Two More Enter Ring For Liberal Nomination

Two names were added last night to the list of prospective candidates for the Liberal nomination in Queens County, when a convention is called.

Cecil Miller, Frenchfort, a veteran campaigner of other years, and Ira Lewis, York, a newcomer to active politics were the new men in the field.

Mr. Miller told this paper, last night "I am definitely in the race" and people close to the Queens County executive suggested Mr. Lewis would probably offer as a candidate.

Others previously reported as probable candidates included B.B. Jones, Bunbury and Roland MacDonald, Southport who are both farmers and Allison Gillis, a Charlottetown lawyer.

Mr. Miller, a farmer, is the veteran of the group in experience. He has been active as an organizer for many years and won the County nomination on four previous occasions.

PROMINENT FARMER

Mr. Lewis, with his brother Claude, comprise the firm of Lewis Brothers. They have been prominent in livestock breeding and potato growing. Their Lewisdale Holstien herd has won top honors in some of the Maritimes's biggest fairs. They rank among the larger growers and handlers of potatoes.

Mr. Lewis has also been active in politics, and has served several terms as secretary of the Third Queens Liberal Association.

The name of W.R. Jenkins, Charlottetown automobile distributor, was mentioned earlier as a possible candidate, but Mr. Jenkins told this paper today "I don't think I am interested."

New Democrats Scheduled To Attend Moncton Talks

Four New Democratic Party representatives from this province expect to attend a conference of party representatives of the Maritimes in Moncton on Friday and Saturday.

Provincial secretary-organizer of the party, Thomas Dunphy, said yesterday that he will attend the conference, along with Leo McIsaac, Mermaid; Ian Webster, Parkdale, and possibly Wilfred Inman, Charlottetown.

The conference is being called to set up a Maritime section of the New Democratic Party, Mr. Dunphy said that the Maritimes have special problems, not common to the rest of Canada, and the new section of the party will be organized to deal with those problems.

Expected from Ottawa for the Moncton conference are Carl Hamilton, national secretary, Desmond Sparham, national organizer, and Steven Lewis, national fund raising manager.

Mr. Dunphy said that part of the conference will deal with the party's forthcoming fund raising drive for election campaign funds.

Teacher Training Said Inadequate

Grave concern over the province's teacher training programme is expressed in a brief presented to the government in the Legislature yesterday by the P.E.I. Federation of Home and School Associations.

The brief urged the government to act immediately on a resolution passed at the P.E.I. Conference on Education, asking that the Island's teacher training program be extended to two years, combining academic and professional studies.

MINIMUM PROGRAM

The brief also outlined what it described as a "minimum program of adult education" that could be set up without charge or additional expense to the government.

Other points touched on in the brief were public health services; school libraries and vocational guidance.

The brief was submitted by a delegation from the federation, headed by President Eric Kipping and vice-president M. F. Hagen. Other members of the Federation executive accompanied the president and vice-president.

The brief suggested that the two-year teacher training program might be either a year of academic training, followed by a year of professional training, or a combination of the two, but left the final decision to responsible authorities.

It described the program as "the absolute minimum basis on which to provide qualified teachers for the boys and girls of the province".

TO CONSIDER POLICY

The federation asked the government to consider a policy whereby teachers of long experience, but without the "necessary paper credentials" to qualify for higher licences and hence higher salaries, might earn for higher salaries.

It urged the government to consider a "flexible formula" whereby experienced teachers would qualify for higher salaries through summer school studies.

The federation expressed "its gravest concern" with the present depletion in rural school superintendents. Noting that this condition left a large number of teachers without any or inadequate supervision, the brief asked that replacements be found quickly and paid salaries equivalent to those received by high school principals.

It also asked skilled teachers be hired and attached to the office of the superintendent.

The federation divided the proposed adult education program into three divisions: The subjects that should be included in a minimum program; the techniques of adult education and the means that are now available to carry out the program.

Under subject matter were listed such topics as academic subjects on both secondary and university levels; education of the aging; creative arts and crafts; health education; family education; public affairs; manual arts; occupational training; agricultural and fisheries extension courses; leadership training; public speaking; management courses, etc.

The media open for use in an educational program were listed as individual methods (books pamphlets, telephone calls, personal letters); group methods (films, night courses, workshops, group meetings, discussion); and mass media (newspapers, radio, television, etc.)

SOURCES LISTED

The sources available for getting the program into the active stage were listed as: voluntary organizations, universities and schools, the provincial government, the federal government.

Others suggestions of the federation were:

More time be provided in teacher training establishments on the subject of the health of school children and the teaching of health to school children.

More up to date text books be used in elementary and secondary schools.

A trained librarian to be added to the P.E.I. Libraries as director of school library services.

The introduction of three trained guidance counsellors into the provinces high schools, one for each county.

Incident At Hockey Game Draws Police Court Fine

A fine of $25 and costs or 10 days was imposed on John Kane of Charlottetown when he was convicted of common assault by Magistrate A.J. Haslam in City Police Court yesterday morning.

Kane was charged with assaulting Douglas Stanley, 12-year-old son of Herbert Stanley, Charlottetown, by striking him on the face with a hockey stick, during a hockey agme at the Sports Arena on Feb. 13. Counsel for the accused was Allison M. Gillis while Frederic A. Large, QC, appeared for complainant.

Pleading guilty to a charge of assaulting Mrs. Hilda Carter, by striking her on the shoulder with his fist, Ernest Carter, Charlottetown, was remanded until March 26 in absence, with cash bail of $100 to continue.

Counsel for the defence is Mr. Gillis, and for the complainant, John P. Nicholson.

Arrested on the charge of being drunk and incapable, another accused was sent to Queens County jail on a sentence of 20 days, which had been suspended by the magistrate at a previous appearance of the accused Monday morning.

Panel Is Feature Of H & S Meeting

The regular meeting of the Rochford Square Home and School Association was held Monday evening, March 12, in the school auditorium.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The president, Mrs. Jack Hennessey, read articles which confirmed the decision of the executive in regard to the letter concerning nuclear weapons.

A panel consisting of Mr. Brighton MacDougal, Reverend Father Bolger, Sister St. Antoinette, Mrs. Clarence Coady and Mr. J.E. Green conducted a "question box". They discussed and answered some of the interesting questions which had previously been handed in by the parents as well as some that were asked from the floor.

A word of appreciation on behalf of the audience was extended to the panel by the president.

Call Tenders For School

A new 22-room school to replace the present West Kent School is in the making, Tenders were called yesterday for the building.

Tenders are being received at the office of architect G. Keith Pickard until 4 p.m. March 29.

When completed the new school will mark the end of a city school building program that started early last year. To date, a new Prince Street School has been completed, and a new Queen Square School is well under construction, located on Upper Queen Street.

The old West Kent School will eventually be torn down to make room for the new provincial building that will house all government departments.

Site Decision Delights Mayor

Mayor A. Walthen Gaudet expressed delight at the decision favoring the West Kent School site for a new provincial building by a government committee studying the matter. He said he would await with keen interest future action by the legislature.

The "Feasibility Study on a new Provincial Building". Results were tabled in the Legislature Monday night by Provincial Secretary J.D. Stewart who said a resolution will be introduced which would deal with the proposed building.

Parade Details Finalized At Annual Smoker Of BIS

The Benevolent Irish Society held their annual smoker in the c' brooms last night. Vice-president Brady Smith presided.

Eight new members were received into the society. They are: Stephen McClosky, Leo McClosky, William Quinn, Leith McCarron, Clifford Morgan, Raymond Matters, Elmer Hogan, Alfred Trainor. Several members spoke briefly to welcome the new members. Elmer Hogan and Clifford Morgan thanked the group on behalf of the new candidates.

The finalization of plans for the celebration of St. Patrick's Day was the chief business before the meeting. J. Pius Callaghan, director of the play "The Irish Professor", reported that the cast was ready to stage the play and he stated that this year's performance will be the best yet.

Chief marshal for the parade, Jimmie Smith, outlined the parade route, being as follows: leaving the club rooms on Grafton Street, proceeding to the cenotaph to place a wreath in honour of past members, then via Queen, Richmond and Great George Streets to St. Dunstan's Basilica for service. Following the service the parade will follow the route of Great George, Richmond, Prince, Kent, Queen, Grafton Streets back to the club rooms. Indications are that this year's parade will be one of the biggest staged by the society.

Shamrock committee chairman John Coady reported that sales were going quite favourably, but urged everyone to buy a shamrock, since it is for a worthy cause.

No 'Absolute' Defence Seen Against Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP — Defence Secretary McNamara said here there is "no reasonable prospect" for development of an "absolute" defence against a missile attack on the United States.

McNamara said it is too early to decide whether the U.S. should rely on missiles alone for its future defence.

Appearing on a television interview recorded for New York stations with Senator Kenneth B. Keating (Rep. N.Y.), McNamara said it "appears neither necessary nor desirable" to speed the production of a B-70 supersonic bomber weapons system. He added that to do so would involve spending $10,000,000,000.

Keating asked the defence secretary how soon the United States would have an effective anti-missile missile.

"This is a question I wish I could answer—I can't," McNamara replied. "At the present time, it appears to us that no amount of money can make possible an absolute defence of this country against the intercontinental ballistic missile."

Delegations Given Promises In Parliament Hill Visits

OTTAWA (CP)—Want something for your community from the federal government?

Send a delegation.

You're almost bound to get a government promise of careful and sympathetic consideration.

Two delegations descended on Parliament Hill Monday and, though they approached the capital with widely differing tactics, went away with substantially the same result.

One was a group of businessmen from Riviere-du-Loup, Que., area communities paraded in front of the Centre Block in a blinding snowstorm just as members of Parliament were arriving at their offices.

Their object: New port and ferry facilities for Riviere-du-Loup, which had been promised as long ago as 1897.

BELL ISLANDERS CALL

The other delegation was a group of miners and community leaders from Bell Island, Nfld. who called quietly on Prime Minister Diefenbaker and had a two-hour meeting with three cabinet ministers, expressing concern about the imminent layoff of 700 miners on Bell Island.

They were shepherded around by their local MP, James McGrath (PC—St. John's East).

When the Commons met, Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) asked Transport Minister Balcer if he could announce any port works in answer to the Riviere-du-Loup plea.

Mr. Balcer said the public works department is conducting tests in the area and, moreover, the government has done money in public works in Quebec in the last four years than the previous Liberal government did.

Mr. McGrath asked Mines Minister Flynn for a report on their meeting earlier in the day the labor problem in Bell Island. Mr. Flynn said he and Labor Minister Starr would be reporting to the full cabinet on their conference with the Newfoundland delegation.

Institute Meets At Whim Road

MONTAGUE — The regular meeting of Whim Road WI was held at the home of Mrs. George Clorey. Roll call was answered by an old time or imaginary newspaper. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. New committees were appointed. Correspondence was discussed.

Mrs. Lawerance Stuart invited members to her home for next meeting. Program followed.

Meeting closed with the singing followed by a delicious lunch served by the hostess.

Election Date Is Announced For Rhodesia

SALISBURY (Reuters)—April 27 has been set as the date for the Rhodesian general election called by Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky, who is being strongly criticized for the move.

Most whites appeared bewildered, doubtful or frankly pessimistic about the decision. Welensky said he is seeking a mandate to fight British-proposed constitutional changes which he says will break up his white-dominated Central African Federation.

Critics are asking what Welensky hopes to achieve. They ask what he will do once he gets his "vote of confidence."

Welensky's call for the election of a new 44-seat federal Parliament was regarded by some as a hollow gesture on the ground it seeks to settle the future of this predominantly Negro region by the vote of a relatively small number of whites.

The 8,000,000 Negroes in the federation, which was formed eight years ago, outnumber the Europeans by about 26 to one. But the election will be held on the basis of an electoral roll which gives the whites a 10-to-one voting majority over the Negroes.

The April 27 election date is the earliest one legally possible —was announced in the official government gazette. Welensky forced the election with his resignation Thursday night and the dissolution of Parliament Friday.

The man who has criticized the election move at this time is Sir Edgar Whitehead, premier of the self-governing colony of Southern Rhodesia, of which Salisbury is the capital. With the British protectorates of Nyasaland and Northern Rhodesia it makes up the federation.

There were fears of a Welensky-Whitehead split which could divide their ruling United Federal party and move the federation closer to collapse.
