Record Breaking Spree At British Empire Games

By W. R. WHEATLEY (Canadian Press Staff Writer) VANCOUVER (CP) — Marjorie Jackson Nelson of Australia Thursday equaled her claimed world record of 22.9 seconds for the women's 200-yard dash in more than 20 other athletic events in a spree of British Empire Games record busting. Even the milers got in on the act. As was expected, miracle milers John Landy of Australia and England's Dr. Roger Bannister easily qualified for Saturday's mile of the masters final. They practically dashed across the finish line in easy going strides. Each placed first in a heat and the crowd of 16,497, including the Duke of Edinburgh, saw the game record of 4:11 broken by five runners. Vancouver's Bill Parnell, who set the mark of 4:11 in 1950, finished fifth with a clocking of 4:13.8 in the heat and didn't qualify.

FERGUSON SETS RECORD Rich Ferguson of Toronto, second-place finisher in a heat, ran his fastest mile — 4:07.3 — in the class company and established a Canadian native record. There was some speculation that Mrs. Nelson's 24-second time for the 200 set earlier this year had been thrown out because of a following wind but the 23-year-old "delicate housewife" said she is confident it will be made official.

The Amateur Athletic Union of Australia has filed a claim and it is now awaiting word. She said in an interview after her great race. She added: "I'm confident it will be recognized."

Dutch Freighter Rams Bridge

MONTREAL (CP) — The 3,000-ton Dutch freighter Falco rams a bridge spanning the Lachine canal here Thursday, badly damaging the bridge. It was the vessel's second mishap in less than two weeks. Agents for the freighter said she was undamaged and will proceed on her voyage to Toronto. Canal officials said apparently her captain, C. D. De Vries, gave the order to reverse the order was not carried out. The bridge carries Canadian National Railways main line from the south shore of the St. Lawrence river. Railway traffic will not be disrupted but ship traffic will be re-routed through another branch of the canal.

On July 27, the Falco's engine blew up off Anticosti Island, 400 miles east of Quebec and she was towed to Quebec for repairs. No one was injured.

Police said they thought the doctor was mistaken in his belief but added it may never be known since autopsies are not conducted in suicide cases.

Marlene Stewart Leads Field For Golf Title

By GERRY MARTIN Canadian Press Staff Writer BRIGHTWOOD GOLF CLUB, N. S. (CP) — A putt that wouldn't go down cost little Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., a chance to tie par here Thursday in the first 18 holes of the Canadian women's close championships. Marlene easily led a field of 65 with a one-over-par 74 as she slayed her third defence of the closed title.

Mary Gay of Kitchener, Ont., who for the last two years has been runner-up to Marlene, ended six strokes behind her and is tied with Dorothy Herberston, Victoria, B.C., with 83. Marlene's perfect for golf, clouds cleared away early and hot sun dried fairways soaked by Wednesday's heavy drizzle. The women praised condition of the course after their round. The close, for Canadians only, will continue today and Saturday. Rae Milligan, Jasper, Alta., was one stroke behind Gay and Herberston, with an 81. Shirley Woodley, Toronto, carded an 82 and Anne Sharp, Fonthill, Ont., Noreen LaBrie, Port Credit, Ont., and Gail Phillips, Hull, Que., had 83.

SLIP AT THE LIP After paring the first 10 holes, Marlene lost a stroke on the 11th when her four-foot putt rolled to the lip of the cup and twirled around without dropping in. She lost another stroke on the 13th, par-four 390-yard stretch, way with woods bordering both sides of the narrow fairway. A birdie on the 14th left her one stroke down. She parred the next three holes and was on the green in three on the 18th but again missed a putt, a downhill 15-footer that missed by inches.

In the inter-provincial team matches, Ontario moved quickly out in front and at the end of 18 holes had a 13-stroke lead over Alberta and Saskatchewan, tied with a four-total 348.

British Columbia, hot on the heels of prairie teams, trailed by one stroke. Manitoba came next with five strokes up on the Maritimes, who had 364. Quebec, with two less in the cellar. FINAL TODAY The final 18 holes of the inter-provincial will be played today along with the junior east-west matches. The east juniors held a slim six-stroke lead at the end of 18 holes in their 36-hole match. The east, defending champions, turned in a total net score of 341. The west had 347.

Roma Neundorff, Scarborough, Ont., the Ontario junior champion, led the east squad with a net of 80 on the gross of 84. Rita Lohnes, Lunenburg, N. S., had a gross of 93 and net of 82. Fay Kittell, Granby, Que., scored 101 and Mary Ellen Driscoll, Saint John, N. B., the Maritime junior title carded a 96-38.

For the west, Shirley Fry, Victoria, had 87-53. Sandra Hay, Saskatchewan, 94-66; Mona Morup, Calgary, 102-85; and Carolyn Cameron, Winnipeg, 108-83.

Yankees Chop Indians' Lead With 5-2 Victory

By THE CANADIAN PRESS New York Yankees chopped Cleveland's lead in the American League to 1 1/2 games Thursday when they won the third and decisive game of the series from the Indians 5-2 on two home runs by Mickey Mantle and another by Joe Collins. The Yankees' six-game winning streak was snapped by Chicago Cubs, who lashed out a 6-4 victory. Ernie Banks, Eddie Miksis and Fred Baumholtz hit home runs for the Cubs. The Dodgers took an awful pasting from St. Louis Cardinals and from outfielder Stan Musial in particular. Musial hit his 29th and 30th homers in the eighth and seventh runs in the Cards' 13-4 triumph. The only other action Thursday was confined to the American League. Chicago White Sox won their seventh straight, defeating Boston Red Sox 5-2 in the eighth. The five games of the leading Indians, Bob Porterfield pitched Washington Senators to a 4-1 victory over Detroit Tigers, allowing six hits. The White Sox made only five hits but packaged them well with first baseman Phil Cavarretta, the key figure. Phil hit a two-run double in the first inning. Bob Keegan was the winning pitcher, getting No. 14. Two National League games were rained out — Cincinnati at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia at Milwaukee, the latter at night.

TWO FOR MANTLE The Yankees' three home runs all came with none on base. Mantle hit his 23rd in the fourth inning and his 23rd in the eighth. Collins came in the eighth. Noren scored the other two Yankees runs following a double and a single. Bob Grim was the winning pitcher although he needed help from Johnny Sain. The loser was Early Wynn.

The Cardinals, beaten in 18 of their last 19 games at Ebbets Field, unleashed their biggest bat offensive of the year on starter Preacher Roe and three other Brooklyn pitchers, amassing 21 hits for a total of 33 bases.

Musial hit his first home run of the day in the third inning, scoring two runners ahead of him and chasing Roe. His second came in the fourth inning, also with two men on base.

The Cardinal outfielder's seven runs batted in gave him a total of 181, his seventh season with 100 or more RBIs. Rookie Brooks Lawrence was the winning pitcher, allowing six hits.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis, and former triple champion Henry Armstrong represented the "modern era" in a Thursday to boxing's Hall of Fame. The board of directors composed of boxing writers for the world's major news services selected 15 boxers of the "pioneer era" dating far back as the 18th century to start the hall off. An "oldtimers" committee of 20 named six more luminaries of the past who were active up to 1919.

Ninety-one boxing writers around the world then voted for 10 outstanding fighters who campaigned after 1919 and who have been out of action for at least two years. To make the grade, the "moderns" had to be picked on at least 75 per cent of the ballots. In this case it required a minimum of 69 votes. Only Dempsey, Louis and Armstrong could make it. MOST FOR DEMPSEY Dempsey received the most votes, 85. Louis was named 78 times while Armstrong, only fighter in history to hold three titles simultaneously, collected 74 votes. Armstrong held the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight crowns at one time in 1938.

The "oldtimers" committee, made up of veteran writers and former heavyweight champions, picked six former champions: heavyweights James J. Corbett, James J. Jeffries, Bob Fitzsimmons, and Jack Johnson, lightweight Stanley Ketchell, and middleweight Stanley Ketchell. Fitzsimmons ruled three divisions — middleweight, heavyweight and light heavyweight — but not all at once.

Ketchell received the most votes from that group, being named on 17 of 20 ballots. Eleven votes were need for selection in this category. "PIONEER" GROUP The "pioneer era" group included such Americans as John L. Sullivan, Jack McAuliffe, John C. Heenan, John Morrissey, Jack Dempsey, a middleweight not to be confused with the Massasaugus; England's James Figg, Jack lowing six hits. The game at the Polo Grounds was almost as wild, even if closer. In the eighth, the Cubs' home runs, two were hit by the Indians. Bill Taylor and Al Dark socked them in the fifth when the Giants got all their runs. Banks and Miksis hit successive homers in the eighth, breaking a 4-4 tie. The winning pitcher was Hal Jeffcoat, who relieved Warren Hacker in the sixth and later himself was rescued by Jim Davis.

Broughton, Daniel Mendoza, Tom Cribb, Gentleman John Jackson, Tom Sayers, Arthur Chambers, and Jim Mace; and Australia's Young Griff.

The "oldtimers" committee and modern day writers will vote for other stars of the game each year. Plaques or pictures of those selected will be hung in the museum department of the Ring Magazine office in Madison Square Garden until a permanent site for the boxing Hall of Fame is chosen. Nat Fleischer, veteran boxing writer and official editor of the Ring Magazine, was the founder of the Hall of Fame. In the voting for the moderns, Sugar Ray Robinson, the former middleweight king, barely failed to qualify with 66 votes. Behind him came such luminaries as Benny Leonard (63), Gene Tunney (58), Mickey Walker (57), Harry Greb (55), Tony Canzoneri (34), Barney Ross (29), Jim McLarin (26) and Tommy Loughran (18). In all 57 boxers were named.

Old Fort Henry To "Surrender" KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Old Fort Henry will "surrender" to the United States Aug. 18. A detachment of U. S. Marines will march in and take command of the historic fort—142 years after their U. S. forces were repulsed with heavy losses in the War of 1812. The ceremony will commemorate the 15th anniversary of the Ogdensburg Agreement of 1939, the Canadian-U.S. joint defence of North America pact. Climax of the celebration will be the firing of 150 "Congress" rockets—those that inspired the "rockets" red glare" of the "Star Spangled Banner" in 1814—and the 150-year-old muzzle-loaded guns of the fort's east battery. This was the artillery that slanted up attack after attack Nov. 10, 1814, when U.S. troops attempted to land near Kingston.

Centennial Reunion

Msgr. MacLellan celebrated a Requiem Mass for those men of the Dunstan's who have died. In the afternoon there was a mass beach party and a smaller golf tournament. And at night James Cardinal McGuigan, the most distinguished graduate of them all, who has shared the whole of his life with his fellow graduates, a life membership in the Alumni Association. In his remarks, Msgr. Monaghan said: "General Omar Bradley, former Chief of Staff of the U.S. Army, in a notable speech delivered in Boston a few years ago, spoke of death-dealing blood to the stand of those who exclude God from education and at the same time gave a clear and convincing vindication of the sanity of our position. In words of stern and solemn warning, he declared: 'With the monstrous weapon man already has, humanity is in danger of being trapped in this world by its own adolescents. Our knowledge of science has clearly outstripped our capacity to control it. We have many men of science, but too few men of God. We have grasped the mystery of the atom and rejected the Sermon on the Mount. Man is stumbling blindly through a spiritual darkness, while toying with the precarious secrets of life and death.'

Traffic Recommendations

First witness called last night was Mr. Roy Whitlock who said he was home the day of the accident and was told about it by the driver of the truck. Mr. Whitlock is the local representative of the bread manufacturing firm. He told the Court the truck was operated by Mr. William Dunn who had been employed by his company for the past three years. He believed that Mr. Dunn was a good truck driver and driven the same truck for nearly two years. His company, as far as he recalled, had issued no written instructions to its drivers regarding the carrying of passengers. The boy who was killed, he stated, was acting voluntarily as the helper of the driver and was not paid by the company. He said the boy usually went out with Mr. Dunn three or four days a each week during the summer holidays. Briefly questioned by Mr. Nicholson, the witness said he could not tell the general practices of the drivers as he seldom saw them while they were making their deliveries.

POPULAR RESORT

About 8,000,000 persons holiday each year at the seaside resort of Blackpool in Great Britain. tures of the extremities, but h found the collar bone broken and chest injuries which indicate punctures of the lungs. Despite the finding he tried artificial respiration and injected adrenalin but no time could he detect any discernible heart beat. Charles Munroe, Euston Street grocer, said he was in his store when Mr. Dunn arrived with the victim heading towards the truck which was parked with its wheel over the curb. He was not looking when the truck pulled away.

DRIVER'S EVIDENCE

William Dunn, driver of the truck, was warned by Mr. Nicholson, Crown Prosecutor, that it was not compulsory for him to give evidence nor to make any statement. Mr. Dunn was then sworn and told the Court that on the day of the accident he drove down Victoria Avenue and pulled up over the curb to deliver the bread. The boy, he said, jumped on the running board as he started to drive away. He stated he took his eyes off the road for a moment. He heard a noise and then saw Albert Woodington lying in the street. When he heard the noise he felt the truck striking something. He said it was customary with him to pull into the left side of the road when making deliveries to stores on that side of a street. He had just come from a nearby store and the deceased was with him. He said he had known the boy since last year. There was no oncoming traffic at the time, he stated.

OTHER WITNESSES

Dr. Thomas A. Laidlaw, surgeon, said he was working in the hospital the afternoon the accident but learned there was an emergency case. He immediately left his own work and went to the operating room. He saw the boy there, but indications were that he was almost dead at the time. He gave a quick examination and determined that there were no fractures that all authority comes from God will be more likely to use his powers according to the moral code than one who does not count God in his reckoning and does not realize that one who will have to render an account of his stewardship. "The physician who realizes the value of the human soul will more likely be faithful to his oath than he who cares little for the laws of God and less for the life of the unborn child or the salvation of those who are classed as incurable. The teacher who realizes that the purpose of education is to form Christ in others, to develop strong and courageous Christians, will certainly give more to his students than one who is concerned chiefly with the values of this world. And the citizen who believes that patriotism is a virtue and disloyalty to country a sin, will be in far less danger of becoming a traitor than one who considers God, duty and virtue an object of derision. "Ex eodem fonte fides et scientia! For one hundred years Saint Dunstan's has been conscious of the implications of this motto. She has made Christ the Sun and Centre of her curriculum. She has trained us to be good citizens of this world because she has taught us that today is only a step to the eternal tomorrow. "As she begins the second century of her high and noble mission, our prayer and our hope is that she will continue to teach the one great lesson so often missed by so many. And the lesson is this: There is no true knowledge where faith is flouted; there is no real beauty without God's grace."

Christian Living

"The Christian educator prepares his students to earn living, but he is more concerned with training them to live a Christian life. Even in the primary grades, the pupil is reminded constantly of the meaning and purpose of life, that man was created to know, to live, and to serve God; and, thus acting, to save his immortal soul. He is imbued with reverence for the things of God, reverence for authority, and respect for the rights of others. And he faces life with a realization that he must live now as to be worthy to live with God for eternity—that the love and service of God is the one thing necessary and that nothing else really matters. "What does it profit man if he gains the whole world and suffer the loss of his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul? "Our education depends on our religion. But our religion is not merely a creed; it is a code; it is a cult; it is our life. It moulds our character and determines our destiny. The man who has been brought up to realize the presence of God must have a different attitude towards life and a greater respect for the rights and property of others than he who is taught, by inference at least, that God does not exist or that He is not important. The man who realizes that his body is the temple of the Holy Spirit will be more inclined to practice the virtue of purity than one who regards his body merely as a bundle of reflexes and complex. And he who realizes that marriage is a sacrament and one of the paths appointed by God to lead to eternal life, will cherish the woman who is his wife, and will not easily cast her aside for some other woman whom he finds more attractive. The public official who realizes
