WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

Reports Are Discussed At Hunter River WI Meeting

HUNTER RIVER — Mrs. C. H. Seller entertained the members of the Hunter River Women's Institute when they held their January meeting recently.

The president, Mrs. C. V. Smith, chaired the meeting which opened in the usual manner.

Routine business was discussed and roll call was answered with each member quoting one of Canada's health rules. Over twenty members and one visitor attended the meeting.

Several committee conveners presented their reports and the committee convener who was responsible for packing "cheer" boxes at Christmas reported that thirty- four boxes were packed and delivered besides the usual treats for the school children. This year the institute members started the practise of remembering former members who have moved to other provinces or away from the district with greeting cards. The results of this new practise proved most gratifying as the social secretary, Mrs. Robert L. Smith, read several letters and cards from those former members expressing delight at being remembered. Other cards and letters were received from shut-ins and one letter was received from the Institute's penpal, Mrs. Helen Power of New Zealand.

It was decided to send the usual contribution to CARE.

After some discussion concerning the idea of producing a play for the drama festival, a committee was appointed to contact Mr. Eric MacGregor, president of the P.E.I. Drama Festival Association, about this matter.

Following the business meeting Mrs. C.H. Sellar, RN, as convener of health, gave a very interesting talk on Canada's health rules and on health in general. She explained in some detail the method of treating a sprain. Cod liver oil capsules were passed out to those interested.

The members discussed the accommodation of the teachers and students of Central Queen's Regional High School in various homes in the village in case of a storm. It was decided that in such an event homes would be made available for all those who were storm stayed. Plans were discussed in regard to the February meeting at which time the 50th anniversary of the Institute will be observed. It was decided to leave arrangements for any special celebration in the hands of a committee.

Members of the committee which is to arrange the programs for the coming year were asked to meet with the president in the near future to compile these programs.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Bagnall.

After the meeting was adjourned the hostess showed home movies on a recent trip made by herself, her husband and a party of friends.

Lunch was served by the hostess and the committee in charge and a social hour was enjoyed.

O'LEARY UCW

The January meeting of the Mrs. A.J. Matheson Auxiliary of O'Leary United Church Women was held recently in the Christian Education Centre.

The meeting opened with the members repeating The Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Freeman MacWilliams conducted the service for the installation of the officers. Roll call was answered by 16 members paying their dues. Mrs. Herbert Vacher, community friendship secretary, reported 23 treats, 2 flowers, 25 cards, 10 shut-in and 15 hospital visits during the month. Several thank-you notes were read for treats and cards received.

It was decided to knit squares for an afghan and also to make a quilt from good used cloth. Mrs. Louis Bernard reported for the social functions committee and Mrs. Don MacKenzie for the program committee.

Mrs. Herbert Vatcher will be the worship leader for the February meeting and Mrs. W. Turner will be in charge of the study. Mrs. Freeman MacWilliams will have the missionary prayer.

Lunch committee members for February are Mrs. L. Bernard, and Mrs. H. Vatcher.

Mrs. Bruce MacDougall reviewed the work of Miss Emily Maxwell who spent several years in India as a missionary. She retired last year and is now living in Sackville, N.B. The prayer for our missionaries was offered by Mrs. MacDougall.

Mrs. Louis Bernard conducted a very interesting study on Taiwan, an Island in the Pacific. Mrs. Harry Adams opened the worship service on the theme "One Lord, So Many Churches". The scripture was read by Mrs. Cecil Dennis and was taken from Ephesians. The worship service closed with the meditation, prayer and benediction.

Lunch was served by the committee in charge.

MARGATE UCW

The January meeting of the Margate UCW was held in the church vestry on Wednesday evening, January 2.

The meeting opened with a dedication service when Mrs. Edward Ginter installed the officers for 1963.

With the president, Mrs. Heath Mayhew in the chair, the purpose was repeated in unison. Roll call was answered by 20 members with a scripture verse containing the word "pure."

Mrs. Reg Dennis was made organist of the group for 1963. The 1962 treasurer, Mrs. Chester Howard, gave her annual report. Receipts $670.35, expenses $517.12 on hand, $153.23.

The community friendship secretary, Mrs. Bruce Clark, reported 25 home calls, 15 hospital calls, 19 cards and ten treats for the month. A letter was read to the group from the programe and literature secretary, Mrs. Wilfred Pickering, who was unable to attend, regarding the programmes for the coming year.

Mrs. Andrew Johnson invited the members to her home for the February meeting.

Mrs. Heath Mayhew led the group from the study book "The Word and the Way" chapter one. "God and His Purpose" and chapter two. "The Love of God". Questions were asked on each topic and discussions followed.

The Lord's Prayer closed the meeting.

SOURIS WEST WI

The Souris West Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. James Kickham on January 8 for their regular monthly meeting. Roll call was answered by 12 members and one guest attended the meeting.

The president, Mrs. Frank Deagle, called the meeting to order with the ode and collect. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted by the secretary, Mrs. James Kickham. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Lilo Marold and showed a substantial balance on hand. Mrs. Thomas Flynn reported for the school committee.

The correspondence was read and it included a thank-you card from the teacher, Mrs. Irene Howlett and a Christmas card from a former member, Mrs. Henry Gallant.

An enjoyable talk on handicraft was given by Mrs. Lilo Marold. The members decided to write a letter to the provincial department of highways asking for school zone signs for the district. It was decided to hold a bingo in the school on January 11.

Mrs. Bert Mullaly invited the members to her home for the February meeting.

An enjoyable social hour followed during which lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Frances Kickham.

BUILD SCHOOL

OTTAWA (CP) — Construction of the first stage of a school of engineering building at Carleton University will begin immediately, President Davidson Dunton announced Friday. The work is scheduled for completion in May, 1964

HAPPENINGS

Mrs. Malcolm MacDonald was elected president of the largely attended annual meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary Royal Canadian Legion, held at the Clover Club on Thursday night, January 17, 1962.

The retiring president, Mrs. D. K. MacLeod, conducted the business meeting during which time the minutes of the last general and annual meetings were read by the secretary, and the treasurers report submitted by Mrs. J. T. Davies.

The following names were proposed for membership and accepted: Mrs. John Austin, Mrs. Emmett Coyle and Mrs. Louis Ward. Mrs. MacLeod initiated the following ladies: Mrs. Harold Stead, Mrs. Glen Cotton and Miss Evelyn Ross. The excellent reports given by the various committees indicated the year had been a most successful one.

Nominations then took place with the following slate being brought in for the ensuing year: patroness, Mrs. F. W. Hyndman; honorary president, Mrs. W. H. Tidmarsh; past president, Mrs. D. K. MacLeod; president, Mrs. Malcolm MacDonald; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Jean MacLean; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Harold Drew; secretary, Mrs. Vince King; treasurer, Mrs. R. M. Cummings; executive: Mrs. Sutherland MacLean, Mrs. Earl Mill, Mrs. Ira Brown, Mrs. Arthur Coffin, Mrs. Margaret Trainor, Mrs. Fred Gates, Mrs. Joseph Foley and Mrs. Vernon Larter.

A vote of thanks was extended to the outgoing executive by Mrs. Ira Brown.

The meeting was then turned over to the new president who conducted the closing ceremony following which the auxiliary members were guests of the branch executive at a social hour.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Harold Drew, Mrs. James Coles, Mrs. Leo Duffy, Mrs. R. M. Cummings, Mrs. Vince Doiron and Miss Helen MacDonald.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Paynter entertained at their home at Clinton on Monday evening, January 14 when sixteen tables of progressive auction were in play. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Justin Woodside, Clinton, for ladies high, and to Mr. Johnny Picketts, Kelvin Grove for men's high, while consolation awards went to Miss Vivian Woodside, Clinton, for the ladies, and to Mr. Arnold Walker, Kelvin Grove for the men. The party was sponsored by the Clinton Women's Institute, and proceeds were in aid of the school. Refreshments were served.

Mr. Hugh Frizzell returned to his home at Clinton on Monday from the Prince County Hospital, Summerside, where he had been a patient for the past few days.

Mrs. James A. Campbell has returned to her home at Kensington after spending the past few months at Ottawa.

In Wednesday's report of the Highfield UCW the names of Mrs. W. C. Ranahan, president, and Mrs. Roland Sellick, vice president, were inadvertently omitted.

Mr. Dan Campbell has returned to his home in North Rustico from the Prince Edward Island Hospital, where he has been a patient for the past several weeks.

Misses Carol Morley and Margaret Paquet, Parkdale, were among the Prince of Wales College students attending basketball games in Truro and Halifax over the weekend.

William J. Aylward, Carleton, is a patient in the Charlottetown Hospital.

MARY HAWORTH

Wife Of Alcoholic Wants To End Her Unhappiness

Dear Mary Haworth: After a sleepless night, one of many, I am writing to ask what does one do about an alcoholic, unfaithful husband.

We have been married nearly 30 years and have four children, one still at home. My husband is a salesman who travels and drinks a lot, which sets the stage for his infidelities, I think. This has been going on for 21 years that I know of and maybe longer.

Last night I tried to reach him until about 4 a.m., then tried again at 7:30 and he was there; he said he had been there all the time. He lies, too, you see.

At first it seemed worthwhile to stick it out for the children's sake, but now I am wondering. I am not yet 50 and am fairly intelligent, though I have no trade.

I've had pastoral guidance, marriage counseling and psychiatric care. I've had two nervous breakdowns and was hospitalized. The pastor, the counselor and a lawyer have said that the situation will destroy me eventually.

When home, he is a fairly good father and reasonably good husband, helping with odd jobs, etc., and seems content to be here. He is too old to change jobs.

Today I am ready to see a lawyer, but am going to sit tight until I hear from you. Surely there must be some solution. At my age should I accept hell on earth for the rest of my days?— P.T.

Dear P.T.: Granted that your husband is alcoholic and unfaithful when on the road, a character disability that you've been aware of for 21 years, why become hysterical at this late date about new circumstantial evidence to that effect?

It appears to me that you are as much a victim of your sick imaginings about his hidden misbehavior as you are validly distressed by his defections.

For example, you write to me in a flash mood of anger and despair, the morning after a sleepless night of trying to catch him out, as it were, by telephone, on the theory that he was being unfaithful again, as usual, when he didn't answer the earlier rings.

Much of your anguish has to do with deceiving yourself about your motives and intentions, I think.

While sticking like a barnacle to the situation that you prophesy is destroying you, you also suffer a savagely accusatory feeling that "he shouldn't do this to me." Of course he shouldn't; and of course he wouldn't if he were morally competent or psychologically sound. But the fact is, he isn't enough of a man in these terms to be an adequate family head.

So why don't you simply digest that unhappy fact and deal with it straightforwardly. Make up your mind, once and for all, that either you are going to vote yourself out of the alliance to protect your health or you are going to hang on "for better or worse," because in the showdown you prefer the known headache of his infidelity to the unknown hazards of trying to live "on your own."

Your willingness and ability to "fish or cut bait" in that fashion affords the measure of your personality health. Conversely, your unreadiness to do anything about it— except have angry, reproachful, panicky breakdowns — rather disqualifies you to beat him over the head, figuratively, for his weakness.

According to your testimony your pastor, counselor and lawyer are agreed that you have serious justification for constructive separation. So go ahead; act on your rights in that respect. Or come to grips with the fact that you aren't going to act. In which case, stop trying to be his moral policeman either in your overheated imagination or over the telephone. Take him at face value at home and practice "out of sight, out of mind," when he's on the road.— M.H.

ELLEN'S DIARY

The Moon On Silver Throne Looks Upon White Fields

Night, we have now. And the stars: Worlds: far mysterious neighbours, held each to its course. As too is the Lady Moon, seated on her silver-blue throne. She too looks down on the winter-fields and woodlands now. Sees, we fancy a rabbit withdraw into some wood's haven at the sound of an owl's call; whispers a warning to some wily reynard-of-fox at wood's edge, bent on a prowl.

"Better watch out along tonight's meadows" she will warn him. "For, after all, life is not as has been said 'One grand sweet song.' Lads seek your mask. There's a price on your head'."

"Gage gets 'em" Mack reported this evening. "And isn't it one good riddance!" he said.

"What I'd like to know is whether or not it's the mother-rabbit we have in the hutch?" Alex wondered this morniing. He was at a window, watching the sleek-haired white animal emerge from its chosen retreat under the poultry-house and come lipperty-lip to the nearby hutch where the angora-clad mate dwells, at present, alone. "We'll soon be getting that one in" he nodded. "It eats now from Mother's hand. Grab! And it will be back again with the other. . . Wasn't it too bad the little ones died?"

"It was" we agreed. "But there'll be others."

We were dusting the mantel behind the stove at the time— there where the old tea-cannister and the quaint coffee-mill sit, spending off the years. We dusted, and wondered whimsically, though happily, just how many times this would be that we had cleaned this same shelf? Thousands. we knew. "In the thirty years of my married life" a more statistically- minded housewife has noted "I have served 255425 meals, made 33190 loaves of bread, 5930 cakes, 7960 pies. I have canned 1550 quarts of fruit, raised 7660 chickens, churned 5540 pounds of butter, put in 36461 hours, sweeping, washing, scrubbing. I estimate the worth of my labor conservatively at $115,485.50, none of which I have ever collected. But I still love my husband and children, and wouldn't mind starting all over again for them!"

"Come quick!" Alex begged coming in this afternoon obviously excited. "There's a little white bunny in the yard, and we want to catch it!"

So cute these youunglings are. Particularly pleasing too, to Alex, is the fact that three more pairs of alert rabbits' ears have been counted in that hideout beneath the poultry- house since then!

"I can't understand it at all", he said to Mack later. "The first babies all died!"

"Silly!" Mack grinned. "It's simple! The sleek-haired rabbit is the mother. And this is her second family."

"So it's no wonder the first family died. They were shut in with the father. And with the mother gone — escaped from the hutch, there was no baby-food! It's good these came," he smiled.

James sighed.

"And there'll be more", he offered.

But there is little more left now of this day, interesting one for us, that it was.

Until tomorrow — Diary — Goodnight. . . . .

Park Royal UCW Executive Installed In Office At Service

The service of installation and dedication of officers of the Park Royal United Church Women was conducted by Rev. J. H. Tye at a regular Sunday evening service.

The following officers were installed: Honorary president, Mrs. W. P. MacLeod; president, Louise Johnston; first vice - president, Eleanor Cook; second vice-president, Anne Ayers; third vice - president, Arlene Campbell; recording secretary, Anne MacLeod; corresponding secretary, Hilda Stewart; treasurer. Joyce MacGill.

Chairman of standing committees are: Christian citizenship and social action, Mrs. J. H. Tye; community friendship and visiting, Murril Jenkins; co-operation in C.E. and missionary education, Gwen Taylor; finance, Lorna Darrach; flowers, Dorothy Crawford; literature and communications, Edna Seaman; manse, Arlene Campbell; membership, Anne MacLeod; press and publicity, Edith Robinson; social functions, Eleanor Davies; nominations, Helen Dalziel; stewardship and recruiting, Marjorie Read; supply and social assistance, Jean MacKay; program, Martha Johnston; representative to board of stewards and official board, Louise Johnston; representative to Christian education committee, Gwen Taylor and Jean Roberts; representative to missionary and maintenance, Lorna Darrach and Joyce MacGill.

The unit leaders are: Katie Moore; Avis Cummings; Rieta Higginbotham; Martha Johnston; Reta Chowan; Eleanor Cook; Sylvia Church; Edith Coffin; Ruth Mutch; Marjorie Younker; Reta MacLeod; Edith Davies; Joan Dingle; Pansy Wood.

The minister, in addressing the elected officers proceeding the installation, congratulated them on being so honored. He pointed out however, it was an honor that was retained by the way in which they each one would fill their office during the year ahead. To continue worthy of the present honor, he stressed, they must do three things: first, they must give themselves a chance to do their best by making sufficient time for their duties and carefully and prayerfully planning how they would with God's help, carry them out. Secondly, they must give the office a chance by carefully understanding its particular duties and coming to see their importance in the work of the congregation. No office is ever created just to give someone something to do. But each office has its place in the purpose of the organization as a whole. Thus each office-holder must see afresh and believe completely in the work and witness of the whole organization. Thus to fulfill the humblest office to the best of one's ability is to come to grips with the very purpose of the Church itself. In this light, he continued, their work becomes their ministry. Thirdly, they must give God a chance to use their office for His purposes and His glory. He challenged them to begin and carry out their duties in a prayerful spirit.

The minister concluded expressing the prayer that the organization in 1963 might enjoy their greatest year as they serve God and Church in this vital way.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Dawson Celebrate 40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Dawson were pleasantly surprised recently when they were guests of honor at a surprise party honoring them on their 40th wedding anniversary. The gathering was held at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones and it was attended by members of their family.

Also attending was the bridesmaid of 40 years ago, Mrs. Gordon MacDonald of Crapaud and Mr. MacDonald; Mrs. Dawson's brother, Mr. Frank Cobb and Mrs. Cobb of Kingston and Mrs. P. S. Cobb of Charlottetown. Thirteen of the couple's fourteen grandchildren were on hand to honor their grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson were presented with corsages. The attractively arranged dinner table was centered with a three-tier anniversary cake, which was cut in the traditional manner. A turkey dinner was served by the hostess assisted by some of the ladies.

The couple were presented with a coffee table by their family, Evelyn, Mrs. John MacLeod, Vernon River and Mr. MacLeod; Frances, Mrs. Charles Jones, Pownal, and Mr. Jones; Sandy and his wife, Phyllis, Uigg and Bea, Mrs. Collins of Bunbury.

Lorne MacLeod, the couple's eldest grandson and Gail Dawson, their youngest granddaughter, presented them with ruby set jewellery in keeping with their 40th anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Dawson also received a number of other gifts.

A pleasant social evening was spent, and during the evening Phyllis and Dianne Jones sang several selections.

CANINE EXPORTS

Britain annually exports some 5,000 pedigree dogs—almost half to the United States.

Lionettes Plan Valentine Tea

KENSINGTON — The January meeting of the Kensington Lionettes was held at the home of Jean Moore on Thursday evening with thirteen members present. The president, Ida Peppin presided.

The members decided to hold a quilting bee at the home of the president on Tuesday, January 22. Plans were made for the annual Valentine tea to be held at Svend's Inn on February 13. Proceeds from the tea will be used to aid the boys' and girls' hockey teams.

A "white elephant sale" with Georgie MacLeod as the capable auctioneer, was held.

Next meeting will be held at the home of Thelma Ramsay.

Lunch was served by Nora McCarville, Winnie Dunning and Wanda MacMurdo.

Saint Charles Auxiliary Elects New Officers

Mrs. John McIsaac was elected president of the Saint Charles Auxiliary of the Charlottetown Hospital at its annual meeting on January 13, 1963.

Right Reverend Patrick McMahon, chaplain, was present at the meeting and presided at the election of officers. Mrs. Joseph Costello was elected vice-president, Mrs. Frank Campbell, secretary, and Mrs. Henry Doiron, treasurer. The chaplain congratulated the members on their achievements and asked their continued support of the hospital.

Sister Mary David, administrator, thanked the retiring officers and welcomed the new executive. Commenting on the vital need to keep hospitals community - centered, Sister appealed to the members to exert their influence to swerve public opinion from the erroneous concept of the hospital as a totally tax supported public service.

A review of the work for the past year showed a substantial bank balance. After some discussion, it was decided that the auxiliary's special 1963 project will be re-decorating the children's department.
