Firemen work against time and the rising Ohio River as they reinforce floodwall with sandbags at 8th Street near downtown Louisville, Ky., Wednesday. The river stood at 16 feet above flood stages before noon and was expected to crest at 19 feet on Friday in the most serious flooding since the wall was completed 12 years ago. (AP Wirephoto)

Debating Crown Won By UBC

A team representing the University of British Columbia, debating the resolution "Resolved that education at the university level be federalized in Canada" Tuesday night captured the Dominion Debating Championship at St Dunstan's University.

To take the title, the team of Dennis Erskin and Peter Hyndman in the semi-finals proved that black was white and followed this up in the finals to prove that white was black.

In the closed semi-final debate earlier in the evening, the UBC team defeated the St. Dunstan's team of Colin McMillan and Paul Batchilder. UBC upheld the negative side of the resolution, and moved into the final against Royal Military College, Kingston, who had drawn the bye.

TOSS OF COIN

In the final debate, the toss of the coin dictated that UBC would, in that debate, uphold the affirmative side of the resolution. This means that in the semi-final UBC had proved that the negative side of the resolution was correct, and in the final debate they were required to prove that the affirmative was true.

This, in Colin McMillan's words, is the "crucial test".

RMC, which drew the bye into the final, was represented by U.S. Joel Pope and Kenneth Swan, both in their senior year.

Due to poor travelling conditions, the UBC team was late in arriving and as a result both the semi - final and final were held in the evening.

The government of Prince Edward Island hosted the debaters at a dinner at the Charlottetown Hotel early in the evening and following the debates, the City of Charlottetown was host at a civic reception, also at the Charlottetown Hotel.

The winning UBC team was presented with the MacDonald-Laurier trophy, emblematic of the Dominion Debating Championship and the Canadian Union of Students Trophy, which will remain at the University of British Columbia. In addition, each debater in the finals and semi-finals was presented with an individual Canadian Union of Students Trophy, through Coca-Cola Ltd.

The winning UBC team was presented with the MacDonald Laurier trophy by Mayor A. Wadhen Gaudet of Charlottetown and the Canadian Union of Students-Coca Cola trophies were presented by Joseph A. Whitemore, assistant to the president of Coca Cola Ltd.

Judges for the semi - final were Judge J.S. DesRoches, Gerald R. Foster, QC, and Somerled Trainor. In the final, the judges were Chief Justice Thane A. Campbell, Mr. Justice R.R. Bell and Mayor A. W. Gaudet of Charlottetown.

Kiwanis To Sponsor White Elephant Sale March 16-21

At Monday's night's meeting of the Charlottetown Kiwanis Club at the Charlottetown Hotel it was decided that the White Elephant Sale sponsored by the club will open March 16 in the former site of the Sherwin-Williams Company and continue for a full week.

Members at present are busily engaged in collecting the gifts of unwanted articles in a house to house canvass insamuch as weather will permit but would appreciate any calls to the White Elephant telephone number, 4-4975, to donate articles, a news release by club president, A.E. Richard, reported. These contributions will be picked up as soon as possible, he said, and the donor will be helping support both the Kiwanis and the large number of underprivileged children.

The meeting was chaired by district lieutenant- governor of Kiwanis, Brig. A.W. Rogers, who also spoke briefly on the club's projects.

Committee reports were heard and among those which were more fully discussed was the chocolate bar project.

Boxes of chocolate bars have been distributed by the members for sale to the employees of the various business firms and offices in the city. It was reported that the project to date has been very successful and that it will continue for some weeks yet.

Proceeds from all Kiwanis Club projects go to aid both underprivileged and retarded children.

It was also reported at the meeting that many members have volunteered to attend and supervise the swimming classes being held for the retarded children at the YMCA on Monday mornings.

In addition, the club has agreed to sponsor a number of evenings of entertainment being held this summer on Sunday evenings in the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Theatre.

Legislation Limits Alien Land Holdings

Limiting the amount of land an alien may hold in the province to 10 acres, an amendment to the Real Property Act, was passed in the Legislature Tuesday.

Also, an alien may not take or hold land with a shore frontage exceeding five chains.

Promoter of the bill, Provincial Secretary J. David Stewart, said the legislation was drawn up as it has been found over the past few years a number of lands in the province have been purchased by aliens and held for an unknown purpose. He also pointed out that parts of the province make up "one of the last shorefronts in North America available for sale."

Before amendment, the act stated that an alien could hold up to 200 acres of land in the province and there was no mention of the width of shorefront property that could be held.

Mr. Stewart pointed out that the Lieutenant - Governor - in-Council has power to make exceptions to the rule limiting acreage. "This might be done," he said, "in a case where an alien wants to buy land for development."

Montague RHS Says 'No Dissatisfaction'

MONTAGUE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

Reports of widespread dissatisfaction among teachers of Montague Regional High School resulting in a large number of teachers refusing to agree to return next year, were denied here Wednesday.

Chairman of the School Board Paul Kinzesbury of Dundas said that the Montague school, the largest regional high school in the province, has already signed 32 of 34 teachers needed for next term, and added that a full complement should be signed by Friday.

In a statement given to The Guardian the chairman also stated that "We have also been most fortunate in adding two extra degree teachers to our staff making a total of 15 teachers with one or more degrees. We certainly look forward to a most successful 1964-65 term."

The statement was issued as reports reached this office of teachers quitting and students being suspended in "large numbers."

The high school officials report that only seven students have been suspended. Some of these are repeaters, some have been suspended for breaking disciplinary rules and others have been suspended for skipping classes. In all cases parents have been notified and reasons for suspension stated, it was learned.

The Guardian learned yesterday that at least six and possibly as many as eight teachers will resign and not return next year. None, however, would publicly state their reasons for leaving.
