THE DAILY EXAMINER.

OCTOBER 27, 1893.

A CALL TO THE FAITHFUL.

The Halifax Herald publishes a circular letter, signed by Messrs. L. H. Davies, W. S. Fielding, H. R. Emerson and F. W. Borden, by which it is made evident that the Grit Party is as anxious as ever to "elevate the standard of morality" with "lots of cash." In this letter it is stated that Mr. Laurier and his followers, "realizing the importance and gravity of the campaign ahead of them, are strengthening their outposts, and putting their central organization on a fighting footing," and the question is asked, "Shall the Maritime Provinces do their duty in this matter?" The need of "a considerable sum" is expressed. Of course the requirements set forth in the letter are very modest. "Campaign Literature" is needed, and a "Travelling Secretary" "who would devote his whole time to the work of organization in the Maritime Provinces" is required. But these simple requirements would hardly warrant the issue of an elaborate circular letter begging for "generous subscriptions" "in proportion to your means." There is evidently a world of meaning in the words "incidental expenses," to meet which the "wealthy" are asked to "give what they can." It is another appeal to "come down handsomely"! The Herald remarks that "while in general the circular speaks in the plural, 'the checks or post office orders' are directed to be sent to a certain 'me at Charlottetown.' The meaning of this is that Mr. L. H. Davies calls for money with several mouths, but that he has only one pocket to put it in. The cry is multitudinous; but Mr. Davies' pocket is singular." This is a nice business, truly, for our immaculate would be Minister to be implicated in!

GRIT NONSENSE.

The Dominion Government have done wrong in that they have expended public money without the authorization of Parliament; but they are not doing so now; consequently, they are to be censured as "parsimonious," and the Provincial Government is to be applauded for expending public money (borrowed from the banks) without the authorization of the Legislature,—this is the sum and substance of the Patriot's argument in the matter of the Dominion and the Premier's Dashaway Policy. It is not necessary to demonstrate that a more nonsensical argument was never addressed to an intelligent community.

In passing, the Patriot insinuates that the Dominion Building is in danger of becoming a "wreck." This, also, is nonsense. In the thick walls of heavy buildings it necessarily takes a number of years for the mortar in the interior joints to thoroughly crystallize to the hardness of the mortar on the outside surfaces, and, consequently, until this hardening of the mortar inside takes place a slight settling of the jointing is continually going on for five or six years after construction. This is especially the case if the needs of the public require the erection of the building within a short period. In brick work, the settlement, owing to the smallness of the materials, is even and continuous, but when there are large stones in the wall, it is often observable. Of course such slight settlement is not a cause of danger to the structure. The Dominion Building is a large and heavy one and in the slight settling, which, as we have already explained, invariably happens after the rapid construction of a heavy building, some of the joints in the stonework slightly opened. The repair simply consisted in pointing such joints carefully with cement and straightening slight unevenesses of the surface. This has been, for the most part, effected. The fabric of the building is not and never was in the slightest danger of being "wrecked." Unless destroyed by fire or earthquake it will stand for ages; and with many other such buildings, erected in every part of Canada, it will in the future redound to the credit of the administration of Sir John Macdonald after its traducers shall have passed away and been forgotten.

But how about the old Provincial Building? When asking the Legislature to authorize the issue of debentures to the amount of a hundred and odd thousand dollars more than he then needed, the Premier stated, in effect, that the Provincial Building was in a very bad state of repair, and that he intended to apply a little balance of $10,000 in its restoration. But after nearly three years (with the exception of the color-washing of the walls of the Library, and possibly one or two of the offices), scarcely anything is, or is likely to be, done to remedy the dilapidated structure. The Premier prefers to put mud upon the roads.

The Dominion Government, careful as they are, "parsimonious" as the Patriot maintains that they are, have provided against the possible injury of the Dominion Building by frost. But the Provincial Government, whilst lavishing borrowed money, which taxpayers must repay, upon certain electors in the hope of obtaining their votes, have deliberately, and in violation of the Premier's promise, neglected the repairs of the Provincial Building.

A TALK WITH FARMERS.

The Hon. George E. Foster recently had a "talk with farmers" in Ontario. It is evident that he has fully informed himself concerning the situation as it affects the farmers. He set forth (1) that the Leader of the Opposition has not pointed out any plan by which the price of land, which he says has decreased, can be increased; (2) that in Great Britain, where they have free trade, farm lands have also depreciated; and it cannot be on account of the particular fiscal policy that they have depreciated here; (3) that owing to the opening up of the prairie lands of the West, the prices of wheat and other products have gone down, consequently it is not wonderful of the price of land is lower than it was; (4) that the prices of articles which the farmer is compelled to purchas have fallen to a greater extent than the prices of the articles which he has to sell; (5) that though the revenue of the Government has grown in recent years, the country has grown in much larger proportion; (6) that the farmers do not pay taxes in respect to articles which they eat and drink, or in respect to the coal and wood which they use as fuel, or in respect to the lumber with which they build their houses and barns; (7) that the taxes which the farmers do pay shall be revised and their interests promoted; (8) that it is a mistake to suppose that that which is good for the manufacturer is bad for the farmer, for the interests of both are identical; (9) that the recent increase of 38 per cent. in the populations of the towns of Canada means that there are 38 per cent. more people to be fed by the farmer. In this latter connection the Minister of Finance says:

"When one industry is prosperous the other is sure to be. I don't say we ought to take the manufacturer and put a high wall around him and so keep out competition and everything of that kind. I don't say we shall make them monopolists. I don't say we shall make them combinesters. I say this: Just so far as it is necessary to keep the industries of this country, which are germain and natural, and can be fairly sustained in this country, help them to be established, help them to de maintained, and help them to grow up in this country, it is to our interest to do it and to the interest of every farmer to do it, provided we can do it in a reasonable, fair-minded way; and beyond that I do not propose to go. I wish you to take this point into consideration. There is no feud between the industries on the one hand and the farmer's work on the other. We as a Government say to-day that we will do everything we can to help the farmer in his work of progress and development. (Cheers.) We also stand for the industrial life of the country, without which Canada can never hope to be great." (Loud cheers).

The points made by the Finance Minister, and the policy of the Government as outlined in the concluding paragraph, seem to be well worthy the thoughtful attention of all our farmers.

DEATH OF MR. TOMLINS.

We announce to-day the death of Mr. Alfred F. Tomlins, for twelve years an honest, faithful and hardworking official of this city. About four years ago his health broke down, and he has since then been confined to his home an invalid. He was born and bred in England and possessed many of the English virtues. We sympathise with Mrs. Tomlins and her young family.

WHAT GRASSES TO GROW.

The Department of Agriculture has just issued a valuable bulletin on "Grasses: Their Uses and Composition." Descriptions and analyses of ninety-two different species of grasses are given and also wood cuts of eight of the more interesting species. A large number of these grasses have been grown, and their hardiness and productiveness tested, on the Central Experimental Farm; and general remarks on the utility and management of grasses are given in the introduction to the report. The analyses corroborate the important statement that grasses are usually more valuable for fodder when cut in bloom, or before, than when cut after maturity. Early cut hay is what will lay flesh on an animal every time. It is also observable that many of our native grasses, while making interior hay when ripe, supply rich feed in their immature stages, thus affording valuable pasturage. The hardiness of these natives, as the June Grass, Spear Grass, Red Top, Foal Meadow Grass, Sheep Fescue and Tall Meadow Grass, makes them, in the situations for which they are variously adapted, exceedingly valuable for pasturage. Where timothy and red clover fail, these will often cover the ground with equally valuable herbage, if the soil is properly enriched. Our native June grass (poa pratensis) is the queen of pasturage plants if given a fair chance on a rich, dry soil; and nowhere is it more at home than on the well-tilled sandy loams of P. E. Island. This grass is generally refused a place in our meadows until the land is so impoverished that English grasses will not grow in it. This, we think, is wrong, as June grass well repays enrichment of the soil, and its thick growth of dark linear foliage affords a better and more enduring pasturage than timothy, and the grass would be improved by fresh seeding from the first. Red Top (agrostis vulgaris) grows abundantly on all our old meadows. When fully grown and matured the fine silky panicles of this grass make a dry inferior fodder, and it should not be allowed to run to head; for the thick mats of root leaves make very nutritious pasturage. We think a great mistake is made in not seeding down stubble with these rich native grasses in place of trusting to the slow process of their coming in naturally, where timothy and clover fail. As our dairying interest increases, more attention will be given to stocking pastures with suitable grasses; and we have to thank the Experimental Farm for this timely report of original investigation in this important field.

THE MARKETS.

The fine weather of the past fortnight has enabled farmers to harvest their potatoes. Those who wish to sell their produce this fall will now have time to attend to the markets. We regret that we cannot report an improved outlook. The demand for potatoes is dull and likely to continue so for this fall, at least. Even Newfoundland seems to have grown almost enough of the tubers to satisfy her local demand. There has, indeed, been a good crop of potatoes all along the eastern side of America. But advices from the West report a falling off there. It seems likely that the price of potatoes will be better in the spring, when the supply grown in the East shall have been exhausted, and the manufacturing interests in the States shall have recovered from their present prostration. The price of potatoes in Charlottetown continues at 18 to 20 cents per bushel. There is little doing at the out ports.

In respect to oats, there is no change to note. The price is still steady at 32 cents per bushel. Since our report of last week the Ralph B. Peake has arrived; and if a cargo of well cleaned oats can be quickly supplied, it seems probable that Messrs. Peake Bros. & Co., will load her with oats for the Mother Country; but if there be a likelihood of much delay, she will go elsewhere for a freight. The English quotation at present is 16s. 6d. to 17s. per quarter. Russian oats are pouring into the British market at a much lower figure, and will probably keep down the price of better oats. In Halifax, oats are quoted at 43 to 45 cents, and in Toronto at 34½ to 35½ cents.

Good pork is in short supply at 7 cents in Charlottetown. For poorer lots 6½ cents are offered. In Halifax the pork quotations are as follows:

Pork, American clear	$27 00
Pork, P E I Mess	23 50
Pork, P E I Thin Mess	21 00
Pork, P E I Prime Mess	18 00
Lard, tubs and pails, pure	14c
Lard, cases	15 to 16
Hams, Canadian	13 to 14
Roll Bacon	11½ to 12½

The Empire, of Toronto, reports: "There is a good demand for dressed hogs, and a good many are now being marketed. On the streets $8 to $8.15 (per cwt) is being paid for select weights and car and half car lots, delivered here, are taken at $8. Provisions remain steady and in fair demand Quotations are as follows: Mess pork, American, $20 to $20.50; short cut, $22; shoulder mess, $18 to $18.50; bacon, long clear new, per lb, 10½ to 11c; lard, Canadian, tierces, 12 to 12½c; tubs and pails, 12½ to 13c; in tins, from 3 to 10 lbs. 13 to 13½ cts; compound do, 9 to 9½c. Smoked meats—Hams per lb, 13c; bellies, 13½c; rolls, per lb, 10 to 10½c, backs, per lb, 10½c.

The demand for hay is firm at 65c to 70c per hundred; and eggs are in short supply at 15c per dozen for fresh-laid stock.

CHARLOTTETOWN,
October 26th.

My Dear Mary,—

You will think I have forgotten to write you, but have been waiting for some news to put in my letter. Even now the news is scarce. You remember your visit one year ago to Charlottetown. You called at that time at Messrs. Prowse Bros'. store. Well, now, they have gone in to the Carpet business, and are doing an immense business. This is confidential. I am going to be married, and James has bought all his Carpets and House Furnishings from them. He says he is glad they have gone into the business because it don't cost too much to go housekeeping, and I can't tell how happy I am. You be sure and tell your intended to call the first time he is in town and go up on Messrs. Prowse Bros'. elevator and see the grand show of Carpets, and if he won't want to get married this fall then I am mistaken.

Your loving friend,
ANNIE.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Canadian coal oil is now retailing in most of the country places in Ontario and Quebec at 10 to 15 cents per imperial gallon. PARIS, Oct. 25.—A notable performance was given last night at the opera in honor of the visiting Russians. The whole audience sang Russian and French anthems. The prisoners were greatly depressed and hoped to escape, as they did at the previous trial. The press comments agree that the sentences were inadequate.
