Tanks, guns and troops of the Moscow garrison paraded across Red Square in foggy, drizzly weather which grounded Soviet planes.

Marshal Semeon Budenny, a Second World War hero and member of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament), said in an address from the reviewing stand atop Lenin's tomb that Western imperialists are preparing for a new war.

"The Anglo-American imperialists now have passed from preparations for aggression to direct acts of aggression, evidence of which is the bandit intervention of the United States in Korea," he said.

"The Soviet people, together with other freedom-loving peoples of the world, brand the American aggressors with shame and express their sympathy with the Korean people who are conducting a heroic struggle for the freedom and independence of their motherland."

Similar expressions came in orders of the day to the army and navy.

Consider Outlook Serious
While the Russians press has charged before that the United States Government intends to unashamedly start a new war on the world, it has never been said quite so authoritatively or quite so repeatedly.

Western diplomatic observers in Moscow, therefore, are studying the phrases carefully. They indicate that they consider the words significant and serious.

The Red Square military parade lasted a little less than an hour. All branches of the ground services were represented. Many top Soviet leaders were in the reviewing stand.

(Prime Minister Stalin was not mentioned in this dispatch as taking any public part in the observance of the Soviet national holiday. Presumably he is taking a fall vacation. A broadcast list of prominent Russians who attended the Bolshoi Theatre celebration Monday night also omitted any mention of the 70-year-old Soviet leader.)

Also to be considered is the stand it will take on anticipated freight rates developments.

Two specific cases will be discussed: The case concerning shipment of potatoes from the Maritimes to United States points. A hearing on this case is scheduled for Boston Dec. 1.

The Newfoundland freight rate case was heard by Board of Transport Commissioners in St. John's last month.

To Consider Stand In Freight Rates Situation

MONCTON, N. B., Nov. 7.—(CP)—The Maritime Transportation Commission will decide at its annual meeting opening tomorrow what stand it will take in general on the freight rates situation.

Secretary-manager Rand Matheson said the Commission, meeting in conjunction with the Maritime Board of Trade, would discuss in particular the Board of Transport Commissioners' decision to institute a general freight rate investigation.

Howe Urges Increase In Canadian-British Trade

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Trade Minister Howe said today that he thinks Britain can sell more goods in Canada, "but also we are going to insist that she buy more here."

In a speech before the annual meeting of the Canadian Exporters' Association, Mr. Howe emphasized that trade cannot be healthy unless it is in balance.

He cited the aid given by Canada to Britain to help her through her post-war dollar troubles as a reason why Britain now should increase purchases from Canada.

The financial and other aid Canada extended, he said, entitled Canada to make her request for boosted purchases "as a rather firm demand and not just a polite request."

Canada's exports to the United Kingdom have declined sharply as a result of the continuance of

Results Far From Conclusive Early This Morning

By R. J. Anderson
NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(CP)—The 82nd Congress of the United States was elected today—but whether the Democrats or the Republicans will control it was far from decided as vote-counting neared the midnight mark in the eastern time zones. At that time far-west polls had not long been closed and returns from them could swing the election.

But the Democrats took an early, though inconclusive lead, in the battle for the 435 seats in the House of Representatives. Near midnight, 125 had been elected—against 28 Republicans. A majority is 218.

In the Senate, they had won nine seats against two for their main Opposition. In that Chamber 32 of the 96 seats were to be filled under the American system whereby one-third of the membership is elected to six-year terms every two years. Four vacancies also were being filled. The Republicans needed to gain seven seats from the Democrats to seize control of the Senate.

They were cheered by the reelection of Governor of New York of Thomas E. Dewey, twice defeated.

Rumored Offer To Exchange Connaught Square For Site Of New Dominion Building

It is unofficially reported that during his week-end visit here the Federal Minister of Reconstruction, Hon. R. H. Winters, discussed with provincial and civic authorities an offer of obtaining Connaught Square (known formerly as the Jail Square) in exchange for the square bounded by Queen, Richmond, Pownall and Sydney Streets as a site for the proposed new Federal Buildings.

Reason for the proposed change is the delay involved in court action over disputed amounts to be paid to former property owners on the site originally selected. According to a statement made by the House of Commons last September by Public Works Minister Fournier, ownership of this site was acquired by the Crown following the registration of expropriation notices; but the financial arrangements were not completed and in some cases negotiations ended in a deadlock, necessitating protracted court proceedings.

The present rumored proposal, which would be subject to agreement between the City Council and Federal Department, is to have the City take over this site, to be developed eventually as a public square and parking area. In return the Dominion Government would acquire Connaught Square, located between Pownall and Rochford Streets near the City Hospital, with the advantage of being able to begin work on the new building at its own convenience.

The proposal that Connaught Square be made available for this purpose was advanced several months ago by Mr. J. F. Wines in a letter appearing in The Guardian.

Search For Missing Sydney Hunter Ends

SEARCH FOR SYDNEY, N. S., Nov. 7.—(CP)—The search for Alfred (Ollie) Wilson, lost Sunday in a search for a missing hunter, ended tonight when he walked out of the woods at Big Glen, 20 miles from Sydney.

The day shift at the New Waterford No. 16 Colliery was idle as many of the 500-man staff joined the search for the 24-year-old resident of Scotch Town. He was in good condition.

Boy Proclaimed Ruler Of Buffer State Of Nepal

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 7.—(Reuters)—A three-year-old boy today was proclaimed ruler of Nepal, buffer state between India and Tibet, after a palace revolution which ousted his grandfather, King Tribhuvana Bir Bikram.

The coup climaxed a long struggle between Nepal's powerful hereditary Prime Minister, Sir Padma Shumshere Jung, who heads the ruling aristocracy, and a political group which sought popular government with the King as constitutional monarch.

A statement issued by the Nepalese Embassy here said the King had sought shelter at the Indian Embassy in the Nepalese capital of Katmandu after the Government refused him permission to leave for India.

He was accompanied by immediate members of his family, including the Crown Prince, who is father of the new boy king, Dhiraaj Gyandevra Bir Bikram.

He said the King had "placed himself on the side of the forces of freedom and denounced the present Nepal Government deserts."

Recall Canadian Deeds Of Glory In Boer War

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Canadian military glory of a half-century ago was reviewed for a brief few moments around an old 12-pounder gun, once a battlefield prize men fought and died for and now just an ancient war piece standing in Ottawa's Confederation Square.

Just 50 years ago the weather-beaten cannon—polished up a bit for today's ceremony—was in the South African War's battle of Leliefontein. Its heroic defence and that of another like it against fierce Boer riflemen on Nov. 7, 1900, brought three Canadians the simultaneous award of the Victoria Cross.

The multiple award for one brief action is unequalled in the history of the Victoria Cross and so today the Dragoons paraded out a crack 100-man honor guard from their Petawawa base.

The Royal Canadian Regiment also sent its band from Petawawa and about 80 members of the Ottawa South African Veterans Association—the old guard—were on hand.

Viscount Alexander, accompanied by Prime Minister St. Laurent, Defence Minister Claxton and high military officers, inspected the guard of honor and the veterans.

After the plaque-unveiling ceremony, the troops and veterans marched past. The Governor-General took the salute standing in front of the old 12-pounder.

Russians Return To Allied Council Meeting In Tokyo

TOKYO, Nov. 8.—(Wednesday)—(AP)—The Russian delegation returned to an Allied Council meeting today for the first time since late in May.

Mr. Gen. A. P. Kislenko, deputy chief of the Soviet delegation, returned to Japan several months ago.

Kislenko appeared personally at today's session.

The Russians first boycotted the Council meetings in December, last year. After that they attended some sessions and stayed away from others.

Criticism of delay in repatriation of Japanese prisoners held by the Russians was the principal reason for the Soviet boycott.

Red Resistance Fades On Northeast Korean Front

SEOUL, Nov. 8.—(Wednesday)—(AP)—U. S. Marines advanced more than a mile last night up the Changjin River gorge without encountering Chinese Communist whose resistance faded suddenly on the Northeast Korean front.

A 10th Corps report said no contact was made between the leathernecks and the mutilated Red Chinese 124th Division. The marines are less than four miles short of the difficult-to-defend plateau, just south of the huge Changjin hydroelectric reservoir.

Marine planes exploded a big ammunition dump and strafed two Chinese battalions south of the reservoir. The 10th Corps described the rest of the northeast front as quiet.

Almost the same situation prevailed on the Northwest Korean front, where Communist forces have pulled back but still have an estimated 60,000 Chinese Red—six divisions—facing United Nations troops.

U. S. planes battled new type Russian-bull jets at the Manchurian border Tuesday. Allied ground troops advanced slightly after Chinese and North Korean resistance eased abruptly.

U. S. commanders were puzzled by failure of the Communists to press a drive which Gen. MacArthur told the United Nations Council was made possibly only by entry of Chinese Communists into the action.

There was nothing to indicate the Reds were withdrawing. In fact Chinese Communists were reported reinforcing in Northeast Korea. They were supported for the first time by heavier-type Chinese Red

Post Robert Service Robbed Of Jewels

MONTE CARLO, France, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Post Robert Service, the one-time Canadian bank clerk who wrote of the Yukon, was robbed of more than $7,000 worth of jewels and cash last night. Burglars entered the author's villa during the night.

He was accompanied by immediate members of his family, including the Crown Prince, who is father of the new boy king, Dhiraaj Gyandevra Bir Bikram.

Says Absentees Returning To Special Force

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—The Ottawa Journal said today it has learned that "the prospect of action in Korea" for Canada's special brigade had brought a quick decline in the previously-given figure of 700 men listed as absent without leave or deserters from the force.

"Defence Headquarters maintained a policy of silence but it was estimated perhaps no more than 350 men are unaccounted for at the moment," the Journal's newspaper story said.

Defence Headquarters spokesmen declined comment on the story and indicated that the policy of not giving out figures on absentees from the special force would be maintained.

The newspaper quoted one unidentified source as saying: "As soon as they (absentees) saw part of the force probably would be sent to Korea they guessed the others might be needed as well and they wanted to be in the fighting... they have returned to duty and whatever penalty awaited them."

The Journal story went on to explain that the 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry is to move to Korea this month and added that it was "expected to go at full strength."

The other two battalions of the special force—the Royal 22nd Regiment and the Royal Canadian Regiment—are slated to go to the United States for training pending a decision on their final destination.

Defence Minister Claxton has ruled that no information be issued on absenteeism and deserters among Canada's 11,000-man special forces.

On Oct. 19, newspaper reports gave 703 as the official number of absentees after completion of four-day basic training leave. A Defence Department spokesman said that day confirmed this figure. The figure was said to contain 100 men classed as deserters—absent more than 21 days.

Top Honors Go To Premier Jones And Colonel Andrew

AMHERST, N. S., Nov. 7.—(Special)—A terrific battle for Maritime Holstein honors developed at the Winter Fair here today with Prince Edward Island breeders leading the way by capturing thirteen firsts out of the sixteen classes judged, two championships and four reserves.

The competitions were left unfinished and will be completed tomorrow. Nine classes remain including the females in milk senior herd, senior get of sire and progeny class. The grand and senior female championships and reserves will also be declared.

Premier J. Walter Jones' herd won three of the four dry female classes to run his string of firsts to six. He won the Reserve Junior Female championship with Abegweit Fancy and placed third on three occasions and fourth four times. His Abegweit Frexy won the Senior Reserve male honors.

Lewis Brothers, of York, battled all the way for top honors and won the Junior Female championship with Lewisdale Annie. They won four firsts, three seconds, two thirds and one fourth. Vernon Harding, of Welsford, New Brunswick, won the Grand and Senior Male championships with his only entry.

Dickie Brothers, Truro, and C. B. Sherwood, Norton, N. B., were the other mainland winners. Blackford Duke took the Junior Male Reserve for Allison Profit, Freeport, P. E. I. With a fairly small entry list Mr. Profit made a strong showing by winning one first, two seconds, three thirds, and two fourths.

Unsworth Gurney had his Falconwood Farm entries in top form and took the Junior Male and Reserve Grand Male ribbons with Finlan, K. C. O. Colonel. This animal topped the Senior Yearling male class.

The veteran showman, Colby Lewis, of Freeport, again proved he rated with the best in the Maritimes by winning one first, a second, and two thirds. Judge W. A. Hodge of Montreal spent nearly ten hours in the ring placing the huge classes. Some classes had upwards of twenty entries but in most cases one could still have a pretty good animal and place twenty-first.

At one time the arena was nearly packed with black and white Holsteins and red and white Ayrshires. Premier Jones watched the show from a box seat most of the day. With him was Hon. C. C. Baker, Minister of Agriculture.

Truman Confident

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—President Truman voted the straight democratic ticket in his home town of Independence, Mo., today then flew back to conference here on the grave turn of the war in Korea.

He said he was so confident of the vote outcome he wouldn't even sit up to hear about it.

The President conferred at the White House with State Secretary Dean Acheson and Defence Secretary George Marshall. There was no statement on the meeting, but it doubtless concerned affairs in Korea where troops from Communist China have raised new political and military problems.
