Fire Burns Dance Hall

O'LEARY — The Royal Canadian Legion Home in O'Leary was extensively damaged by fire about two o'clock Sunday morning.

Believed to have started in a chestfield in the dance hall, the fire completely gutted the dance hall and caused heavy water and smoke damage to the entire building which was renovated two years ago at a cost of $10,000.

The blaze was first noticed by Jackie Arsenault and Charles Foley. The O'Leary Fire Department was credited with doing a fine job in saving the building from destruction.

The loss is covered by insurance. There was a second call about 5:30 a.m. to put out a stubborn blaze in the insulating material in the ceiling of the dance hall.

School Seeking Special Teacher

Adrian Smith of the department of health recently visited Georgetown High School, where he conducted a demonstration of remedial reading for the teaching staff and the school secretary, who will acquaint the Board of Trustees with the work of the demonstration.

The demonstration consisted of a kit of books showing various levels of reading to be used in grades six and seven.

Mr. Smith recommended that a teacher be procured to teach remedial reading in grades two, three, four and five, and the Board of Trustees are now endeavouring to procure the services of such a teacher.

Mr. Smith will again visit Georgetown School on Oct. 27 and 29 when he will hold IQ tests in grades two and three and hold remedial reading demonstrations in other grades.

Judson Packers Opens Saturday

SUMMERSIDE — One of the largest turnouts for an official opening in many years was seen Saturday afternoon at the opening of the Judson Packers Plant on Greenwood Drive here.

People came from as far away as Sydney, N.S., to attend the ceremonies. Hon. Leo Rossiter, former minister of industries and now minister of fisheries, cut the ribbon to officially open the plant.

Addressing the large crowd, Mr. Rossiter said that the opening was a sign of the general improvement in the Island's economy. An occasion such as this, featuring the growth of an established industry, especially an industry owned by an Island native, gave him great satisfaction, he said.

Other dignitaries on hand for the occasion who spoke briefly were — Premier Walter Shaw; Hon. Lloyd MacPhail, provincial minister of industries; Hon. Hubert MacNeill, provincial minister of labor and welfare; Senator Orville Phillips; Summerside Mayor George Key Jr. and Norman Johnson, chairman of the village commissioners of St. Eleanor's.

The premier called the event "the finest opening of an industrial facility I have ever attended." Referring to the plant, he said "I am sure this plant will be a great success and also a great value to the industrial development of this country."

He said his government was interested in the future of an individual, especially an Island boy and an Island plant catering to an Island industry.

Referring to a news editorial concerning the industrial park here which said in effect, had reached a point of stagnation, he pointed out that "industrial development is a slow process."

New Democrats Meet In Tignish

TIGNISH — A meeting of the New Democratic Party was held in the Tignish Legion Hall on Friday evening.

Harvey Dawson, newly elected candidate, outlined the policies of the party. "One of the main proposals of the party," Mr. Dawson said, "is to build the long-proposed harbour that the two old parties have been talking and promising for so long." The harbour, Mr. Dawson said, has been measured and tested so many times that the soil around it is beginning to crumble.

Mr. Dawson party policies regarding a majority government that both parties had for over 100 years, and did very little about. "The promises they are now making if fulfilled would break the Canadian and United States government together in less than a week," he said.

"If my party is elected," he said, "unemployment will be paid to farmers, fishermen and truck-drivers." His voice, he said, in Ottawa will be heard "loud and long."

Also addressing the meeting were: John Wallace and B.M. Lellan.

Company leave to appeal a successful action brought against it by one of its employees.

Derrick Northcott was a spare operator of the company. Included in a collective agreement between the company and Northcott's union was a guarantee that spare operators would be paid for 70 hours of work each two weeks whether they worked or not.

The union launched a grievance against the company early in 1963, alleging that Mr. Northcott had not received his guaranteed wage during January of that year. The arbitration board agreed that such a guarantee existed but did not award him any sum of money.

Mr. Northcott then took the case to court and was granted $118 by a judge of the First Division Court of Hamilton.

The Ontario Court of Appeal rejected the company's appeal against the judge's decision.

Where do you stand on the Canada Pension Plan?

Mr. Richard
To be honest, I haven't really given it much thought.

Interviewer
Well, it is going to affect nearly everybody in Canada, one way or another, whether you are self-employed, or are working for someone else.

Of course, each case can vary as to benefits and amount of pension.

Mr. Richard
I know I'll get a pension at 65. I'm not sure it will be enough.

Interviewer
You can make sure. For example — the addition of a retirement Income Plan from The Mutual Life could well make the difference between just "getting by" — or really enjoying your retirement years.

Mr. Richard
Where can I find out how these things fit together? Sounds pretty complicated.

Interviewer
Call your nearest Mutual Life of Canada Representative. He's qualified to show you exactly what benefits you can expect.
