'Tis Time to Swing Our Axes.

We've had enough of license laws,
Enough of liquor taxes,
We've turned the grindstone long enough,
'Tis time to swing our axes,
This deadly upas tree must fall,
Let strokes be strong and steady,
Pull up the stumps, grub out the roots,
O brothers are you ready?

No longer will we shield this foe
To manhood, love and beauty;
We've had enough of compromise,
The right alone is duty,
We've had enough of weak men and distrust,
The burden grows by shifting,
Just put our shoulder to the load,
And do our share of lifting.

We've had enough of forge and chain
This demon drink to fetter;
Good bullets from the ballot box,
Well sped, will suit him better,
Will you not haunt him to the death?
Speak out! speak out! O brothers,
Will ye not sound the bugle call,
O sisters, wives and mothers?

We've had enough of shame and woe,
Of cruel spoliation,
Who fears to say it loud enough
To thrill our land and nation?
God help us all to work like men
By earnest agitation,
Till we have crushed the power of rum
By righteous legislation.

Cal Voice.

Rev. Charles Garrett on Bands of Hope.

A Band of Hope worker was remonstrated with by a friend for "talking to a lot of children, but his reply was, "I am talking to the ladies and gentlemen of the next generation." The children of this country are in danger, and in danger through strong drink. Where were the children that were boys and girls with us? Go to the cemetery and we would see that multitudes of them had not lived out half their days. Where were the children? Go and seek, and, alas! find them in the hustling crowd at the workhouse door, leading the shameless life of the streets, in the jail, in the lunatic asylum, and in the far-off penal isle. Ask them what brought them to this position, and—oh! the horrible monotony—each and all would say, "It's the drink; it's the drink." Then what is to be done? "Oh!" you say, "is it possible to save the children?" It is possible; yes, brother, it is possible. It is possible to save every one of them. You say, "Give me the remedy, and I will pay any price for it." You have nothing to pay. It is like the Gospel, without money and without price. You want to know what it is. It is a remedy as certain as it is cheap. What is it? There is but one. You may search all through the world, you will not find another; but there is one. I guarantee you, in the sight of God to-night that if you will only apply the one not a child shall perish from intemperance. What is it? Total Abstinence. Keep the child from the drink, and drunkenness is impossible. Here is a house, and the drainage is bad. A poisonous gas exudes. It sails all through the house. You have your friends talking about it. The drainage is bad. One child sickens. Another dies. The father says, "This is a serious thing. I am losing my children. What is the matter?" Somebody says, "Why, the drainage wants looking after. There is a poisonous gas in the house." "Nonsense," says the old man. "Poison, indeed! Slow poison. I have lived in the house fifty years, and my grandfather was a hundred when he died, and he lived here, and you say it is poison, indeed. No poison, but I'll tell you what I'll do. I will have the house newly papered." "But are you not going to shut out the gas?" "Oh! no. The house will be all right when it's newly papered." Yet they sicken. He says, "I will get them new clothes." He gets them new clothes, and yet the children sicken and die. "We will get them a new governess to see better after them," and yet the children sicken and die. "Understand me when I say," he declares, "We will have a prayer meeting in the house. Oh! now we have got the remedy. We will have the prayer meeting"; and they had it, and yet they sicken and die. He says, "I cannot tell how the children are falling out one after another." Somebody says, "Is there not an agent—a material agent—at work? Is there not a poisonous gas in the house?" "Oh!" he says, "I have done everything." "No you have not." "What have I not done?" "You have not removed the cause. Remove the cause and the effect will cease. I do not object to your paper, your clothes, your new governess (I hope you treated the old one well.) I do not object to a prayer-meeting, but I say so long as you keep the destructive agent in the house you will have the destruction. Remove the destructive agent and your children are saved." Need I make the application? John Bull has the house, and the destructive agent is alcohol, and he says "We will have better houses." It does not do. He has got the alcohol there. He says, "We will have better teachers," but the alcohol is there. "We will have prayer-meetings," but the alcohol is there; and so long as the alcohol is drunk so long the alcohol will do its deadly work. I say, "John Bull, remove the cause and the effect will cease." How is it to be done? there are two things we can do, first, to persuade John Bull to banish the drink from his house. Then there is another thing, and that is to go to the children and ask them not to touch the drink. That is what we are doing, and if the children never touch the drink they will never die drunkards.—League Journal.

Effigy of a Drink Traffic.

The active war which the Scott Act inspector is waging upon the liquor sellers of St. Croix, N. B., is gradually producing the results long wished for by the temperance people. Early Monday morning the proprietor of one of the saloons removed his stock in trade, and, when the day had fairly begun, the shelves of his shop were empty and the premises vacated. Only one evidence of the work that has been carried on remained and through the unshuttered window could be seen leaning against the counter. It was the effigy of a victim of drink, with inflamed face and tattered clothes, supporting a couple of gin bottles with its hepless arm while from the pocket of its coat the neck of a whiskey bottle could be seen protruding. The artist evidently possessed a full appreciation of what indulgence in drink can accomplish, and no better temperance lecture could be preached to the frequenters of the saloon than was silently uttered by the representation of the wreck of a noble manhood which attracted the attention of passersby all through the day. It is to be hoped that the barkeeper has experienced the change of heart which the erection of the mute figure seems to indicate and that, while abandoning the business forever, he left this warning to his former customers that they might experience a vivid realization of what awaits them, should they persist in the practice which he once encouraged, but now evidently deprecates and desires to prevent.

News Notes.

The striking miners in Belgium now number 18,000.

A strike of dockmen is said to be imminent at Southampton.

The Buenos Ayres Senate has passed a general amnesty law.

The town of Tokay, in Hungary, famous for its wines, has been destroyed by fire.

Advices from Moosh state that the Armenians continue to be subjected to terrible atrocities.

A despatch from Nanaimo, B. C., says No. 3 shaft of the Wellington mine is on fire and will have to be flooded.

Daniel Davies, a Grand Trunk clerk, fell 90 feet over the cliff near the cantilever bridge at Niagara Falls on Monday, and was not killed.

The Unites States Senate has agreed to close the general debate on the tariff bill on September 3, and to begin voting on it on September 8.

A Berlin despatch says influences are at work which point to an approaching reconciliation between the emperor and Prince Bismarck.

Despatches from San Salvador state that the protocol of peace was signed Wednesday. Similar advices have been received from Guatemala.

At a recent meeting of the Czar and the Emperor William at St. Petersburg, the former manifested strong proofs of his peaceful intentions.

A St. Petersburg despatch says the haste of Emperor William in departing from that city was due to socialistic activity and to a rumor of insubordination in the Hanoverian regiment.

Senator Plumb, of Kansas, has given notice of an amendment to the tariff bill which will restrict the operations of reciprocal aarangements with Canada to manufactured articles and minerals.

Mrs. Mary Wilson, with her babe in her arms, was in the cemetery at Carbonado, Washington, on Sunday, sitting on the grave of one of her children, when a tree fell and killed the woman and child.

A despatch from Odessa says that in spite of protests the anti-Jewish edict will be promulgated in October with a supplement justifying such repressive severity on the ground that it is intended to satisfy foreign opinion.

The revenue cutter Rush was at St. Paul's Island Aug. 15. She was not making any seizures, but was simply ordering sealers out of Behring Sea under a threat of seizure. In every such case the sealers left the sealing grounds. The Corwin had not yet arrived at Ounalaska.

Literary Notes.

The authors of the Life of Lincoln, just completed in the Century, Messrs. Nicolay and Hay, are to write several papers for the same magazine on Lincoln's personal traits. They are to appear during the coming volume.

George William Curtis, in the Editor's Easy Chair of Harper's Magazine for September makes some very pertinent remarks concerning the state of the feeling which exists at the present time between Englishmen and Americans. 'There is a political game," he says, "always playing in the country, of which the abuse of England is one of the counters. But the intelligence, the conscience and the love of liberty in America are America, and they do not hate the same qualities over the sea which are the England from which America sprang."

Personal.

Queen Victoria has gone to Scotland.

A telegram from Banff, N. W. T., states that Bishop Courtney, of Halifax, is ill at that place. He has been attending the Episcopal convention at Winnipeg.

Rev. Dr. McGlynn returned to New York on Wednesday from California. He was met at the wharf by about 1,000 of his former parishioners and members of the anti-poverty society and given a royal welcome.

Decreasing the Death Rate.

The mortality among consumptives has been materially decreased of late years by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Phthisis, Bronchitis, Abscess of the Lungs, Pneumonia and Throat affections are completely subjugated by a timely use of this excellent pulmonic. Palatable as milk.
