

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR S. ANDREWS AND ATTENDANTS

Double Ring Ceremony Performed At Hazelbrook

Hazelbrook Baptist Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday June 28th, at 8 o'clock, when Susan Lindsay, daughter of Mr. Roy Jones and the late Mrs. Jones and Arthur Samuel, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Andrews were united in marriage by the Rev. C. W. Passey in a double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Harold Carver was in charge of the wedding music and during the signing of the register Mr. Henry Jones, brother of the bride, sang the wedding prayer. The church altar was beautifully decorated, by friends of the bride, with blending shades of peony roses and orange blossoms.

The guest pews were marked with bows of white satin, daffodils and ferns. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a floor length gown of white net over gleaming white satin with inserts of lace, the sleeves coming to a point over the wrists. Over her gown a shoulder length veil of net was adorned with a sequin trimmed headress. She carried a white Bible trimmed with an orchid from which fell white streamers and lily of the valley.

The matron of honor Mrs. Stanley Sanford, sister of the bride and Miss Annie Graham the room's niece as bridesmaids were dressed in ballerina length gowns of rose and blue and matching headresses. They carried nosegays of mixed carnations. Capably carrying out the duties of groomsmen was Mr. Stanley Sanford, brother-in-law of the bride.

Jean Farquharson, the whimsical little flower girl was dressed in yellow organdy with accessories to match, while Byron Jones performed the duties of ring bearer. In his hand he carried a white lily.

Ushers were Robert Jones, Gordon Andrews and Arthur Andrews, Jr. The reception was held at the Queen Hotel where one hundred and fifty guests enjoyed a turkey dinner. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. C. W. Passey, and fittingly responded to by the groom. Telegrams from Boston and other centres were read by the best man. The beautifully decorated bride and groom's cake centered the head table which was flanked on each side by sterling silver candelsticks and baskets of flowers. The cake was cut in the traditional manner.

The bride's going-away costume was a grey suit with white and blue accessories.

Following their honeymoon to Niagara Falls, New York, Rochester, Buffalo and Belfast, Maine, they will reside at West Acton, Mass.

Out of town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Paterson, Mrs. Robert Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wayne all of Boston, Mr. Ada Johnstone, Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Rawleigh Claire of Sackville and Mr. and Mrs. William Blakeley of Saint John.

HOUSEHOLD HINT

Before you diet, find out how many calories your personality needs, as well as what your figure should have.

A very low calorie diet can cause emotional maladjustment in some people. So once again the old warning: consult your doctor first.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Christopher Robin At Alderlea Says Prayers

July, we can fancy is a Gypsy maid, a bare-foot, sun-browned, rosy lass, fond of decking herself in bright scarves and kirtles, great hoops of molten sunlight, dangling from her elfin-pointed ears. She walks the fields with a natural grace, stopping to gather for herself a perfect blossom to tell of each petal with a shy chuckle. She smiles easily and it is bright and very sweet.

She is along the yards now attended by a pair of willful fireflies that only at intervals are pleased to light her steps in the dimness. Strange, eerie creatures these are. From the old stone doorstep by the front verandah this dusk we watched others of kin flit to and fro, in a magical sight among the Alders down by the millstream below.

The place was hushed then. The animals about, that a while before had been noisy were now fed and settled-pigs and piglets to their beds cows eased by their calves and returned to the night-pasture. The men had taken the truck on an excursion to the far fields, a pair of lads with them: Gage and Mack who last evening had decided of themselves to be out guests. They slept in the dark room adjoining ours, it being so called because it is lighted only by a small-paned, small-lah window an old-time bulidier had for lack of more space, inserted fetchingly up close beneath an eave.

"If a fellow has a skinned knee will it do to kneel on just one?" we overheard Mack query soberly at his prayer-time.

"Yes dear", James relled fondly "of course one knee will do. . . Did you hear that, Ellen?" James whispered, "children can often put grown-ups to shame!"

"And don't forget Granddaughter", we called. "She may be lonely this very minute. Put in her name."

Granddaughter is missing from the place these days, away visiting young cousins, their grandmother gone now to rest, being the elder daughter of this old house, away back in the years. There is a nice home, set in the midst of fields that run from woodlands at the back down to have feet in the tides of the river below.

"Are you comfortable . . . and warm enough?" James called to the lads in the next room, shortly after the lights had been turned out last night. There was no reply. Sleep comes easily and soundly to such youngsters in the carefree holiday season.

"What, no lunch ready!" James says now at the door. "Oh well", he offers in a make-believe resigned tone to the boys who shadow him, "I guess we sha'n't bother to wait for it."

"But it was to be strawberries!" Mack remembers.

"Strawberries or not?" he chuckles to them on the verandah, "Off with your boots! And away to bed we go, to be ready for another busy day tomorrow!"

"I think we'll be lunching first!" Gage comments, a smile in the words.

Until tomorrow — — — Diary Good-night.

THE HIGH HAT LOOK

BY ALICE ALDEN
TALL and handsome hats are terrific with the current clothes lines, and the best of the species are those trimly tailored with ribbon. Emme does such a model in grass green Milan straw and finishes the chemise cloche with darker green grosgrain ribbon. Note the angle-up and away from the face and designed to produce this summer's "Hilite" look.
