

Proof that being able to see the lines does not improve parking. Some people should buy a book entitled Help, I Can't Park Because I'm Too Stupid!

This person parked two spots out, and then when the other stupid car left, the moron ended up looking like a road-hogging arse-face who likes blocking roads.

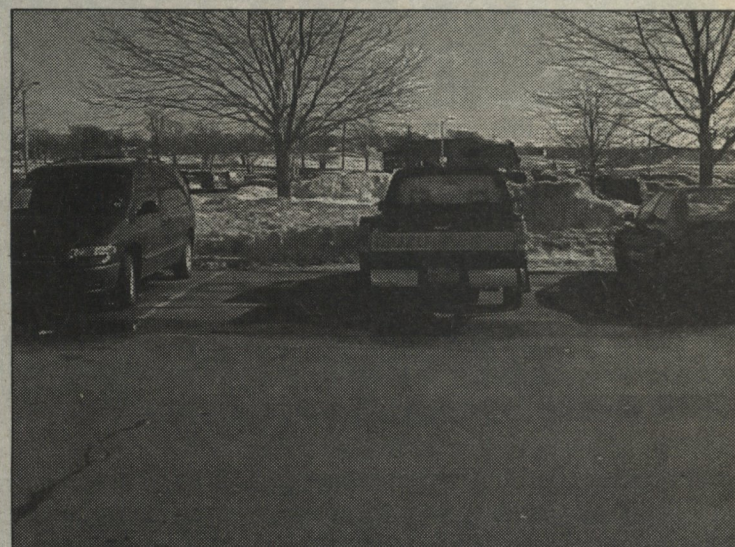

Evidently, taking up two spots makes people feel important. C'mon, you're not the fucking Pope! Just park like the lines mean something, genius.

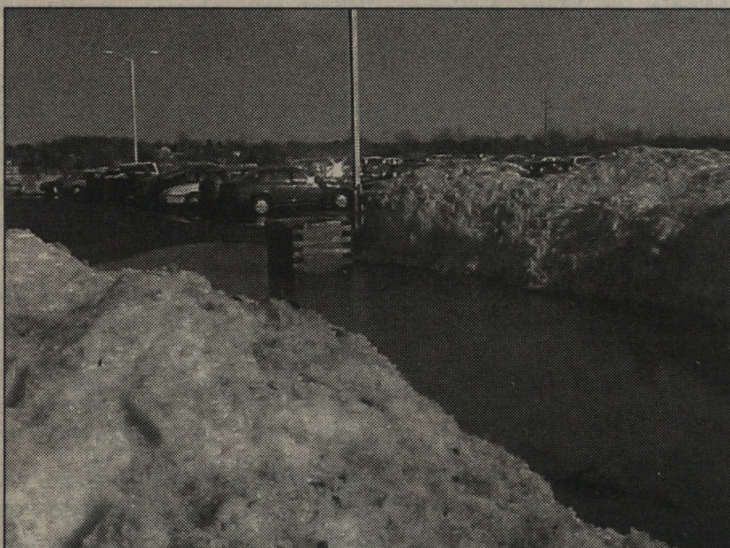

Holy Crap! Does Anybody Know How to Park Anymore?

What's not revealed in this photo is that this truck has super-doors that require six feet on each side. Don't straddle the yellow line—you're not a parade float!

Trying to get to CC now requires crossing a sizable lake. I recommend arriving with SCUBA gear.

Torrents of water are flowing over the only handicap spots near CC. This just sucks ass big time hardcore.
