Boston, in the United States. The last of these houses Father Osborne belongs to. The Rev. John Ellis, who was formerly so well known in this town, is now a member of the Society, and is attached to the Bombay house. The rule of the Society, which is much the same as that of all Religious Orders, includes the vows of Chastity, Poverty and Obedience, or, as they are commonly understood, "No wife, No money, No will." The members give up all home ties, and have no private possessions, everything belonging to the Society being held in common. They receive no payment for their labors, and they go wherever they are sent by their Superior, upon the request of the Bishops, or parochial authorities. Two members of the Society lately spent four months in British Columbia at the request of the Bishop, preaching and working among the laborers on the Canada Pacific Railway. Of the character of the work done by the Society, those who attended the late mission at St. Peter's Church can form some idea. If we may judge by what we have heard of it, it seems to be characterized by directness and thoroughness of teaching, and by attention to practical details and needs of every day life of men and women of the present time. The notice in our columns of the children's mission, with its special addresses to teachers, parents, elder brothers and sisters bears us out in this remark.

For several weeks past, members of St. James' Church congregation have been meeting several days in each week for religious service, chiefly of a devotional character. Various persons took part in the same by practical addresses, and leading in prayer, or topics commonly indicated by the minister of the church. Notwithstanding the prevalence of sickness and other causes which detained some from attendance who would otherwise have been present, the numbers coming out were considerable, the tone and spirit of the meetings sober and devout, and the service of song hearty and general. The last of these meetings, held on Friday evening, was especially full and interesting. The longer the brethren continued in fellowship the interest deepened; and it may be hoped that permanent good has been secured. For the present the week-evening meetings will be limited to Wednesday, on which the noon day prayer-meeting of the congregation is held. The spirit and prosperity of the church, the interests of the young, and the state of the Evangelical Churches in the Province, were topics which engaged the attention of the worshippers, and were the subjects of their united supplications. Attention is affectionately called to the importance of prayer in families, and prayer in social meetings for the blessing of God on His Church and people, and upon the public services, and the Christian efforts of the congregation. The subject of missions and of church and congregational unity in aim and effort, will be considered more fully at subsequent meetings. On Sabbath next (to-morrow) the Minister will call attention to the duty of Christians in reference to the training and maintenance of a regular ministry; and the part which the membership should bear in encouraging and upholding the same.

Since the Week of Prayer, special services have been held in the Methodist Brick Church, Prince Street, under the superintendence of the pastor, the Rev. Professor Burwash, M. A. The Sunday evening sermons of that gentleman were marked by fervid eloquence and spiritual power; and the week-evening meetings have been of a very impressive and interesting character. The sermons and addresses bearing especially upon the duty of every individual, at once taking a decided stand against sin, and entering upon an earnest Christian life, while the prayers have been fervent and appropriate. In connection with these special services there have been held women's meetings for prayer in the afternoon, and prayer meeting for young men in the early part of the evenings. The services have been characterized by unusual solemnity. The attendance has been large, and the results will, doubtless, be a considerable accession to the membership of the Church, and a higher tone of religious feeling throughout the congregation. We understand, during the coming week, similar services will be held in the Upper Prince Street Church, of which the Rev. Wm. Tippett, is the pastor.

Special services were held in Zion Church from the close of the week of prayer until last evening. The services consisted chiefly of prayer and praise, with short addresses by the pastor and other Christian workers. The meetings were largely attended and the interest manifested in them was deep and earnest. The result has been, so far as manifest, an increase of membership and also upon Sabbath services and other means of grace.

It is reported that the Castle Line steamer Kenmore Castle, 2,000 tons, from London bound to Shanghai, via the Suez Canal, has been lost, and that her passengers were saved but many of the crew were drowned. She foundered in the Bay of Biscay on the 2nd inst. in a few minutes, and was only able to land one boat containing all the passengers, numbering eight, and eight of the crew. The crew numbered forty persons. The survivors, when rescued by a French steamer, only wore their night dresses. They were very weak.

There were thirty agrarian outrages in Ireland during January.
