Testimonial From Duluth, Minnesota.

DEAR MRS. ROSS.—Having tested your "MAGIC HEALER," I wish to express my gratitude to you by this testimonial, which you can use, if you think it will assist you in selling it. Having cut my hand severely with a chisel, the corner of the chisel having entered the palm of my hand, making a long and deep cut, I applied your "MAGIC HEALER" at once, and after three applications I was able to go to work, and in three days the cut was healed up.
Yours truly,
ALONZO H. LAVERS.

Mr. A. J. JOHNSON:—
Dear Sir,—For a number of years I have been suffering from indigestion and its consequent troubles. Some months since, however, I was advised to try your "Everybody's Pills," and am happy to say I am now free from any symptoms of indigestion. I regard "Everybody's Pills" as a thoroughly reliable Family Medicine, mild in their action, and having no unpleasant after-effects so common to such remedies, and I would, with confidence, recommend all who have suffered as I have to try "Everybody's Pills."
Yours very cordially,

Sister Rose Gertrude's Mission to the Lepers.

THE history of Father Damien's noble life, and the various reports concerning lepers from India and the Cape, have stirred up public feeling for these unfortunate, resulting in the establishment in England of a national fund for their benefit. At the dinner held in aid of this undertaking, the Prince of Wales referred to Miss Amy Fowler, henceforth to be known as Sister Rose Gertrude, and her intended work. Born at Bath twenty-seven years ago, Miss Fowler, who is the daughter of the Rev. F. W. Fowler, a Church of England clergyman, joined the Roman Catholic Church eight years ago, and shortly after resolved to study with a view to the step she has recently taken. In reply to an enquiry as to the origin of her desire to undertake such a noble work, put by a representative of a contemporary, Miss Fowler said:—"I have had it in my mind many years, long before Father Damien's illness and death drew special attention to the Molokai lepers. Seven years ago, shortly after I became a Roman Catholic, I wished to go, but I was too young then. Now I have the necessary balafast and experience, and am able to decide for myself. When young one doesn't know one's mind, and my friends did not wish me. It had always been my wish and desire to do some of God's work on earth, into which I could throw my whole being, where there was scope for the fullest self sacrifice, and where I could follow Him who said "greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends." "But truly," she went on with a bashful, puzzled look, "I do not think it is at all interesting to anybody besides my own friends to hear anything about me. I am a very unimportant person, and if you publish anything about me, I shall feel like the Pharisee standing in the market place, and that would be far from what I wish to be. It seems like hypocrisy to make me appear in the light of one who makes a great sacrifice, for it is no sacrifice to me. It is only the fulfilment of a wish I have had for many years. If, as you say, it may draw more sympathy and attention to the lepers, I must have no objection, but promise me to say nothing until I am gone." Sister Rose Gertrude has learned all the duties of an efficient sick nurse, and she holds her certificates. She especially applied herself to the cases of leprosy, of which there are always a few in the Paris hospitals, and at the Exhibition there last year she examined with interest the limbs and heads of Hawaiian lepers, which were such as repelled most spectators. She studied under M. Pasteur, and has adopted his theory as to the micro-organism from which the leprosy arises, being identical with that found in bi-circular consumption. She has faith in bi-circular of mercury as an antiseptic which she hopes may be efficacious in averting infection, relieving advanced cases, and probably curing those which have made but slight progress. Like all brave spirits, the sister is unconscious of her own heroism. Her own risk is to her an entirely secondary consideration, only recognized enough to express her intention of carefully using all precautions against infection. She will be matron of the hospital founded by Father Damien at Kalawao, on the island of Molokai, lately one of the most wretched spots on earth, now awakening to hope and activity, and shining as a centre of that spiritual life which kindles in every heart an unwavering spark of admiring sympathy. Miss Amy Fowler will have a cottage, close to the hospital, for her residence, and will have under her a staff of native nurses. There are several Sisters of Mercy, from the Franciscan Convent in New York, working in the settlement; but Sister Rose Gertrude is the first lady who has left our British shores for this noble mission of mercy, and has been with some difficulty persuaded to receive a salary from the Hawaiian government, which she means to devote to providing relaxation and amusement for her suffering charges. Though grieving for the affectionate sorrow of her family and friends, who cannot but feel they will, in all probability, see her rosy face and firm little figure again no more. She feels that a call has come to her which she must not disregard.—Great Thoughts.

Canadian Live Stock Journal.

So completely and minutely does the "Canadian Live Stock and Farm Journal" cover the field before it, that each number is in itself a complete book, the contents of which are up to date and practical. The November number is frontispiced with a large engraving of a pig of the Yorkshire breed, which is exciting interest amongst our farmers. Besides innumerable short and spicy editorials bearing on seasonable topics, there are many complete articles on such timely subjects as "The Care of Live Stock between Summer and Winter," "Disqualified Stallions," and many others of a similar nature. "Through the Winter with the Flock," is a practical article giving the best methods of management, care and feeding of the flock during the winter months, the most trying time on sheep. The Southdown breed of sheep is described by a contributor, and their good qualities, especially their splendid mutton, fine wool and hardiness, are especially emphasized. D. McCrae, of Guelph, writing on "Sheep in Canada," thoroughly discusses all phases of this question, and points out particularly that the McKinley Bill is more favorable to shipping of lambs to the American market than the former tariff, as now lambs are only 75c. per head, whereas formerly the duty was 20 per cent, and hence on a five dollar lamb it was $1.00 formerly. Swine husbandry comes in for a large share of attention, the most noticeable articles being "Profits in Swine Feeding," "Facts About Pig Feeding," and "Hogs For the Market," in which a successful feeder, S. C. Brown, of Whitby, tells the Journal's readers how he made a large profit in selling ten hogs for one hundred dollars this past season. "Agricola" treats of the interesting question of breeding saddle horses, and a correspondent from Germany writes an exceedingly interesting contribution on the "Oldenburg Coach Horse." The editorial on "Flax Culture will attract attention. It is stated that an easy way to secure a good feed for stock is to sow a pint of flax seed along with the peas and oats which it is the intention to feed to the stock. A seasonal article also appears on "Destroying the Wheat Midge," in which it is advised that care should be taken to prevent the ravages of this insect next season, by destroying all the chaff heaps that are left by the threshers from affected crops. From all parts of Canada come reports from correspondents that add not a little to the brightness and utility of the number. "Comfort in Country Homes" is an able illustrated article from a lady contributor. In the new department, "Around the Council Table," the questions discussed have reference to the probabilities and causes of fires originating from natural causes. Prof. Shutt, of Ottawa Experimental Farm, states that quicklime around buildings is not an infrequent cause, and that he would advise farmers to salt all damp hay before putting it in the bay. Prof. S. M. Babcock also discusses these topics, and agrees in the main with Prof. Shutt. The dairy department is one of unusual interest, as may be noted by the titles of some of the articles, "Cheese Factories and Creameries," "Cream Raising by Dilution," "Selection of Dairy Cows," "Temperature in Churning," "Breeding Dairy Cows," and "Buttermaking," by Miss Amy Barton, teacher in the Dairy School of the Bath and West of England Agricultural Society. The Poultry Department is conducted with enthusiasm. The leading article is a letter from Mr. Curry, of London, Eng., on "Eggs for the British market," written by request, in which it is shown that there is a vast trade there, awaiting Canadian enterprise. Shorter contributions and editorials are "Our Trade in Eggs," "The Moulting Season," "Clover for Poultry," "Characteristics of Different Breeds," and an illustrated article on "Food Box for Poultry." The garden and orchard comes in for its share of attention. Mrs. Annie L. Jap presents some valuable facts about grapes, and Miss Aikens discusses on the topic, "Desirable House Plants."

News Notes.

Queen Emma has taken the oath as regent of Holland.
Severe frost prevails in St. Petersburg, and the river Neva is full of drift ice.
A new mail train is to be put on from New York to Chicago which will run the distance in 24 hours.
Physicians at Berlin are agreed that Dr. Koch's tuberculosis remedy proves effective only in the treatment of mild cases of the disease.
John J. Keeler, the millionaire real estate dealer, of Chicago, has been robbed of a tin box containing over $100,000 worth of deeds, notes, mortgages and other valuable collateral. The box was taken from Mr. Keeler's buggy.
ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little cherub awakes so "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. spl1890dyedvsky1y
NO PLACE LIKE HOME.—A West Cape correspondent informs the Agri-culturist that several young men and women who left their vicinity a few weeks ago for the United States, have returned, finding no place like Prince Edward Island.
Dyspepticure.—Is not a palliative, but a cure; it first relieves, then controls, and finally entirely subdues the irritation and inflammation of the stomach that causes indigestion and dyspepsia.
