MacLeans' New Lucky Dollar Store Opens At Winsloe

A new and spacious Lucky Dollar store, operated by Bill and Heath MacLean, was opened this week at Winsloe. The business was originally founded 32 years ago by the father of the MacLeans brothers, now deceased, and the sons took over management of the business in 1949.

TIMELY NOTES ON FUR FARMING

Hudson's Bay Company's sale of general furs held in Montreal last week showed a surprisingly strong interest in foxes. Silver foxes were selling at $22 a pelt, recalling the good years of 1944-46. A price of $61 for white fox skins, also was the highest in years. The sales room calculated the advance on silvers as an average of 36 per cent over June levels.

The company quotes results as follows: "Silver fox 70 per cent sold, strong compared to June; red fox 82 per cent sold well; cross fox 96 per cent sold well; white fox 100 per cent sold at strong levels. In white fox the top string went for $61 and the buyers were Arum and Cohen, New York. Principal prices were: miscellaneous foxes (4.225) top $22 for full silvery and $21.50 for silvery. Half silvery sold up to $15, pearls $20-50, platinum $16.25, white marked $15 to $20, red foxes were $10.75 to $12.25 for Eastern extra large.

Rancher mink offering consisted of 6,490 skins. Standard dark males sold $24.50, pastel $18.50 to $28 and gunmetal $21 to $34. Sapphires fetched $16.50 to $21 for Stewart males and silverblues sold from $15.50 to $17.75.

SALE DATES: The sales dates for the 1959-60 season of Danish Fur Sales, Copenhagen, have been announced by their New York agent. They start on November 8 to 12 and similar sales will be held in January, March and April. A total of 796,000 mink is to be offered at these sales.

British Election Move Is Seen In September

By ALAN HARVEY, Canadian Press Staff Writer. The first move toward an October election in Britain is expected this month. As the excitement of President Eisenhower's visit fades away in the coming weeks, political attention will be fastened on Downing Street and Balmoral Castle. The strong expectation is that Prime Minister Macmillan will journey to Balmoral to ask the Queen for a royal proclamation dissolving Parliament and paving the way for the first country-wide voting test of strength since May 26, 1955.

A minimum of about three weeks is necessary between the proclamation and polling day, generally expected to be in mid-October. Dates most often mentioned are Oct. 15, Oct. 22 and Oct. 29. Nomination papers must be delivered not later than eight days after the proclamation. After that, polling day must be within nine days, not counting Sundays, Good Fridays, Christmas or August bank holidays.

MAY PREFER MINIMUM. Usually about six weeks elapse between dissolution and the vote. Some political observers say Macmillan may prefer the minimum three-week campaign. He may feel this will enhance the chances of the governing Conservatives, now running appreciably ahead of the opposition Labour party in the opinion polls. An October election would fit neatly between the reciprocal visits of Eisenhower-Nikita Khrushchev. There seems little likelihood that a Big Four summit meeting will take place this year. The new target mentioned here is early 1960.

Fifteen months ago British opinion was nearly unanimous that Labour would win the next election. Now the "malaise of the middle classes," so widely discussed in early 1958, seem to have been dissipated in a general sense of economic well-being, and the Conservatives will rank favorites to win their third straight general election.

Bi-Lingualism Is Now Seen As Need Rather Than Luxury

MONTREAL (CP)—Adelard Savoie, Moncton, N.B., lawyer, says Acadians in New Brunswick have noticed a marked increase of interest in the French language. More and more people across Canada appear to feel that bilingualism is a necessity rather than a luxury, said Mr. Savoie. He addressed a session Tuesday of the annual meeting of the National Federation of Canadian University Students. Among other speakers was Lister Simland, states, while the northern limits of the moccasin is southern Illinois.

The so-called "puff adder" is nothing but the hog-nosed snake and is definitely not "poisonous," he said. "The copperhead does not occur north of the New England states, while the northern limits of the moccasin is southern Illinois."

Reds' Refusal No Surprise

OTTAWA (CP)—A Vancouver report that Russia has refused to allow British Columbia's radical Freedomite Doukhobors to settle in Siberia caused little surprise in government circles here Wednesday. Soviet Ambassador Amasap Aroutunian could not be reached for comment on the report. The Justice department and the external affairs department both said they had no definite knowledge of the Soviet decision.

It had been clear for many months, however, that plans had fit a snag. For one thing, the Freedomite leadership was evidently far more strongly in favor of the move than the rank-and-file. For another, Russia has never given any official indication that it would accept the Doukhobors, though it allowed Freedomite delegation last year to inspect this had aroused the interest of their English-speaking fellow citizens.

In describing British Columbia, Mr. Sinclair said the people there are not too concerned about the problems of other provinces. British Columbians felt separated from the rest of Canada because of the Rockies.

Relations between Ontario and Quebec and between English- and French-speaking Canadians let British Columbians rather cold. They were not afraid to accept university grants from the federal government because of fear there was a string attached. They felt there was no string long enough to reach from Ottawa to British Columbia.

Ottawa was farther away than the moon as far as British Columbians were concerned.

possible settlement after in by... The Vancouver report said the Soviet ambassador told Freedomite leaders several weeks ago that Russia did not want them because of the sec's irresponsible conduct in Canada and because their admittance might endanger Russia's growing trade with this country.

Tax Board Rules Profits Taxable

OTTAWA (CP)—The Income Tax Appeal Board has ruled that the profit on a stock broker's personal purchases and sales of stock are taxable as business profits. Board chairman Cecil L. Snyder made the ruling, announced Wednesday, in appeals made by R. C. C. Leile, J. M. Dillon and N.A. Jacques, directors of Cattle and McCarty Limited, Calgary brokerage company.

Evidence given at the hearing in Calgary was that they purchased, for their own accounts, stock in two companies at below-market prices, then sold them at a big profit. The three men agreed that their profits were taxable under a section of the Income Tax Act under which a benefit conferred by a company on a shareholder is taxable.
