Orders Speed-up In U. S. Pension Plan Inquiry

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker Wednesday, in effect, ordered Prof. Gordon Huson to complete his inquiry into the United States social security system in three or four months at the most.

He was commenting in the Commons on press reports quoting Prof. Huson as saying that his investigation will require about a year. The 44-year-old University of Western Ontario professor has been appointed a one-man commission by the government to study foreign, and especially American, pension schemes.

Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) asked whether one year was the length of time the prime minister had in mind when he had announced he wanted to have the report completed at the earliest possible date for submission to the government.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government hopes and desires that there will be no greater delay than three or four months.
J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonaville-Twillington) asked whether it is true that Prof. Huson is being paid at the rate of $35,000 a year.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he was unable to answer the question.

Social Workers May Form A P. E. I. Branch

Highlighting a recent meeting of the N. B. P. E. I. Branch of the Canadian Association of Social Workers was an announcement that the Prince Edward Island members are considering the formation of a separate branch. This is possible due to an increase in membership of the professional social workers.

A report from Dr. Elizabeth Govan in Ottawa stimulated discussion of social workers participation in movements for social reform particularly in the field of social legislation. The local Canadian Association of Social Workers Branch is particularly concerned with mentally retarded and emotionally disturbed children and feel that adequate provision should be made for this group.

Mrs. C. Proctor, Moncton announced that there are 25 students studying for their Master's degree in social work at the Maritime School of Social Work in Halifax. Of the four students from New Brunswick, two are from Moncton, one from Rogersville and one from Rothesay. The Association expressed its interest and willingness to meet with University and High School students who are considering their futures and who might join the ranks of the professional social worker for whom there is an urgent need.

The meeting was chaired by E. S. Matheson, President, N. B. P. E. I. Branch.

Hospital Ladies Auxiliary Meets

The January meeting of the Kings County Hospital Ladies Auxiliary was held at the Nurses Residence, with the vice-president, Mrs. Lorne Wigginton, presiding.
The correspondence and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. E. H. Stewart, who also read the financial report.

On motion, it was decided to sponsor a series of multiplication teas in aid of the Hospital and a committee comprising Mrs. E. H. Stewart, Mrs. Wigginton, Mrs. Byron Stewart and Mrs. Alice MacKenzie was appointed to attend to the details. Plans were discussed for holding the initial afternoon tea at Hill Side Inn on February 5th.

MONTAGUE HIGH NOTES

Hi Everybody! What a tough week we've had! The exams were terrific and I imagine the lack of sufficient study by some of the students will be evident when we get our marks back on Friday.
Due to pressure of exams and last minute cramming, the news from Montague High is scarce this week, but on watching the Scholastic Curling Team which is to participate in the Provincial playdown, the hope of a championship team from this school doesn't appear to be too many seasons away.
The boys have really settled down and taken a keen interest in the game and this interest has resulted in a smooth working team. Good luck is wished to Kenny MacKenzie, Erroll,

What Happens To The Sack Is Big Fashion Question Today

By NADEANE WALKER
PARIS (AP)—The first Paris fashion season since the death of Christian Dior opens today before audiences of doubly critical and anxious fashion buyers and press. For the public in general, the big question is what happens to the sack?

Jean Patou, Jacques Heim and Pierre Cardin show their collections today. Pierre Balmain, Jacques Griffe and Maggy Rouff are scheduled for Tuesday openings. Jean Desses and Guy Laroche will show Wednesday.
The house of Dior will present its fledgling designer, 21-year-old Yves Saint-Laurent, Thursday morning. Jeanne Lanvin shows on the afternoon of the same day. Despite some whispers to the contrary, the sack dress is a good bet to stay in the picture this spring. Dior embraced it only last season, and other houses are likely to be even more strongly pro-sack this time. The sack silhouette has had a big success even in France, where the woman in - the - street is traditionally a bit slow to adopt a new fad.

Saint-Laurent may be expected to launch some new ideas but he is not likely to try an immediate revolution, since the sack only arrived last season.
Hat shows often provide a clue to the secrets of the dress designers. This time the prevalence of head-bugling cloches point to more 'sacks'. The textile people have dropped a strong hint that stripes will brighten the spring style scene.

Island Animals Prominent In Guernsey Breeders' Journal

Prince Edward Island animals are prominent in the current issue of the Canadian Guernsey Breeders' Journal. Three have been nominated for All Canadian and a number of others are prominent among the heavier producing females.

J. Eric Hurry, Winsloe; Harold Palmer, Kensington and Allison Carr, Harrington are the breeders who have been successful in getting their animals nominated for All Canadian.

Patsie Phillip, first prize aged bull and senior grand champion at Charlottetown last year, has been nominated from the Hurry herd.

Maiden Hill Girl is the animal nominated from the Palmer herd. A junior yearling she placed first everytime she showed last year, including fairs at Charlottetown, Crapaud, Alberton and Amherst. She will be two year old on March 26.

Brackley Melba's Monitor is the animal nominated from the Carr herd. He showed last year as a junior bull calf, was first prize in his class, junior champion and reserve grand champion at Charlottetown and stood second in his class at Amherst. The calf was bred by Guy Rodd of Brackley. He is sired by Brackley Melba's Patricia and his dam is Rosewald Belinda's Melba.
Incidentally the Journal indicates that a cow bred by Mr. Rodd tops the honor roll for butter fat producers in the three year old class, 305-day division with 685 lbs. The cow, Brackley Nancy 2nd, made her record in 1954 and it has stood since that time. She is owned by W. B. Hanna, Kleinburg, Ontario.

Patsie Patricia's Sylvia stands high in the 305 day division mature class in R O P for Mr. J. Eric Hurry. She produced 9,645 lbs. milk, 443 lbs. fat for an average test of 4.59 per cent.

This cow is a daughter of Patsie Patricia who stood for a number of years as the second highest all time, all Canadian producer of butter fat in the honor roll for cows milked twice daily.

Owen Younker and Son, Kings-ton have a classed senior in Patsie's Autumn Lassie. She topped the three year old class, 305-day division with 11,266 lbs. milk, 520 lbs. of butter fat for an average test of 4.62 per cent.

Brackley Nellie 2nd qualified in R O P for Harold Palmer with 10,439 lbs. of milk, 537 lbs. fat with an average test of 5.14 per cent in the mature class, 365 day division.

Brackley Dolly's Maid 2nd qualified for Willard Proud, Kingston in the same division with 9,485 lbs. fat, 471 lbs. butter fat for an average test of 4.97 per cent.

Reveal Bermuda Banker Is Doing Good Job For Canada

By FORBES RUIE
Canadian Press Business Editor
TORONTO (CP) — Harry D. Butterfield, fifth generation Bermuda banker, is often called the "Canadian ambassador to Bermuda."

While the title is unofficial, he is officially the honorary representative in Bermuda of the Canadian department of trade and commerce.
This came about 10 years ago when C. D. Howe asked him if he'd undertake the job and, if so, what would be his fee?
"I told him," said Mr. Butterfield, currently visiting Toronto, "that I had been doing the job for 30 years for nothing and I didn't see why I shouldn't continue to do it that way."

Asked for specific suggestions for advancement of Canadian-Bermuda relationships, Mr. Butterfield said he would like to see a bigger and more permanent Canadian naval establishment in Bermuda.

At present, Canadian warships visit Bermuda about once a week, but the shore establishment consists of only one officer and a petty officer.

Admiralty House, a 25-acre site with buildings, which was occupied by the Royal Navy for nearly 150 years, now is available following the Royal Navy's withdrawal.

"I am sure," said Mr. Butterfield, "that Bermuda would be glad to turn it over to Canada on a caretaker basis."

Here's the rather mouth-watering picture Mr. Butterfield gives of Bermuda:
No income tax; no land tax; no inheritance tax; no government debt; budgets always balance or have surplus; surplus is put into fund for such future expenditures as public buildings, schools and hospitals; but money is always on hand before anything is undertaken.

REVENUE FROM DUTIES
Largest government source of income is import duties—boosted by the purchases by tourists of imported goods, such as British textiles. Other revenue comes from government departments such as the post office—which operates at a profit—and motor-car and gasoline taxes.

Mr. Butterfield is managing director of the bank of N. T. Butterfield and Son Ltd., which has been headed by a Butterfield since his great-grandfather founded it 100 years ago. Originally a partnership, it has been a public company since 1903 and now has some 800 shareholders.

Mr. Butterfield has had a long Canadian association. He studied at McGill university and went overseas in the First World War as a gunner with the No. 7 McGill Siege Battery and finished up with a commission in the Canadian Corps of Signals.

His three sons all attended Trinity College School at Port Hope, Ont.
The eldest, Harry, attended McGill and now is with the Butterfield Bank, as is another son, Nathaniel. A third son, Richard, attended the University of Toronto, and now is an accountant.

WIFE IS BALLERINA

The latter's wife is Lillian Jarvis, a ballerina with the National Ballet of Canada, and Mr. and Mrs. Butterfield made their present trip to Toronto to see her perform.

Tried To Get Stand - In For Princess Fired

LONDON (AP) — A Cockney showgirl who posed as the "stand-in" for Annigoni's new portrait of Princess Margaret disclosed Sunday some women close to the palace tried to get the Italian painter to fire her.

Georgina Moore, whose specialty on the stage is appearing in the nude, vital statistics 36-22-36 — told a reporter the women did not think it was dignified for a chorus girl to have any part in a royal portrait.

They suggested to Annigoni, she said, that a "debutante would be much more suitable."

"I was furious when Annigoni told me," Georgina said. "I'm a loyal subject and just as good as any deb. The only difference between us is that I work for my living and they don't."

There was no indication, however, that Princess Margaret or any member of the Royal Family objected to her as a model for the portrait.

Georgina is one of 10 children of a Covent Garden market porter.

"Just because I pose in the nude doesn't mean anything," she said. "I've worked my way up in show business by honest hard work."

Conservative M. P. Views Liberal Nat. Convention

By John A. Macdonald, M. P.

The past week has been a hectic one in Ottawa. First there was the National Convention of the Liberal Party; then the proceedings in the House of Commons which followed a few days later. Both events have proved of intense interest not only to the participants but to the public at large all across the country. In each case there has been copious reporting on each, and I will make only a few observations — as free from bias as possible under the circumstances of the feelings stirred up by both events — as a government member of the Commons.

COMPARISONS

Any comment on the Convention naturally draws a comparison with that held by the Progressive Conservative Party slightly more than a year earlier. This again is a difficult task and usually subject to partisan feelings, even among newspapermen who have covered both for their papers.

The consensus of opinion was that the convention held last week was well-staged and had a slightly larger number of voting delegates than that held by the Progressive Conservatives. On the other hand, it was reported, there seemed to be more unanimity and enthusiasm at latter convention. There was usual rash of resolutions promising full employment, large doses of free education, etc., which always sound good but are impractical of attainment and often soon forgotten.

The leadership race was not quite as interesting as at the Progressive Conservative Convention. At that time there were three able and experienced candidates and all members, good speakers and well-known figures. It was expected that there would be at least two ballots. As it developed, the issue was clearly decided in favour of Mr. Diefenbaker on the first. At the Liberal Convention there were two outstanding men in
