MR. AND MRS. SHERMAN SANDERSON

Father Of Bride Conducts Ceremony In City Church

A wedding of local interest took place in the First Pentecostal Church on June 28, 1962 when Marlene Jay, elder daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Quincy Stairs of Charlottetown became the bride of Sherman Raymond, son of Mrs. William Sanderson and the late Mr. Sanderson of Midgell, P.E.I.

The wedding ceremony was conducted by Rev. Quincy Stairs, father of the bride.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. Albert Stairs. She looked charming in a dress of white nylon organza and chantilly lace over taffeta. Her three-tier waist length wedding veil was caught up with a pearl studded crown and she carried a cascade of red sweetheart roses.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Sharon Stairs, who wore a gown of mauve organza with white accessories. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Ira Sanderson of Midgell.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride for relatives of the families.

Immediately following this the young couple left for a short honeymoon trip to points of interest in the Maritimes. For travelling the bride wore a two-piece dress of aqua and white with white accessories.

A very happy occasion was celebrated at Darnley when a well known and highly respected Malpeque couple marked the 55th anniversary of their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ramsay were married on July 10th, 1907 by the Rev. A.D. Stirling, Presbyterian minister at the time.

Mrs. Ramsay, the former Lilly Ann Cousins, was born at Burlington and is in her 80th year. Regardless of age and infirmities caused by arthritis she has retained her jovial spirit and quick wit, and by pursuing her favorite hobby, reading, keeps well informed.

Mr. Ramsay, born 85 years ago at Malpeque, proved to be a successful farmer, and operated one of the best farms in Malpeque, until his retirement nineteen years ago. Afterwards both continued with their hobby of gardening and caring for the flowers about their home. About one year ago Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay moved to the home of their son-in-law and only daughter, Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur MacKay, where they were at home to friends and relatives on this anniversary.

on the front verandah this evening.

"Yes" he agreed, "We got a nice lot baled. And he added with a grin "enough saved to the mow to feed the goats through the winter!"

A passable hay-day this was. And a Monday in a brand new week.

Until tomorrow — — Diary — Good-night.....

ELLEN'S DIARY

Five Year Old Chap Has Busy And Interesting Days

This afternoon, when the affairs of the haying drew us to the barnyard to watch bundles of it being lifted by the hayfork from the wagon to a mow, Alex was our companion — Presently, we would go on (a visit and talk with the white bunnies that occupy a warm corner in his heart, and whose faithful "herdsman" he is. We see him patter barefoot through the dewfall these mornings, bringing them breakfast: A small sandpail of broken grain from a bin in the barn. ("Actually" Mack will say "he takes enough to feed a good-sized calf!")

This is, of course, not fed at one time. Only the required handfuls before the little pail is hung on a high nail in the hutch, to be handy for later meals of the day. He drew an ecstatic breath. "Well" he smiled "Granddaddy can say what he likes about it, but we've had great luck with our kitten-crop this year!"

This afternoon, bundle after bundle of hay lifted from the wagon to contact the carrier at the gable, before disappearing within the barn.

"Do you like to watch?" we inquired.

Alex shook his head. "No" he said quietly.

"And why not?"

"Because it's bringing the winter-time nearer. And I like summer best."

"Ah ha, they're into it now!" Papa Starling smiled this morning. "If you were up on this lookout, you could see them baling hay, just over the hilltop — and getting on with it nicely!"

We evened the hem of the tablecloth we had spread to make for "truer" ironing — How pretty the new day was with the sun over all! Pansy faces smiled in the border. Against the house, the honeysuckle vine, reaching up toward the low eave, flowered in quaint blossoms.

"Oh dear me!" we could hear Mama Starling fuss indoors. "What an exasperating one you are for a husband-standing there a-talking like that! A fine way that to be starting off the new week, I would say!"

"So all went well at the haying today" we commented to Mack, come to a rockingchair the proud lady who contributed a share toward bringing a company of game-chicks from the shell. So that altogether, for a five year chap, his are interesting and busy days.

This morning an unexpected happening befell. When we came to the back verandah, we found, one of the barn-cats lying there, nursing a pair of pale gray kittens, face turned toward the sunrise, purring a tune to them in a picture of motherly content. Alex came running at the news of it.

"Where did you keep them hidden so long?" he questioned her— "And what did you think when you saw them?" he asked us. "Were your surprised? Yes" he nodded. He drew an ecstatic breath. "Well" he smiled "Granddaddy can say what he likes about it, but we've had great luck with our kitten-crop this year!"

IDA BAILEY ALLEN

Time-Saving Cookery Is Boon To Modern Women

"THE BIGGEST time-saver in modern cookery is refrigeration," observed the Chef. "With a refrigerator temperature of 38 degrees to 40 degrees F., and careful covering of food to protect the flavor, many entrees can be cooked in double quantity and kept safely refrigerated 48 hours or more.

"Regardez, par example, the cooking of chicken, now a gourmet meat inside the budget. It takes no more time, effort and fuel to boil or bake at once 2 three and one-half-pound broilers than it does to cook one.

BASE FOR TWO MEALS

"The basic meat for two entrees is then already prepared —one chicken to use the same day, the other to cool, wrap loosely in foil and refrigerate, ready to transform 48 hours later into a fricassee, a deep-dish chicken pie, an a la King, a curry — recipe tomorrow— a fine chicken salad bowl or a cold platter.

"The skin of today's boiled broiler-fryer is so tender it can be used when making hot dishes. But if the chicken is to be used cold, the skin should be removed."

JELLIED LOAF

"For a warm day dinner, Chef," I put in, "I suggest a jellied chicken - vegetable loaf popular for years at a Fifth Avenue restaurant. Make at least six hours ahead to allow refrigeration-time for firming.

"For faster setting, use individual molds such as five-ounce custard cups and refrigerate four hours."

Measurements level; recipes for 6

JELLIED CHICKEN-VEGETABLE LOAF

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1¾ cups boiling chicken bouillon
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup cooked green peas
1 cup cooked diced green beans
½ cup sliced red radishes
¾ cup fine shredded seeded cucumber or new cabbage
2 cups medium - chopped cooked chicken meat
Mayonnaise piquante
Lettuce

Note: Use ¾ teaspoon instant chicken bouillon to each cup water to insure a clear gelatin.

Stir gelatin into cold water. Stir into boiling chicken bouillon; cool.

Add salt, prepared vegetables and chicken meat. Refrigerate 30 minutes or until beginning to thicken. Stir to distribute ingredients.

Transfer to lightly-oiled pan (8"x9"). Refrigerate 6 hours or until firm.

Unmold onto chilled platter.

Garnish with mayonnaise piquante in nests of lettuce.

TOMORROW'S DINNER

Hot Succotash in Bowls
Toast-at-Table
Jellied Chicken
Vegetable Loaf
Potato Salad
Snappy Mayonnaise
Raspberries or Blueberries with Sliced Bananas and Cream
Hot or Iced Coffee
Tea
Milk

Our menu starts with hot succotash in bowls. Why? To add more protein to the meal by using milk in cooking the succotash and through its warmth to activate digestion and offset the shock of too much chilled food.

OLD- FASHIONED SUCCOTASH

2¼ cups milk, heated
3 cups fresh green corn kernels
1½ cups cooked cranberry greens, green limas or dried kidney or lima beans
1½ tablespoons room - soft butter or margarine
1½ tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Heat milk in double boiler. Add corn kernels. Cook 15 minutes; add beans.

Smooth-mix butter and flour; stir in 2 tablespoons of the hot milk: return to cooking corn. Cook 5 to 10 minutes, stirring occasionally, or until thickened. Add seasonings.

THE CHEF'S SNAPPY MAYONNAISE

Combine and stir together 1 cup mayonnaise, 1-3 cup chili sauce, ½ tablespoon horse-radish mustard, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 teaspoons lemon juice and salt to taste.
