THE PROFESSOR'S THEORY
BY JAMES RAYMOND PEREY
Copyright, 1899, by the Author

In a few minutes the diver gave a signal and was hauled up. He brought up with him a piece of rock about ten inches in diameter. Fosdick looked at it keenly, but only for a moment, and then shook his head. The diver went down again. The detective sat in the boat patiently chewing gum. While he sat there Professor Gilman came down the path from the observatory.

"Good morning, Mr. Fosdick!" he called out. "Are you fishing?"
"No, not exactly," returned the detective.
The professor glanced at the surface paraphernalia of the diver. "Oh, lost something in the river, did you?" He went on down the path to the pier and entered a boat. As he was rowing away he said:
"By the way, if your man while he's hunting happens to stumble on that meteorite that we thought fell somewhere round here, I wish you'd let me have it. The university would be glad to get it."

By way of reply Fosdick gave a sort of grunt. Before long the diver came up again. This time he brought with him something that instantly caught the attention of the detective. It was a slender bar of steel about 15 inches long. Fosdick wiped the water from it and carefully did the bar up in a piece of brown paper that he took from his pocket. Once more the diver went down, and the next time that he ascended he handed the detective a piece of rock, which the latter seized eagerly. The fragment was roughly pyramidal in shape and weighed not over ten pounds. Fosdick spoke a few words to the diver, who once more descended. The detective then sprang ashore with the rock in his hand. Ascending the path he placed one side of the fragment against the solid rock at the spot where a piece had been broken off. He had not been mistaken. It fitted it exactly. The fragment in his hand had without doubt been broken off at that spot.
Looking across the river, Fosdick saw Professor Gilman moving about near the west pier.
"I wonder what he's doing over there," mused the detective. Presently the professor disappeared up the road leading to Jackson, leaving his boat fastened to the pier.
Returning to the boat the detective found that the diver had brought up three or four more fragments of rock. After examining these he signalled to the diver to come to the surface, and then they rowed away toward Jackson. When they had gone some distance, the detective saw Professor Gilman returning from the west shore, but he was too far away to speak to them.

CHAPTER VI
THE DETECTIVE'S NARRATIVE.
The next morning a little company was gathered in the office of the sheriff. Fosdick's theory regarding Burke's death was perfected, and a few of those Expert bicyclists have already succeeded in riding a single wheel, or unicycle, for short distances. In years to come the unicycle may become as common a mode of locomotion as the bicycle. Only a few years ago people would have laughed at the idea that all the world would shortly be awheel.

It is not in mechanics alone that the world is making rapid progress. Not many years ago all physicians pronounced consumption an incurable disease. To-day a large proportion of people recognize that it is a distinctly curable disease. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures 98 per cent of all cases of consumption. It has stood the test for thirty years. Thousands of people who were given up by their doctors, and had lost all hope owe their lives to this marvelous remedy. It acts directly on the lungs, driving out all impurities and disease germs. It restores the appetite, corrects all disorders of the digestion, strengthens the weak stomach, makes the assimilation of the life-giving elements of the food perfect, invigorates the liver, purifies the blood and tones the nerves. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It does not make flabby flesh like cod liver oil, but the firm, muscular tissue of absolute health. An honest dealer will not offer you an inferior substitute for the sake of a little added profit.

Miss Mary Whitman, of East Dickinson, Franklin Co., N. Y., writes: "For nearly ten months I have had a bad cough, and instead of getting better, it grew worse. I was said to have consumption. I tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and when the second bottle was empty I had no cough and was cured."
Good temper is largely a matter of good health, and good health is largely a matter of healthy activity of the bowels. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are safe, sure and speedy, and once taken do not have to be taken always. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. Druggists sell them.

completing his purpose. These things convinced me that Chapin was not the murderer, whoever else might be. He was on the west side of the river. He had no boat, and, so far as I have been able to discover, no available means for crossing the river were at hand. No one has come forward with a story of having carried him over the river that night, as would be likely if such a thing had really occurred. We must remember that the assumption of Chapin being the murderer is based on his sudden quarrel with Burke. Between the time of that quarrel and the death of Burke there was no time for Chapin to enter into a conspiracy with a second person for murdering the man he had thus suddenly grown to feel enmity for. Without an accomplice it would have been next to impossible for him to have murdered Burke, left things as they were afterward found and been back at his boarding place at the time Mrs. Meadows saw him enter.

Eczema on the Scalp

Some of the cures effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment are more like miracles than anything else. The case recorded here was one of the worst ever brought to the attention of Toronto's best physicians, and when doctors gave up all hope of recovery Dr. Chase's Ointment was successful in producing a perfect cure.
Mr. James Scott, 136 Wright Ave., Toronto, states: "My boy Tom, aged ten, was for nearly three years afflicted with a bad form of Eczema of the scalp, which was very unsightly and resisted all kinds of remedies and doctor's treatment. His head was in a terrible state. We had to keep him from school, and at times his head would bleed, and the child would scream with agony. For two and a half years we battled with it in vain, but at last found a cure in Dr. Chase's Ointment. About five boxes were used. The original sores dried up, leaving the skin in its normal condition. To say it is a pleasure to testify to the wonderful merits of Dr. Chase's Ointment is putting it very mildly."

Artificial Teeth on Metal Plates

A dentist who knows his business, and one that has any regard for his patients will always advise them to have a metal plate.
PROF. MELVILLE B. BUCKLEY,
Instructor Boston Dental College, Boston Mass

In view of the vast amount of injury done to the mouths of wearers of rubber or vulcanite plates, by the retention of undue heat, owing to the non conductivity of rubber, and as aluminum is now so cheaply produced, and making as it does a rigid, light, clean, unobjectionable plate there seems no reason why any person should wear a rubber or vulcanite plate. Not only this, but better results in fit and adhesion are obtained in difficult cases, than in the use of rubber.

We recommend a metal plate either of Gold, Platinum, Aluminum.
It is a conductor of heat and cold, it is non irritating, and is thinner, lighter, and stronger than any other plate.
We have testimonials from persons for whom we have made metal plates—not one would wear an ordinary plate again. You can have your impression taken, and a metal plate made same day, fully guaranteed because we make them ourselves, and know all about the material used. Call and see specimens of our work. Every piece of work done by us must give entire satisfaction to the patient, else we will not allow it to leave our office.
