Russia Announces End Of Dog-Carrying Sputnik 11

By HAROLD K. MILKS
MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced Monday night the dog-carrying Sputnik 11 has broken up and burned out on a trail that led across Brazil.

An official Tass statement at 11:05 p.m. confirmed reports of foreign observers that Sputnik 11, which had whirled around the globe more than five months, came to its end as it dropped into denser layers of the earth's atmosphere this morning.

(The only earth satellites now circling the world are American. These are Explorer I, launched Jan. 31; Vanguard I and its last-stage rocket launched March 17; and Explorer III, launched March 26).

The announcement said Soviet scientists still are studying material from Sputnik 11, including valuable information on the density of the upper atmosphere, cosmic rays and radio waves.

The Tass statement said "The second Soviet artificial earth satellite, which was launched into its orbit on Nov. 3, 1957, entered the atmosphere of the atmosphere this morning, broke up and terminate its existence."

Taken in the raid were an electric clock, movie camera, radio, leather suitcase, four pounds of butter and several items of clothing. Police officers arrested the accused on Saturday afternoon after some of the stolen goods were found in a shed on his property on Duke Street in Summerside.

SPORT ECHOES

BY NORMAN MACDONALD

We regretted very much that, due to a last minute eventuality, we were unable to attend the Summerside Legion cribbage banquet on Wednesday night. We remembered the good time we had at last year's banquet and were looking forward to attending this one. Anyway we are grateful to Alyre Arsenault and his committee for the invitation, for certainly we hadn't given their tournament any attention.

Cribbage can hardly be classed a spectator sport. Onlookers do not get breathless watching the boys and girls pegging their

O'Leary Man Is Sentenced
Julian Leroy Arsenault, a resident of O'Leary appeared before Judge W. E. Darby in Magistrate's Court, Summerside yesterday morning on a charge of theft and was sentenced to two years in Dorchester Penitentiary.

The accused was charged with stealing approximately $1400 from the garage of E. W. Turner, O'Leary.

The money, most of which was recovered by the Alberton Detachment of the R.M.C.P., was stolen by cutting a hole in the rear of the garage safe with an acetylene torch. Arsenault was in the employ of the Turner Garage at that time.

A resident of Borden, charged with theft from a store in Borden pleaded not guilty and was remanded until April 2nd. He pleaded guilty to a second charge of breaking windows in a Borden residence and was fined $50 and costs and ordered to pay compensation for damages amounting to $40 or serve 60 days in jail.

The preliminary hearing of a Tignish resident charged with theft from the Tignish Co-op also began yesterday morning. He had earlier elected trial in Supreme Court.

drains down the center of each leg of the 'L', is a twenty year-old building products roof (paper layers, pitch and gravel). In the roof construction are ten (10) steel I-beams, one placed over the center of each classroom.

GROUNDS LANDSCAPED
The outside walls are diagonally boarded and are covered with grey asbestos shingles. The grounds surrounding the school have been graded and landscaped. Paramount in the construction of the building was the purchase of the potato warehouse on the Georgetown Railway.

What was the greater part of the construction time, Mr. H. Stewart was placed on the job to assist the foreman in carrying out the building committee's plans. Local labour was utilized almost exclusively. Practically all of the materials, fixtures and furnishings which were used in the building were purchased wholesale. This policy resulted in the saving of a very considerable amount in construction costs. The number of teachers presently on the staff is eight and the number of pupils enrolled is between 240 and 250.

Listed below are the costs of the main items of material, labour and furnishings which no doubt will be of interest to many. Not listed are various miscellaneous items used in general construction such as: iron, nails, spikes, paint, bricks, roof ventilator, and roof flashing. Septic tank and sewage line $2544.59; heating (contract) $9200.00; fluorescent and plain light fixtures $1138.04; cement $1386.00; wiring $1762.94; bells $143.75; plumbing and well $2881.25; fire hose and fire extinguishers $231.00; plaster and allied materials $1084.46; varnish, shellac $295.54; window frames and windows (glazed) $3017.25; main entrance door and frame $244.00; floor tiles $3060.92; ceiling tiles $1049.60; insulation materials $935.00; steel girders and truckage $1397.89; bank interest and service charges $1123.27; workmen's compensation $690.00; insurance premiums (construction insurance) $594.96; interior doors and end corridor doors, window stools and finish materials, $2126.48; surveying $163.84; labour and unemployment insurance $20,014.05; Douglas Fir waterproofing and underlayment $248.75; asbestos shingles, paper, and bonded roof $2655.71; bulldozing and landscaping $571.00; lumber $1925.00; shed purchase price $1,001.00; hardware for doors $373.75; chair-desks, teachers desks and chairs, $2821.67; blackboard material $532.80; roof drains $1031.00.

We still have the Sum-Hi basketballers and they are expected to play an exhibition game with Amherst High on Friday evening at Civic Auditorium and then engage Prince of Wales second team in a series for the interscholastic championship start in Charlottetown probably Saturday evening. When this series is over, we shall have to start looking forward to the baseball and softball seasons.

Lively Meeting Last Night Of Summerside Town Council

A quiet routine council meeting flared into a heated verbal free-for-all at Summerside last night when Councillor Leo Wood defied the ruling of Mayor W. A. Currie that he resume his seat, and instead continued his critical comments which extended to the Mayor to the Chief of Police, and from the supervisor of the Summerside High School, Clarence Mercer, to a janitor at the Civic Auditorium, whose name was not stated.

The row flared up when Councillor Wood was asked to make his report as chairman of the Street Committee. After stating that they were trying to work out a plan for completing the paving of Harvard Street, Councillor Wood said he thought there was to be another resolution about the firemen at the meeting, but didn't see it.

He said also, "I asked Mr. Brophy (the town manager) this afternoon to put one in for the plow drivers to get their extra pay for the time they were fighting snow. But I see it's gone with the wind like everything else. A poor labor man who has to work 48 hours without a shift to get a few extra dollars, I don't think it's right. The same thing applies to the firemen. They expect the firemen to be slaves to the town. I have asked that now for three meetings and nothing has been done."

CARRIED SPACE DOG
The satellite carried the first living creature ever to fly into space, the dog Laika. The dog died after a week of space flight.

Tass said available data indicated some of the satellite's parts "were dispersed along a route running in a southeasterly direction over the small Antilles islands, Brazil and the Atlantic Ocean." It gave no specific word for the satellite's finish.

Scientists in both the East and West had predicted Sputnik II would plunge to its fiery end during the weekend.

(Observers at Cambridge, Mass., said the satellite apparently fell apart over the West Indies. They said a single sighting from Denver, Colo., indicated the heavy rocket motor of the man-made moon might have made one more lap around the earth).

Numerous watchers in the West Indies reported they saw a flaming object overhead about 8:55 p.m. EST Sunday.

Leaving the police station, Councillor Wood directed his thoughts to the auditorium where he referred to "a little do" that had taken place.

He said, "Mr. Mercer started telling us what we should do with the auditorium. I think that as long as I am on the property committee, if I hear anything more from Mr. Mercer it will be just too bad for him. He is not running this town, far from it. And when he starts throwing his car in, boy, he is going to find he's got real trouble on his hands," said Councillor Wood.

Directing his remarks in reference to the unnamed caretaker, Councillor Wood said, "there's a janitor up there, I think he's fooling us fellows. He's sick all the time. One fellow has to carry his load, and now he has been carrying it for a year. I think we should look into that. It is through him that is the cause of this whole rumpus."

MAYOR EXPLAINS
Mayor Currie remarked that he would like to correct councillor Wood on two points. The Mayor said, "the money due the firemen was passed last week and if it hasn't been paid it's about to be paid."

Mayor Currie continued, "in regard to Mr. Mercer — he had absolutely nothing to do with calling up. It was I (said Mayor Currie) who asked the council to go up there and see it, and furthermore the auditorium is not for the use of the whole county. It's for the use of the citizens of the town."

Councillor Wood: "I beg your pardon, Mr. Mayor, it's a civic auditorium, Mr. Mercer stopped them from working. You can't change that, nor anyone else. I know the men that went up — the man who came to me — Joe Clark, and I would believe Joe Clark before I would believe the other fellow."

EVERY DISCUSSION
Councillor Dr. H. E. Clark entered the discussion at this point, and said, "I don't think it's necessary to take a report of the Street Committee and wander all over the town the way that has been done — I've been waiting for a meeting of this street committee ever since I've been on it."

Councillor Wood (chairman of the street committee): "Who put you on it?"

Councillor Clark: "regardless of who put me on it I'm on the street committee, and I expect to attend all meetings that are called for the street committee, and I believe I have to the present time which has been none. I do think that your committee report here, as you have been asked to give, would be a report of the street committee. Other remarks should be reserved for the time at the end of the meeting."

Councillor Wood: "That's what you think?"

During an exchange of words in which more than one voice participated at the same time, making it impossible to understand what was being said, Mayor Currie wrapped his gavel in a vigorous attempt to restore order, announcing that there were parliamentary rules of procedure to govern the conduct of the council meeting, and requested Councillor Wood to resume his seat.

DETERMINED TO SPEAK
Councillor Wood refused to comply with the Mayor's order, and said, "No, I am going to speak right now."

Continuing, Councillor Wood said, "You (Mayor Currie) asked us if anyone wished to change committees. I wanted to be changed. He (Councillor Clark) was on a committee. You changed him and didn't say anything about it — understand anything — you wouldn't change me."

Mayor Currie: "I placed him

(Councillor Clark) on your committee and I have no apologies to make for it."

Councillor Wood: "Yea, why didn't you tell me you placed him on the committee..."

Councillor Elmer Newson entered the debate at this point to say that "as far as extra pay for the firemen, we plan to have a meeting in the very near future. I am only new on this department and if there is anything that should be done I will guarantee it will be done, but there is no need of getting hot under the collar about it."

Councillor Wood: "It's time it was done long ago."

Councillor Newson: "Well what time did we have to do it? I didn't know anything about this extra time for the firemen. I have only been chairman of this committee for about a month."

OTHER REPORTS
Councillor Robert Dewar, in his report as chairman of the Water and Sewerage Committee recalled the services of several men in the former Water and Sewerage Commission for the 48 years it existed before being taken over by the Town Council.

Councillor Dewar said that it was not for personal reasons that he voted against the appointment of Mr. R. S. Hinton, J.C., as magistrate for the town. He realized Magistrate Hinton was well qualified for the position. He said his objection was based on the salary of $1,500 being paid, and said that if the position was worth this much then the town owed retired Magistrate E. H. Strong a lot of money for the 26 years he carried out those duties for $450 a year.

Alberton Tax Rates Will Remain Unchanged This Year

Mayor Herbert Mathews presided and all councillors were in attendance for the regular meeting of Alberton Town Council last night.

Tax rates for 1958, approved at a special meeting, will remain the same as last year 35 cents per $100.00. License fees were laid down as follows: non resident fruit and vegetable peddlers $5.00 non resident meat peddlers $50.00 non resident bar and canteen operators $20.00; dogs $3.00; female dogs $10.00; insurance companies $10.00; banks $100.00; oil companies $50.00.

Correspondence included a letter from the Maritime Electric Company advising that a decrease had been made in the cost of street lights. A 100-watt bulb will now cost the town $23.00 per year instead of $23.80.

Some considerable time was spent in discussing problems in connection with policing the town. The police report showed two arrests for drunkenness, 2 highway Traffic Act, one automobile act, 2 juveniles reported, 2 impaired driving.

Clayton Travers, chairman of the Fire Dept. committee, reported the fire fighting equipment in A1 condition. The sum of $25.00 had been received from the C.N. Railways for the attendance of the Alberton brigade at a fire in a reefer car at St. Louis.

The purchase of a goulding for the combined use of the Fire Dept., Jail and Town Hall was discussed and left for the building committee to get the necessary information and report.
