LETTERS TO THE EDITOR. THE SCOTT ACT IN SOUTHS. Sir,—I see by yesterday's EXAMINER that the Stipendiary Magistrate for King's County returned from Souths without holding any Scott Act trials.

THE WAR IN CHINA.

In an article commenting on the Chinese-Japanese naval engagement, the Westminster Gazette says: "We observe, speaking generally, both sides engaged in verifying the theories of Captain Mahan—the Japanese consciously, as they are great students of that eminent authority; the Chinese unwittingly, and may be fairly supposed, reluctantly. The Chinese have the bigger navy, but have been unable to concentrate it upon points of paramount strategic importance."

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "Admiral Ting made the fatal mistake of trying to convoy troops before he had met and broken the enemy's fleet. Unless the troops landed at Yalu river are relieved from the sea, they are irretrievably lost."

The Daily News, in an article on the naval battle of the mouth of the Yalu river, says: "We withhold our estimate of the consequences of the battle owing to the fact that the accounts of the fighting are so meagre to enable us to determine the result. It is our opinion, however, that if General Yamagato captures Corea he will lose it again unless the Japanese fleet gains command of the sea."

The Standard speaks in the highest praise of the tactics of the Japanese admiral in securing a position of rare advantage and expresses the opinion that it is exceedingly unlikely that China will recover her position in Corea for a long time to come if ever she recovers the course of war. Chinese naval, like military leaders, appear to have formed their plans without the smallest appreciation of the elementary principles of warfare.

The Times says: "Unless the general result at Yalu is wholly different from what it appears to be, troops which were hastily landed must be in a helpless state. An alleged Chinese victory would be likely to favorably influence the course of war. Chinese naval, like military leaders, appear to have formed their plans without the smallest appreciation of the elementary principles of warfare."

The Japanese war loss, the lists of which closed September 20th, receive subscriptions covering three times the amount of the loss.

Field Marshal Count Vaganata, commanding the forces in Corea, is marching with 45,000 Japanese troops on Moukden from the southeast. The Chinese troops that were landed at the mouth of the Han river before yesterday's sea fight, have been captured. The treasure captured at Ping Yang amounted to $3,000,000.

MONKENS, upon which the victorious Japanese troops are now marching, is the capital of the three provinces into which Manchuria is divided. Its population numbers 200,000. The main city wall is about six miles in circumference and is strengthened with towers and bastions. It is 35 or 40 feet high, and 15 feet wide on top and built entirely of brick.

At Springfield, Oct 67, on the 14th inst. of meningitis, John Alexander Nicholson, son of the late Allen and Margaret Nicholson, aged 40 years. Deceased was a man of exemplary character and was highly esteemed by his very many friends and acquaintances, as evidenced by the very large number that attended his burial, being the largest funeral cortege—over seventy carriages—ever seen in that section of the Province. Beautiful floral wreaths were placed on the coffin by Mrs. M. G. Nicholson, of Clifton, New London. He leaves two sisters and six brothers, besides numerous relatives and friends to mourn his premature death. His end was peaceful, he died trusting fully in the merits of a "crucified and risen Redeemer."

A great difference exists between a poorly made garment and a well-made one. This fact we want to impress upon the public. Our work has been speaking loudly for years, and we still continue to speak when we say that for values and workmanship we acknowledge no rival.

"Of the things which men can make or do here below, by far the most momentous, wonderful and worthy are the things we call books."—CARLYLE.

Today rounds up our first year's business as booksellers. The past year's experience assures us that a Bookstore which is kept up to the times will be well patronized by the citizens generally, and it will be our aim to keep our shelves well filled with the best of the old and new in literature.

Our Seed business, which we have conducted for fourteen years, and is the largest of its kind in the Maritime Provinces, will have the same attention as usual. Each line of business is conducted as a separate department, and receives its full share of attention, while, by dividing the expenses between the two lines, we are enabled to do with less profits in each, and give lower prices to our customers both in Books and Seeds.

We buy for cash from first hands; no other store can undersell us. None shall excel us in prompt and courteous attention to customers.
