CAROLS SUNG—A large crowd gathered around the Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas tree in front of the Provincial Building on Saturday night when about forty members of the Baptist Girls and the Kirk Gallery Chorus sang carols under the direction of Miss Lillian MacKenzie. Tonight at 8 p. m., weather permitting, there will be a concert by massed choirs from the City churches under the direction of Mr. Stanley Lancaster.

ENTERTAINED BY CHOIR—St. Joseph's Choir visited the boarders of the Sacred Heart Home last evening and sang right into their hearts with their sweet Christmas Carols. The Superior and all expressed their deep appreciation of the thoughtfulness and good will of the young ladies of the choir.

Y. P. U. SONG SERVICE—Trinity Young People's Union held their regular Sunday song service last evening in the social hall following their annual candle-lighting service. Rev. Mr. Irwin opened the programme by asking the members of the Young People's choir to be present at the Christmas Eve church service at 11:15. The group, led by Leith Stetson with music capably supplied by Mrs. Keith Rogers, sang several carols. Mr. Irwin then introduced the guest artists of the Special Christmas programmes, Phyllis Coffin who sang "The Little Lord Jesus", a quartet, Doris Clark, Helen Hyde, Joyce Procter and Joan Rogerson, who sang, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night", Barbara Rupert and Nancy MacNevin who sang "The Coventry Carol", Ivan Robinson who sang "The Birthplace of a King", and Gaylene Craig who sang "On Little One Sweet, Oh Little One Mild", and "Oh Holy Night". The enjoyable evening was brought to a close by bowing heads and singing one verse of "Silent Night", followed by a short prayer. Miss Craig was accompanied by Louise Cox at the piano.

Strange But True

By F. H. MacArthur

The first thanksgiving held in North America and the first Christian sermon preached and the first celebration of the Holy Communion was conducted in 1578, on the shores of Newfoundland. The earliest record of any observance of a similar service in North America was held by the Popham Colony, on the coast of Maine in August, 1607.

The mistletoe is unique among plants in that its shoots extend downward as well as upward, giving the tree an odd appearance with these little tufts sticking above and below the bare branches in winter. The little white berries which make their appearance in November are filled with a semi-fluid substance which is very sticky. See any encyclopedia.

A curious leap-year superstition is still to be met with in some parts of New England, and that is that in leap-years the beans grow only on one side of the pod—the wrong side.

Rossini, the musical composer, was born on February 29, 1792. When he was 72, he celebrated what he chose to call his 18th birthday. But strange but true, this enumerating of his natal day was not correct. Why? Because he'd forgotten that the year 1800 was not a leap-year. Consequently his first birthday was in 1796 and his second not until 1804, making February 29, 1864, the 17th and not the 18th birthday.

The letter "L" is the beginning of the five greatest words in the English language. They are: Lord, light, life, law and love. Indeed, these five form the foundations of the whole universe.

What is it that man wants most? The witch doctors of the jungles with their barbaric remedies for disease, the thousands of doctors in our country, the million and a half hospital nurses in more than 6,500 hospitals, leave no doubt as to what man wants most. He wants life, even if he is so handicapped that life can be only a shadow of what he had expected; yet he wants life.

There's a queer little church in a Pennsylvania town, which was built entirely by George Taylor. It took George six years to complete the task. This church is 60 by 38 feet, with a 60 foot tower.

According to scientists, every one of us has an amazing stock of energy to draw from: comparable to a 165 horse-power motor but hardly ever using 85 horse-power. The value of this energy is estimated to be worth 96 billion dollars!

The kite flying festival of China is as old as the hills. On the 9th day of the 9th month in the Chinese calendar, the Celestials of all ages go to the hills and fly curious kites of all shapes and colors. In some mysterious way the kites which hang over their homes, when the strings are cut the kites like the scapegoat of old, are believed to bear away among the clouds the evils incurred by wrong-doings.

Elsie Munroe, the timid cashier of a Southern Transit company, was alone at her desk late one night when a masked bandit entered the door. He pointed his gun at her and demanded the day's receipts. Elsie looked him straight in the eye and smiled. "The receipts have been deposited." The would-be bandit believed her and beat it.

A new method of curing bacon has been devised in the U. S. A. A machine presses 100 needles into the bacon sides and curing pickle is forced into the meat. The new process cures bacon in 48 hours.

Frank Noulan, Sr., of Paradise Hill, Sask., has a mounted policeman carved from a cedar log 9 feet long and 16 inches in diameter—all done by wooden chisels and hand saws. The wooden officer stands on a five foot platform and rotates by the wind. At each turn he salutes.

James B. MacLeod of Malaga Mines, N. S., was one day sitting beside his hunting camp waiting for the newly lighted fire to warm up. Soon he saw a mouse emerge from the grate holding in her mouth a tiny youngster. She dropped it on the floor and returned to the stove for a second offspring. By the time she had made her 5th trip into the stove to rescue her young, the hair was almost burned from her body. But she saved her babies!

Behold The Day

Close to another Christmas Day With its faithful devotion to all, Its load of peace, good will and cheer Outweighs a world of war and strife; It brings to man the reason why Christ came to earth—and then to die.

To grasp this great and mighty plan Trust not to scientific fame, Nor yield to dreamy heights of thought And miss the glories at your feet; Keep well within the reach of one Who came to earth as God's own son.

A revelation hard to teach This stumbling world of doubting faith, Of coined contentment in their way That unsafe remedy of life; God's only son, the gift to man Was not the secret of their plan.

We'll join the march of Christmas day In the spirit of olden time, The angels, wisemen, shepherds too Will fill our thoughts with hope renewed; Thus—Bethlehem's history of old Long since, by sacred volumes told.

—D. A. Louise Birch.
