The Lover's Message

Go, Valentine! Seek out the maid,
To me than life more dear;
Invoke St. Cupid's timely aid,
And whisper in her ear
The message that I give to thee.
Put forth thy utmost art;
Win, if thou canst, her fancy free,
And touch her maiden heart.

Tell her that from its steadfast love
There's naught my soul can stir;
Swear by yon glorious sun above
I'm true till death to her
Tell her no blot my 'scutcheon mars,
No spot nor taint of shame;
From sires who bore a patriot's scars
I trace an honored name.

With gifts that wisest mortals seek
Tell her my cup o'erflows;
Health lights my eye, and on my cheek
Youth, fresh and ruddy, glows.
But, should she still unyielding prove,
E'en then do not despair;
Tell her—her heart 'twill surely move—
That I'm a millionaire.

Odds and Ends

"What sort of a newspaper plant have you?" asked the eastern man of the wild western editor.

"I have been using a Colt's forty-four," replied the editor, modestly, but considering the difficulties arising out of the last local campaign, I have about concluded to get a Winchester."

Marriage, aside from the romance of youth, is a serious business. It should be entered on, as in any other business, only after careful forethought; and, whenever possible, with an ample supply of the assets which it calls for. Money is not all. There should also be health, mutual consideration, forbearance for each other's foibles, and such other qualities as are needed in any harmonious partnership. The marriage that is thus hedged about is rarely sundered in a divorce court.—Philadelphia Record.

There are two ways in which one can hear animals converse. One is by listening to them when they are not aware of your presence, the other is by winning their entire love and confidence. Very tame hens often show a desire to talk to you, and it is usually possible to understand them. Once a Leghorn met me at the door fairly screaming with excitement. I understood, from the cackle that ended each sentence, that she had been disturbed on her nest, and did not wonder at her new powers of speech when I found the nest occupied by a cat and three young kittens. When chickens first begin to move in the egg, just before hatching, the mother sings to them a low, crooning song, very sweet, and never heard at any other time. A friend told me that her canary startled her one day by a new call. It was plainly: "Come here, quick!" She hurried to the cage to find a large cat close by looking at the bird.—Woman's Voice Magazine.

WHAT a cleaner at Lessive Phenix is Try it upon anything. It is the ideal clothes washer, for it takes the place of the old harsh chemical washing powders, and makes every article sweet and clean, being efficacious with cottons and flannels alike. Then after using it in the wash, just try what it will do with silver, brass or metalware, in removing stains from wood; or in cleaning glass. You really can't believe it until you try it.

SAVED!

The testimonial below refers to a patient who was pronounced incurable by leading physicians in England:

From Rev. Dr. Hill.

M. F. Eagar, Esq. HALIFAX, N. S.

Dear Sir,—I feel that it is due to you that I should say publicly what I have said privately very many times, namely, that I firmly believe your PHOSPHOLEINE was the means of restoring a near relative of mine to ordinary health. The patient was apparently in the last stages of Consumption, but with the concurrence of skilled physicians your PHOSPHOLEINE was tried, and, I am happy to say, with results that I certainly did not anticipate. My friend is to-day in the enjoyment of excellent health.

Believe me, yours very truly,
GEORGE W. HILL, D. C. L.
Rector St. Paul's.
