

Flooring Basic To Scheme

Flooring isn't just something to be walked on these days nor does it take a lot of hard work to keep it presentable. Flooring is now something to be integrated into the decorating scheme.

STUBBORN SPOTS

To wash a tile floor, add a little ammonia to the soap or detergent suds and your tiles will come out gleaming white. A stiff scrubbing brush should take care of any stubborn spots, but with regular floor-washings or wipings, several times a week, stubborn spots will not have a chance to settle.

There's no need to use too much water on the floor—it's the suds that do the cleaning. So work up a rich lather with a minimum of water and wipe off with a wrung-out cloth or mop.

In the bathroom, let the floor dry thoroughly, preferably with the window open, before replacing the hamper and stool. When washing a tile floor, let heavy suds do the heavy work. Don't slobber the floor with water, since moisture seeping into the cracks is apt to cause tiles to buckle.

PROFESSIONAL HELP

Asphalt and cork tile are easy to put on walls, even without professional help. They can be kept clean with sudsing followed by a light rinsing. Vinyl tile is a very durable flooring and has a high resistance to stains and wear. Damp-mop it daily, or as often as traffic indicates, and wash it thoroughly once a week with a mop wrung out of thick "gray" suds from the top of a pail. Rinse water with a mop wrung out of clear water. When thoroughly dry, wax floor lightly, using either polishing or self-polishing variety.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES ARTHUR CHANDLER

Brides Four Grandparents Attend Hunter R. Wedding

Shasta crysanthemums and daisies in white baskets were the focal setting for the lovely early summer wedding of Miss Alice Margaret Bagnall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Arthur Chandler, son of Mrs. Clifford S. Chandler, 12 Kent Street, Charlottetown, and the late Mr. Chandler.

The marriage was solemnized June 2, at four o'clock p.m. in a double ring ceremony at the Hunter's River United Church. The officiating clergyman was the Reverend C.R. Moase. The organist was Mrs. Ivan Bowman and the Soloist Mr. Gordon Carew. The latter sang the beautiful wedding hymn "O Perfect Love" and the appealing secular number "I'll Walk Beside You".

The bride's gown was a formal floor length of fine Chantilly lace over white satin. The pattern of the lace was outlined with sequins and the dress was designed to feature a fitted bodice with long sleeves. Her headdress was an iridescent sequin crown held in place by a Chapel veil with scalloped edge. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. William Thornton was the Matron of honor. She wore a becoming ballerina length gown of pink net over taffeta with matching stole and pink accessories. Her headdress was also a sequin crown with pink net. An old-fashioned nosegay bouquet of yellow and white carnations completed her ensemble.

Miss Virginia Waye the bridesmaid was also becomingly gowned in a ballerina length gown of romance blue nylon over net with matching accessories. Her headdress was crown shaped beaded white daisies with blue net. She carried a nosegay bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Steven Chandler, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Mr. George Bagnall, brother of the bride, and Mr. Philip McInnis, friend of the groom.

The reception was held at Shining Waters Lodge, Cavendish. White streamers and daisy summer flowers were the decorations here, and seventy guests assembled. Mrs. Errol Bagnall was in charge of the guest book.

The bride's mother wore a pink and black taffeta dress with pink accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of white gardenias.

The groom's mother wore a blue and white taffeta dress, with blue and white accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Chandler spent their honeymoon in New York City. The bride's travelling costume was a navy duster with matching dress. She wore pink and navy accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

After the wedding trip, the young couple will take up residence at 135 Fitzroy Street, Charlottetown.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Bagnall, New Glasgow, N.S., Misses Lynne and Virginia Waye, Mr. Sydney Holmes, St. Stephen, N.B., Mrs. William Thornton, Fredericton, N.B.

A most interesting and very happy feature of the wedding was the bride's four grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Dickleson and Mr. and Mrs. Pope Bagnall were present. (Photographer Myers Studio)

Before Summer Came

So many minor ecstasies there are to enjoy in these fleeting June days. For while it is given to "only a few, and those few infrequently, to know great ecstasy," according to Elizabeth G. Vining, "there are minor ecstasies for all of us, however monotonous our days or cramped our lives. Something seen, something heard, something felt, flashes upon one with a bright freshness and the heart, tired or sad or merely indifferent, stirs and lifts in answer."

"Come of these she has known?" "The fragrance of sun-warmed honeysuckle on stone walls; the flute passages in Beethoven's Fourth Symphony; the cold curve of the river in winter where it turns between purple wooded banks; shared laughter over nothing more than fundamental understanding; the whistle of a cardinal in the dark of a still February morning; the smell of wet wood and seaweed at a ferry-wharf."

"Not long since the pink of apple tree boughs; first peonies budded toward blossom; columbines in a sober line in the flower-border arranging their bells—the "flutes" of tonight's pond orchestra, piping to a clearing sky in support of the recent man-made weather forecast which promised in effect, sunshine, warm with light winds for tomorrow, grant after today's rather fretful weather another one of June's rare days.

"I wish I could find a daisy!" Grandfather said. "Don't find a daisy yet" we begged her "summer will come soon enough!"

"Wouldn't it be nice if we could have two summers in one year though I suppose" she twinkled brightly "we soon wouldn't be satisfied with that. We would want to change it to something else." Meanwhile Spring spends away her last days, a bit carelessly it would seem, sometimes undoing her own lovely handwork. The frost which came on the eve of Granddaughter's birthday and was heavy at this place by the mill-pond, caught first tomato transplantings nipped the tips of the corn seedlings, and shrivelled in part, in a dismaying sight, the unfolding leaves of the oaks on the lawn. These trees both come in leaf and retain them, later than any of the other deciduous trees we have about.

"And what will they do now?" Mack said. Will time heal the hurt? So we had beclouded skies and cool dampness today. But now signs of the clearing... faint glimmer of stars.

"One day of the new week gone" the younger farmer of the place smiles, coming in now to visit a moment with us before going home to the house across the lane. "It's not much of a hardship to while them away, cropping day or not," he says with some whimsy. "The month will be gone before we know it."

"We'll be cropping in July!" James says, entering brightly. "Yes sir, if we get a few delaying days like this," he nods. "Let's have a bite to eat, Ellen—you know what's ahead for us in the morning!"

Until tomorrow --Diary-- Good-night

COOK'S CORNER

PINEAPPLE SQUARES

2 tablespoons of sugar
4 tablespoons of butter
2 egg yolks
1 cup of flour with butter
1 teaspoon of baking powder
pinch of salt.

Combine above ingredients and line a 9 X 9 inch pan. Drain a can of crushed pineapple and spread on the above mixture in the pan.

Bake this with a mixture as follows:
Beat 2 whites of eggs stiff, add 1/2 cup of sugar and 2 cups of cocoanut. Spread over pineapple, bake in an oven at 350 deg. for 30 min. Cut into squares and serve. Delicious.

NO LONGER IRREGULAR

"My husband was sick with constipation for years," writes Mrs. B. Crawley, Goddons, Man. "He tried most everything without success. After 2 months with All-Bran he's a different, happier man and so glad he's regular again." Good-tasting Kellogg's All-Bran has been helping folks overcome constipation due to lack of bulk for two generations. Why not you? All-Bran gets at the common cause of irregularity: lack of bulk in the foods we eat. Kellogg's—the original ready-to-eat whole bran. Delicious with milk and very inexpensive. For gentle, natural regularity.
