CHAPTER V.

'Better not, better not, Joshua. Let evil words die as soon as they're spoken. Will Maskery might be a great deal worse fellow than he is. He used to be a wild, drunken rascal, neglecting his work and beating his wife, they told me; now he's thrifty and decent, and he and his wife look comfortable together. If you can bring me any proof that he interferes with his neighbors, and creates any disturbance, I shall think it my duty as a clergyman and a magistrate to interfere. But it wouldn't become wise people, like you and me, to be making a fuss about trifles, as if we thought the Church was in danger because Will Maskery lets his tongue wag rather foolishly, or a young woman talks in a serious way to a handful of people on the Green. We must 'live and let live,' Joshua, in religion as well as in other things. You go on doing your duty, as parish clerk and sexton, as well as you've always done it, and making those capital thick boots for your neighbors, and things won't go far wrong in Hayslope, depend upon it.'

'Your reverence is very good to say so; an' I'm sensible as, you not living i' the parish, there's more upo' my shoulders.'

'To be sure; and you must mind and not lower the Church in people's eyes by seeming to be frightened about it for a little thing, Joshua. I shall trust to your good sense, now, to take no notice of what Will Maskery says, either about you or me. You and your neighbors can go on taking your pot of beer soberly, when you've done your day's work, like good churchmen; and if Will Maskerry doesn't like to join you, but to go to a prayer meeting at Treddleston instead, let him; that's no business of yours, so long as he doesn't hinder you from doing what you like. And as to people saying a few idle words about us, we must not mind that, any more than the old church steeple minds the rooks cawing about it. Will Maskery comes to church every Sunday afternoon, and does his wheelwright's business steadily in the week days, and as long as he does that he must be let alone.'

'Ah! sir, but when he comes to church, he sits an' shakes his head, an' looks as sour an' as coxy when we're a-singin', as I should like to fetch him a rap across the jowl—God forgi'e me—an' Mrs. Irwine, an' your reverence, too, for spakin' so afore you. An' he said as our Christmas singin' was no better nor the cracklin' o' thorns under a pot.'

'Well, he's got a bad ear for music, Joshua. When people have wooden heads, you know, it can't be helped. He won't bring the other people in Hayslope round to his opinion while you go on singing as you do.'

'Yes, sir; but it turns a man's stomach t' hear the Scripture misused i' that way. I know as much o' the words o' the Bible as he does, an' could say the Psalms right through i' my sleep if you was to pinch me; but I know better nor to take 'em to say my own say wi'. I might as well take the Sacriment-cup home and use it at my meals.'

'That's a very sensible remark of yours, Joshua; but, as I said before—'

While Mr. Irwine was speaking, the sound of a booted step and the clink of a spur were heard on the stone floor of the entrance-hall, and Joshua Rann moved hastily aside from the doorway to make room for some one who paused there, and said, in a ringing tenor voice,

'Godson Arthur; may he come in?'

'Come in, come in, godson!' Mrs. Irwine answered, in the deep half-masculine tone which belongs to the vigorous old woman, and there entered a young gentleman in a riding-dress, with his right arm in a sling; whereupon followed that pleasant confusion of laughing interjections, and hand-shakings, and 'How are you's?' mingled with joyous short barks and wagging of tails on the part of the canine members of the family, which tells that the visitor is on the best of terms with the visited. The young gentleman was Arthur Donnithorne, known in Hayslope, variously, as 'the young squire,' 'the heir,' and 'the captain.' He was only a captain in the Loamshire Militia; but to the Hayslope tenants he was more intensely a captain than all the young gentlemen of the same rank in his Majesty's regulars; he outshone them as the planet Jupiter outshines the Milky Way. If you want to know more particularly how he looked, call to your remembrance some tawny-whiskered, brown-locked, clear-complexioned young Englishman whom you have met with in a foreign town, and been proud of as a fellow-countryman—well-washed, high-bred, white-handed, yet looking as if he could deliver well from the left shoulder, and floor his man; I will not be so much of a tailor as to trouble your imagination with the difference of costume, and insist on the striped waistcoat, long-tailed coat, and low top-boots.

Turning round to take a chair. Captain Donnithorne said, "but don't let me interrupt Joshua's business—he has something to say.'

'Humbly begging your honor's pardon,' said Joshua, bending low, 'there was one thing I had to say to his reverence as other things had drove out of my head.'

'Out with it, Joshua, quickly?' said Mr. Irwine.

'Belike sir, you havena heard as Thias Bede's dead—drowned this morning, or more like over night i' the Willow Brook, again' the bridge right i' front o' the house.'

'Ah!' exclaimed both the gentleman at once, as if they were a good deal interested in the information.

'An' Seth Bede's been to me this morning to say he wished me to tell your reverence as his brother Adam begged of you particular t' allow his father's grave to be dug by the White Thorn, because his mother's set her heart on it. on account of a dream as she had; an' they'd ha' come theirselves to ask you, but they've so much to see after with the crowner an' that; an' their mother's took on so, and wants 'em to make sure o' the spot for fear somebody else should take it. An' if your reverence sees well and good, I'll send my boy to tell 'em as soon's I get home; an' that's why I make bold to trouble you wi' it, his honor being present.'

'To be sure, Joshua, to be sure, they shall have it. I'll ride round to Adam myself, and see him. Send your boy, however, to say that they shall have the grave, lest anything should happen to detain me. And now, good morning, Joshua; go into the kitchen and have some ale.'

A despatch of the 25th inst., from Massowah to the Republique Francaise describes the district which the English Admiral Hewitt ceded to King John of Abyssinia as a scene of pillage, fire and massacre. The tribes throughout Bagos province have revolted and destroyed the tobacco plantations owned by merchants of Massowah and have plundered the caravans coming to Kerew. Foreign traders in Massowah have been ruined and are uniting in petition to their respective governments to insist upon their indemnification by the English government.
