
CITY SOLDIER VISITS INSTALLATIONS

Fifty-two student officers of the Canadian Army Staff College, Kingston, Ont., recently toured armour, air defence and aviation centres in the United States to study developments in armour and guided missiles and new trends in aid and ground mobility in warfare as developed by the US Army. Examining a small missile known as the Lark are from left to right Lt-Col. William Saul of Winnipeg, Man., Lt.-Col. William Seamark of Orillia, Ont., Lt.-Col. John Beer of Charlottetown, P.E.I., and Lt.-Col. Charles Viner, a British Army exchange officer. All are members of the dierecting staff of the college. (National Defence Photo)

Tree Problem Faces City, Says Electric Co. Report

The City of Charlottetown is faced with a large tree problem, according to a report submitted to the tree committee of the City Council by Allister D. Cameron, manager of the Maritime Electric.

The report outlines the threats to the existence of the trees on the streets and highways in the city and country: wider and safer streets, demand for and dependence on electric power, adequate street lighting, obstructing water and sewer mains, and disease.

Where trees interfere with any of the basic services or are diseased, and where their removal is advisable, it is proposed to plant smaller and more decorative trees, which would in large measure eliminate all of the present problems.

PRACTICAL VALUES

Over and above the practical values to be gained by planned plantings of tailored trees along streets and highways, the report states, is the attractive prospect of beauty unlimited. Parkways could have wide spreading trees, drab areas, highly coloured trees, narrow streets-tall slender trees, narrow sidewalks and low wires, small species of trees.

The report also recommends that street trees might be planted inside the sidewalk, thus protecting them from traffic damage and sewer construction. A combination might be effected by planting taller trees inside the sidewalk and shorter trees on the parking strip.

At the present time, it is maintained, there are nearly 200 trees which could interfere with the responsible function of the electric supply system, and the company submits that it will be necessary to carry out tree trimming this year.

In its proposal to the City Council, the company said that if the city will consent to the removal of the trees offering a hazard, the company will replace each one with a young tree of a suitable variety.

Winsloe H & S Meeting Held

On Tuesday evening November 25th. Winsloe Home and School Association assembled for their regular meeting. The president Mrs. Gil Henry presided.

Mrs. Wilson Ross, supervisor of schools gave a very interesting and informative address on the specific aims and objectives of H and S. He very capable outlined the purpose of such organizations and intimated that the program is a vital factor in such groups, and raising of money a minor concern.

Buzz groups were formed and a few pertinent questions were discussed which proved very beneficial to all who participated.

The majority of parents present were from Mrs. Coles' classroom, and won the attendance prize which was donated by Gil Henry. Five new members were welcomed.

The next meeting is to be held on the last Tuesday in January and the association would like to have all parents and those interested present.

Refreshments were served by the social committee.

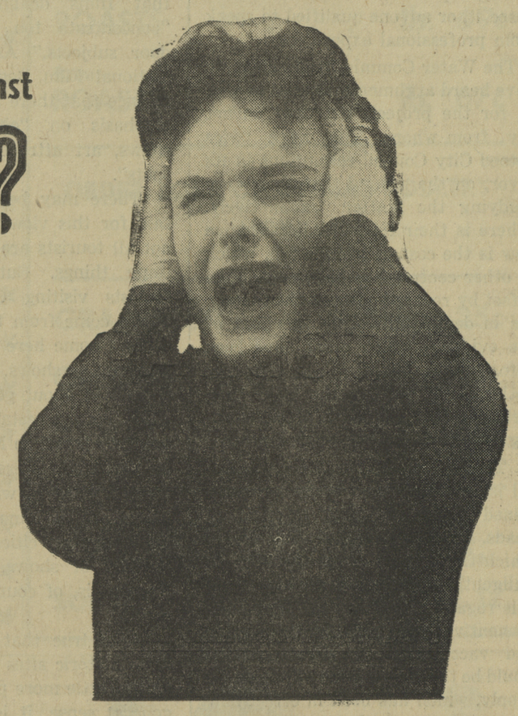
TENSION?



Do you ever punch pillows, go out and splurge on the town, indulge in violent exercise "just because you feel like it"? Then you probably have adapted to the stress in your life. On the other hand, has automation and TV made your life a little too easy? Whether you are understressed or overstressed can do your mind and body more serious damage than you think, according to a world-famous pioneer in medicine of the mind, Dr. Hans Selye of Montreal.

Arctic Madness

No, we're not referring to explorers of the Great North but a dangerous epidemic of rabies, which is spreading like a forest fire into areas of Canada where it has never been known before. Foxes are the culprits—valuable farm animals and the occasional human, the victims. Read Weekend Magazine to find out how this fatal disease is being challenged.

Drive-in Trade-in

Who said drive-in theatres can't function before dark? A profitable daytime business is thriving in one enterprising California drive-in, which is transformed into a swap-shop while the sun shines. Anything can be exchanged here — from parcels of land to wedding vows.

Money Is No Boon to Mrs. Pat Boone

"I was happiest on $44.50 a week," says Shirley Boone, who is not impressed with the booming Boone success. Would you object if your husband earned a million dollars a year? Find out in a special Weekend photofeature why success has gone to Mrs. Boone's pretty head—to pose a real problem there.

WANTED!!

The RCMP has just issued a list of Canada's five most-wanted but least-desirable men. After reading about their notorious records in Weekend Magazine, you'll know why Weekend Staff Writer Stanley Handman's last word on the topic is, "If you run into any of these characters, don't stop to argue with them. Just call the police!"

Helping hand for the HANDICAPPED

Disabled people usually make good workers—because of their intense will to win. But the word "handicap" means literally that in many cases—a real drawback. A Weekend photofeature tells about a government service that probably has one of the most difficult selling jobs in Canada—because it sells people. Their personal stories will win your admiration and interest.

CHRISTMAS is for mothers too!

Mothers are usually so busy making Christmas tummies merry that they never have time to relax. Helen Gougeon offers a wonderful tranquilizer—perfect planning. Ever tried putting chestnuts in your goose stuffing, making mincemeat sauce for ice cream, roasting your turkey in foil, or serving a light tossed side salad of greens and grapes? The results of these and many more recipes will help make this Christmas the best ever.

Andy O'Brien

Are you a "guk"? (Translation in the coming issue of Weekend Magazine.) If you are—and don't be too sure you're not—(especially if you're middle-aged and like to take things easy) then "Operation Overload" is Dr. Cureton's cure-all for you.
