at, good United States. Pretty much everything outside of the U.S., with the occasional exception of Canada or Australia, is a hanted and evil territory.

The earlier books, especially, played up the stereotypical images of "foreigners," Blacks, and people of colour. They couldn't speak English, they weren't as intelligent, they held menial jobs, and Frank and Joe could be as condescending as they wished. But even in later works, racism is extremely evident.

In The Sting of The Scorpion (no. 58, published in 1979), the target is Indians and Pakistanis - not that the book makes any distinction.

Students roam around on their Religious Studies course where they were displaying their religious practices shopping in downtown Istanbul. The visit was cut short by a shortage of Persian rugs which was caused by the Libyan Right For Rug Freedom Movement bombing and then when the Bank of Lutonia foreclosed on the local Rent-a-Rug store. Hall Happenings

Greetings, Folks:

Marian would like to wish all readers a happy 1990, and remind them of what major sporting event is coming up in January (And it's not the Superbowl; that's another story). Yeah, you guessed it... Residence Life is putting on another one of their famed ski trips this Friday coming, the 19th, WEATHER PERMITTING!!! Even if you don't live in residence, come on out to Brookvale this Friday for a fun afternoon on the slopes, and get the weekend off to a good start.

The Marian Hall Pit Bulls are busy gearing up for another spell of hockey thus far in the New Year. Hoping to stem a 3-game winless streak that ended December for the Big Dogs, coach Don Won was expected to pull out the stops against the Goalies; the result was a decisive victory for the team.

In celebration of the victory, the two houses of Marian and Bernadine got together again for another one of their Truly Awesome House Parties, this one with a New Year's, 1960, theme. Residents rolled up the jeans, hauled on the bobbi-sox, and slicked back the hair to groove to the tunes spun by Slink (Thanks for staying awake!) and Terry. Stay tuned in the coming weeks for information on the next Truly Awesome House Party at the Marian Hall back lounge.

University Education

Ask about the Canadian Forces Regular Officer Training Plan for Men and Women.
