

wear it. This conversation that Parker heard would be apt to take place, but unfortunately for Parker, she said the sleeves were cut, which fails to agree with either one. He would like them to notice that she said she washed the blood up with warm water before the fire was made. He did not ask her how she warmed the water, she was so quick, she would reveal some new mode, never yet introduced. She knew there had been blood spilt there in rows, and that to get blood cleaned she had to scrape, so she, in her former oath, scrapes with a knife, but when she learns it would scrape the paint which remains untouched, she says she meant that she scraped it with the brush handle, and goes back on the knife scraping. He thought it unfair for the newspapers to publish her story as true when it was so conflicting.

He then produced her deposition where she had sworn she used the knife, and said this was taken down carefully and then read to her, and she certainly knew it. Now, she uses no knife.

He then spoke of the powders, which did the drugging, being proved as not in existence, and he thinks he can prove Osborne had none, and that Gordon, where Annie says she saw them, never had them.

He had just received a letter from Squire Deacon saying that Mr. Allen (midnight visitor) was actually mistaken about it being the 12th of October that he was at Fraser's. He would not say such stories were lies. The parties were mistaken. This Allen did not at all answer the description of Parker's midnight visitor. He then referred to the hair as a proof that he (McCarthy) fell from the bridge, and at some length to the logs covering the surface just after the 12th, and the state of preservation in which the body was found after seven months, and the money upon the body showed that was not the cause of his death.

He will show that Mrs. Osborne was a long while in the employ of Judge Botsford and entrusted with any amount of money, which was considered safe in her hands. He would now proceed to call witnesses for the defence.

The first one called was Charles Welling, Shediac. He knew Annie Parker, and went up the road with her one Sunday. About a quarter of a mile up the road, toward Farmer Atkinson's, they went up the hill together and in the bushes and came out and went back again. He went with her as far as the Johnson House, about eight or half-past eight o'clock, p. m. This was in October last, said the witness, and I caught a disease from her.

The witness then related to Dr. Tuck where he had seen her before.

Geo. P. Andrews, Shediac, was in the Waverley House but once and he thinks that was the 12th of October. He saw the tree men there, and he played euchre with them and Mr. Campbell. It was Friday afternoon and it was raining. The dedication of the bell at Cape Bald was the next Wednesday, 17th, and he asked one of the men if they would attend.

To Dr. Tuck—He saw the tree men at the Post Office, and took notice of them because they were Americans as he was.

To Mr. Palmer—He saw Dr. Hewson register his name in the Weldon House same day, and it was October 12th. He also saw lawyer Wells there.

W. W. Wells, lawyer, Dorchester, then being called, testified to being there that night.

Hugh Dysart, Cocagne, was called and said that White stopped at his house and fed his horse 10th October. He produced a leaf on his day book which contained a charge against White for seed, and while White was there young Lucas came for witness' horse to go for the Doctor. Lucas lived sixty rods from him. Mrs. Lucas was buried 13th Oct., Saturday.

To Dr. Tuck—Said White was there about two p. m. Mrs. Lucas' wake was on the 12th.

Mr. Palmer here wished to prove McCarthy's bank account, which the court allowed him to supply.

James Kennedy, bar-keeper for McCarthy said he took in on an average from $120 to $130 per week; averaged some $20 per day. He did not know how much money McCarthy had on him; he had seen McCarthy walk to Dean O'Regan's, some half of a mile out.

To Dr. Tuck—He said McCarthy generally took a horse to go a distance. He also gave an account of Mrs. McCarthy and Annie Parker lifting him at McCarthy's. They did not carry him far. McCarthy always kept his money about him.

Dr. Tuck asked witness a few questions as to dates, which he cannot exactly remember.

Archibald Wilson, druggist, Shediac, sworn and examined by Dr. Tuck as evidence for the crown. He remembers the 12th of October by the Weldon House register. He was in his shop that night till half-past nine, and went to the Waverley with Dr. Campbell about ten. He was in the kitchen, and never saw McCarthy in his life. Saw Hamilton, Dr. Hewson and Wells at the Weldon House.

To Mr. Palmer—He never saw such a box in Osborne's bar as described by Annie Parker containing powders. He knew of no powders of that description which were dangerous. He can swear the three men were there the 10th, 11th, 12th or 13th, one of the four days. He never gave Annie medicine, only a throat wash and a plaster.

George Osborne, son of John Osborne (prisoner), sworn: He saw his father have a brown overcoat on in Moncton and out to the farm. He saw the same coat at the Waverley in his mother's room, and Stephen McCarthy putting it on in the Waverley hall, in November. He went to the Waverley with a load of hay. Had a set of tow chains and stayed two days. He never saw the bar-room door nailed up, but open to let in air. He was present with Burns when Caldwell pawned the hatchet, and there was snow on the ground. He had a conversation with Stephen McCarthy about the coat, who said he was going to leave it at the Waverley for safety, so it would not get stolen.

To Dr. Tuck—The reason McCarthy told him this was because he asked him what he was doing with it there. He took a stove to the Waverley House. His father was not sick. He did not put it up. He was at the inquest while Nickerson's evidence was being given.

J. W. Bell, of Park Hotel, Dorchester, said the January Court opened on Tuesday, and John Osborne was at his house in Dorchester the second day of court and stayed two days and nights, and therefore must have gone home on Friday.

To Dr. Tuck—He didn't know it was on Friday. He knew it was the second day of court, because he was hauling and broke the traces, and John Osborne held his horses for him. Another reason was, Chip Smith wanted his money the day that he owed him for oysters.

A. E. Oulton, Secretary of the Municipality of Westmorland, showed by memorandum that Osborne applied to the Council for a license on the 18th of January, and, in his opinion, Osborne was there, as he remembers him being in the court, and is impressed that it was that day.

Mr. Palmer then applied for a bench warrant for one Miss Flowers, of Bathurst, who had been duly served with a subpoena, and had disobeyed the subpoena. The court will consider the application. The witness is said to be an important one.

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

AUGUST 14, 1878.

The Elections.

It seems to be a settled thing that the Elections are to take place on or about the 19th September.

McKenzie and Cartwright to the Rescue.

It is now announced that Messrs. McKenzie and Cartwright will land in Georgetown on Monday next. How they are coming and what they are going to do here is not announced. They are, however, booked speak at Pictou on Saturday; and they will, of course, speak in this Island. They are to the rescue of McIntyre, Sinclair, Yeo, Perry and the recruits recently pressed into the service—now too hardly pressed by the overpowerful Opposition.

The candidates of the "Organized Hypocrisy" indulge in a forlorn hope if they imagine that anything Messrs. McKenzie and Cartwright may do or say will turn the tide of public opinion in their favor.

A Bridge for West River.

THE scow plying between McEachern's and McEwen's wharfs has been laid up for repairs. No notice whatever has been given the travelling public that the ferry there could not be crossed. The man in charge of the scow indulges in profane language when disappointed passengers complain that they have, for want of such notice, been led many miles out of their way to and from destinations east and west of the river, and tells them—in plain English—he doesn't "care a d—n for the Local Government."

This man doubtless merely represents in strong language the strong feeling with which the Local Government is regarded by the people residing on both sides of West River. The people of West River want a bridge. They have a right to a bridge. A bridge might easily be built—if only the Government had the backbone to fix upon the best site and to carry the work through. Of course there are conflicting local interests; and behind these the Government, like cowards, take refuge. They are afraid to meet a pressing public requirement because they think they may, by so doing, give offence to some of their friends. Out upon such weak-kneed incapables. Let us drive them out of power and put men in their places who are not afraid to grapple with the responsibilities of government.

The Milton Meeting.

A NOTABLE FEATURE of the Milton meeting was the absence of both the Grit candidates. Both received special invitations to appear before the electors of Milton. But neither responded in any way to the invitation. Such conduct as this is simply insulting to the electors. It may be said that Messrs. Sinclair and McGill could not go to Milton on Tuesday evening. If they could not, they could at least have had the common courtesy to send a letter of explanation. It may be said that Sinclair and McGill know well that the electors of Milton—than whom there are none more intelligent in P. E. Island—are, to a man, strongly opposed to them and to the Government they support; and they were afraid to attend the meeting. This, we have reason to think, was the true cause of the absence of both the Grit bachelors now wooing the rich and beautiful County of Queen's. With Mr. Peter Sinclair it is a fixed principle that prudence is the better part of valor. We are not, therefore, very much surprised that he stayed away, though we cannot help remarking that it is strange that he did not give some explanation of his conduct. But we are really surprised that the hot-blooded and gallant Colonel should have left the field at Milton clear to his rivals. It is so unlike the brave, impetuous, courting Colonel.

Messrs. Pope and Brecken—having it all to themselves—improved the opportunity by making the best speeches we have heard them deliver since the campaign opened. The speech of Mr. John Tanton, who, by request of the electors, came forward in support of the candidature of Pope and Brecken, was also a very able one. In fact, the three speeches contained so many good points and comprised altogether so effective an argument in favor of Liberal-Conservative principles, that all present unanimously pledged themselves to support the Liberal-Conservative candidates—Pope and Brecken.

The Secretary's report of the meeting will appear in the course of a day or two.

"Strong Delusion."

It is quite evident to every intelligent man in this Province—be his political bias what it may—that the Patriot publishes what the editor, himself, must feel fully convinced is a huge mistake, namely: that five out of the six P. E. Island members will be returned to support the Grit faction at the approaching Dominion Election. The Toronto Globe—McKenzie's organ—must be under a fearful delusion as to the tone of public opinion in the Maritime Province when he lays the flattering unction to his soul that this Province is to give the Grit Government five supporters out of our six Representatives in the House of Commons.

The Grit delusion extends further than P. E. Island. The Globe expects the Government to "increase its majority" in New Brunswick, and in Nova Scotia it expects to hold its own. The St. John Telegraph—a Grit organ—does not count on any majority in that Province; and it should be a better judge than the Toronto Globe. Who, for one moment, but a deluded man, can doubt the certainty of Pictou County reversing its judgment at the approaching election? And who but the veriest deceiver and deceiver can doubt that, at all events, four out of the six P. E. Islander's will be found in the ranks of the Liberal-Conservative party.

The Patriot's editor is skilled at the tricks of the boy who, when passing the graveyard, whistled to keep his courage up. The Grits are seized with fear and trembling—knowing that their day of destruction is near at hand; and in order to ward off its effects as much as possible, they are whistling loudly to keep up their courage. They are in fact despite the clearest and most convincing testimony which public opinion can give holding out hopes which they know are vain.

City Council.

A meeting of the City Council was held last evening. Present Mayor Dawson, Recorder Haviland and Councillors Peake, Hertz, Davy, Hooper, Beer, Horne, Koughan, Byrne and Morris.

After a few remarks from His Worship regarding the state of the city finances and the advisability of reducing the present expenditure—

Councillor Hertz rose in his place and moved the following standing committees:—

Finance—Councillors Peake, Byrne and Beer.

Streets—Councillors Hertz, Hooper and Morris.

Market—Councillors Stumbles, Davy and Horne.

Police—Councillors Beer, Davy and Horne.

Tenders—Councillors Koughan, Davy and Stumbles.

Wharfs—Councillors Morris, Koughan and Stumbles.

Victoria Park—Councillors Byrne, Peake and Beer.

Spring Park—Councillors Hooper, Stumbles and Morris.

Truck—Councillors Davy, Hooper and Koughan.

Pumps and Wells—Councillors Horne, Davy and Byrne.

Councillor Koughan moved that the police force be reduced to six policemen. He thought the present state of the City, financially, was not such as would admit of the support of the present large number of policemen. Retrenchment was the order of the day, he thought it best to begin with that department.

Councillors Hertz and Peake thought that the motion required a great deal of consideration, therefore it would not be proper to deal with it too hastily. It might be allowed to stand over to next meeting, and in the meantime it can be considered in caucus.

Councillor Hooper thought the motion proper. There are many citizens against maintaining the present force, and many thought the force was required. At the time the force was increased to nineteen police, there was much work to be done—there were then as many as twenty cases per day before the court. Crime has greatly decreased, and he was happy to find that there were now hardly twenty cases per month. He thought the force might be reduced, but thought the matter should be considered.

Mr. Koughan then withdrew his motion for the present.

A motion was then carried that the finance committee be instructed to devise a means of reducing the present over drawn account in the Merchant's Bank, and also to prepare estimates of expenditure for the ensuing year.

The meeting adjourned at 8:30.
